COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1913. No. 1.

SENATE.

JANUARY 7, 1913, 12 o'clock M.

This being the day and hour fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the General Assembly, the members of the Senate together with the Senators-elect chosen at the last general elecetion held on November 5, 1912, assembled in the Senate chamber.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John M. Reynolds) called the Senate to order at 12 o'clock noon.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountans were brought forth or even the earth and the world were formed, even from everlasting to everlasting, Thou art God. Thy word has been a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path. Thou art the Wonderful, the Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. Thou art the Way, the Truth and the life. We come to Thee at this time seeking the way to the realization of all that is worthy our best effort, noblest character, supreme fidelity, and unquestioned integrity. We come to Thee seeking the truth, life's golden goal. The truth that is in Thee is the Fountain of Eternal Waters of which, if a man drink, he shall never thirst again. Truth is the measure of our life; truth is the standard of our conduct; truth is the criterion of every deed. We come to Thee, because Thou alone hast the words of eternal life. Help us to remember that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. Help us to so order our lives that they shall be the expression of those higher purposes, even the higher purposes of God. Be Thou the presiding Spirit within these legislative chambers. Guide Thou each representative of the people in his exercise of the sacred trust committed into his hands by the people. Be Thou near their loved ones whom they have left at home; may Thy kindly Providence watch over them and protect them. Upon the Governor of this Commonwealth and the Lieutenant Governor and all associated with them in office; upon the Representatives of this State in Congress assembled; upon the President of the United States and upon all who share the responsibility of government with him, we invoke the Divine Blessing, the Divine Presence, and the Divine Guidance. Hear us in this our humble supplication. Amen.

FOR MR. HERBST.

DeWitt,	Heacock,	Judson,	Nulty,
Farley,	Herbst,	Miller,	Sones,
Fisher,	Hilton,	Morgan,	Wasbers,
Hall,	Huffman,

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I move you that the nomination of Senator Daniel P. Gerberich be made unanimous, and in support of that motion, if I may be permitted to say it at this time, I want to say that Senator Gerberich is an estimable gentleman and there was nothing personal in the contest at all.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, it gives me the greatest pleasure to second that motion to make the nomination of Senator Gerberich unanimous.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I do not like to see this done in this way. I do not object to the Republicans making it unanimous on their side, but they have no right to put us Democrats on record, and I think it is entirely out of place on the part of the other side to try in this way to mar the mode of our ballot, I don't think it is really in order. I do not object in the least that they should make it unanimous on their side, but on behalf of the Democrats on this side I want to object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair believes that the objection raised by the Senator from Berks is well taken, and the Senators will have to change their votes, those who desire to vote for Senator Gerberich, and the Chair will make the announcement.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, under coercion from the Democrats I withdraw the motion.

The PRESIDENT. The motion is withdrawn. The tellers agree in their tally. Hon. Daniel P. Gerberich received 31 votes, the Honorable Francis S. McIlhenny received 5 votes, and the Honorable E. M. Herbst received 14 votes. I therefore declare the Honorable Daniel P. Gerberich duly elected President pro tempore of the Senate for the session of 1913, and I appoint the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McIlhenny, and the Senator from Berks, Mr. Herbst to escort the President pro tempore-elect to the bar of the Senate to take the oath.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I take pleasure in introducing Honorable Daniel P. Gerberich, of Lebanon County, who has been elected President pro tempore of the Senate.

SWEARING IN THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

The PRESIDENT. The oath of office will be administered to the newly elected President pro tempore by the Honorable George Kunkel, President Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District.

The oath of office was accordingly administered.

The PRESIDENT. It is the pleasure of the Chair to now introduce to you the newly elected President pro tempore for the session of 1913. I present to you the Honorable Daniel P. Gerberich, of Lebanon Counnty. (Applause.)

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

Mr. President and Fellow Members of the Senate:

I thank you for this high honor you have just now bestowed upon me and I deeply feel the responsibilities, duties and obligations you have placed upon me, but with your advise and assistance and my earnest desire to serve all of you without regard to party convictions, with absolute fairness and fidelity in discharging those obligations and by your clothing my sincere efforts with the cloak of charity and patience, I hope to prove worthy the confidence and trust you have just now expressed by your vote.

It has been a time honored custom that when a newly elected President pro tempore was inducted in his position, to define a legislative program or make a synopsis of what legislation should be enacted, or at least set forth some of the salient needs, interests and demands of the people of this great Commonwealth. I will not presume to do this, because the people have expressed themselves, and ratified that expression by electing us to carry out their wish, and they will look to us individually for the enactment of such laws that will enhance their very best interests.

I am simply your servant and we, the servants of the people.

They are the guide to follow, and not what your newly elected President pro tempore might suggest. We are individually responsible to our constituency for our legislative acts.

The good people of Pennsylvania look to us all for such legislation that will preserve and improve their health, their home life and their social and commercial conditions; to provide well for those who are not so fortunate in life, those who need the States charities, it therefore behooves us to look well and enact such laws and charities that will secure the very best for which it is intended; for, gentlemen of the Senate, the very foundation of contentment, happiness, success in life and to increase the strength and power of the people of Pennsylvania, is their good health.

Any legislation to protect life, to preserve and improve health, to care for the indigent and to improve the social and commercial conditions as against individual, party or special interests, will be heartily endorsed by our constituency.

The people are supreme, we are chosen by them to serve them, we are their servants, we must render our stewardship to them.

Thanking you again for this high honor and reserving the right to ask your indulgence and help and not to expect too much, while my earnest endeavor will be to serve you all fairly, faithfully and impartially to the best of my ability.

The Chair awaits the pleasure of the Senate.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS OF THE SENATE.

Mr. VARE offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

Resolved, That the following named persons be elected as offiers of the Senate: Harmon M. Kephart of Connellsville, Fayette County, Chief Clerk; W. Harry Baker of Harrisburg, Dauphin County, Secretary of the Senate; Herman P. Miller of Harrisburg, Dauphin County, Librarian of the Senate; William H. Williams of Chester, Delaware County, Sergeant-at-Arms.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I move to amend the resolution by striking out everything after the word "Resolved" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "That a committee of three Senators, to-wit, Senators Wasbers, Jarrett and Jones, be and are hereby appointed to investigate and report to the Senate on the twentieth day of January, 1913, whether the number of employes of the Senate may be reduced consistently with the conduct of public business, and if so to make recommendations."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator will state his point of order.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, my point of order is that the amendment offered by the Senator from Monroe, M. Huffman is not on the same subject as the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is inclined to think that the point of order is well taken.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, on the contrary, I think it is clearly on the point. The resolution introduced is for the purpose of the election of some of the employes. The amendment strikes at that very question whether those are some of the employes that they ought to elect. I think my amendment is in order.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Sproul insist on the point of order.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I do.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is compelled to rule that the point of order is well taken and the question is now upon the resolution.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. I therefore declare the following named persons elected as officers of the Senate: Harmon M. Kephart, of Connellsville, Fayette County, Chief Clerk; W. Harry Baker, of Harrisburg, Dauphin County, Secretary of the Senate; Herman P. Miller, of Harrisburg, Dauphin County, Librarian of the Senate, and William H. Williams, of Chester, Delaware County, Sergeant-at-Arms.

PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE AUTHORIZED TO APPOINT SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

Mr. ENDSLEY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That the President pro tempore of the Senate be authorized to appoint all special committees of the Senate, and shall be ex-officio a member of all of said committees.

NOTIFICATION TO THE HOUSE.

Mr. SNYDER offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the President pro tempore to notify the House of Representatives that the Senate is duly organized and ready to proceed with its business.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair appoints as said committee Senators Snyder, Daix and Huffman.

NOTIFICATION TO THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. BUCKMAN offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agree to:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the President pro tempore to act in conjunction with a similiar committee on the part of the House of Representatives (if the House of Representatives shall appoint such committee) to wait on his Excellency, the Governor, and inform him that the General Assembly is organized and ready to receive any communications he may be pleased to make.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair appoints as said committee, Senators Buckman, Alexander and Herbst.

WHEN BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS MAY BE INTRODUCED.

Mr. SPROUL offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agree to:

Resolved, That no bills or joint resolutions shall be presented in the Senate until after the appointment of the standing committees of the Senate.

ADOPTION OF RULES FOR PRESENT SESSION.

Mr. CROW offered the following resolution, which was twice read, as follows:

Resolved, That the standing rules of the Senate in force at the session of one thousand nine hundred and eleven be adopted for the government of the Senate at the present session, until otherwise ordered.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I move to amend by adding the words: "Except rule 39, instead of which rule 39 of the session of 1905 shall be substitued, which reads as follows:

INFORMATION FROM HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS.

A proposition requesting information from the Governor, or from any of the executive departments, or to make any change in or addition to the standing rules of the Senate, shall lie one day on the table for consideration, unless otherwise ordered by unanimous consent of the Senate.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I call for yeas and nays upon the amendment.

Mr. HEACOCK. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr HERBST. Mr. President, for the sake of explaining the amendment I will merely say that rule 39 is the gag rule of the Senate, that a good deal of trouble would have been avoided if we would have had the old rules previous to that in the session of 1907 in regard to original resolutions to get an expression of the Senators upon the different questions that came before this Senate. I know this that certain things would not have been put over on us, that there would not have been a Catlin Investigation Committee if we would have had the old rules. I merely wish to explain that it is to do away with the gagging in regard to getting an expression on resolutions, and the return to that method in vogue fifty years in the Senate of Pennsylvania until the session of 1907.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, having introduced the resolution, I just have a word. As I understand the effect of the amendment it is to permit the disscussion of resolutions on the floor of the Senate before being referred to committee. Now the purpose of the resolution is to facilitate the business of the Senate by referring all resolutions to committees before debate, otherwise the business of the Senate will be entirely occupied by discussions on resolutions, important and otherwise, introduced where that investigation and discussion could all take place in the committees, and when the resolutions are reported out if there is any further discussion necessary the fullest opportunity is given. We insist that the adoption of the rules as they have existed in the past is important and insist upon its being done.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Herbst and Mr. Heacock and were as follows:

YEAS—15.

DeWitt,	Heacock,	Judson,	Snyder,
Farley,	Herbst,	Miller,	Sones,
Fisher,	Hilton,	Morgan,	Wasbers,
Hall,	Huffman,	Nulty,

NAYS 35.

Alexander,	Gerberich,	Knapp,	Powell,
Beidleman,	Graff,	Kurtz,	Salus,
Buckman,	Gyger,	Magee,	Sensenich,
Catlin,	Hoke,	Martin,	Sheatz,
Clark,	Homsher,	McIlhenny,	Sproul,
Cooper,	Hunter,	McNichol,	Stineman,
Crow,	Jarrett,	McNichols,	Thompson,
Daix,	Jones,	Mills,	Vare,
Endsley,	Kline,	Moore,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

POSTAGE ON LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL.

Mr. SALUS, offered the following preamble and resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

FAVORING COINAGE OF THREE CENT PIECE.

Also, the following communication and resolution received during the interim:

CITY OF CLEVELAND.

Legislative Department,

January 31st, 1912.

To the Clerk, State Senate, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

Dear Sir:—

The City of Cleveland is greatly interested in the subject matter of the resolution adopted by the City Council January 8, 1912, approved by the Mayor January 11, 1912. A copy of this resolution is enclosed with the request that you submit it to the Legislature of your State at the earliest opportunity.

Yours truly,
R. C. COLLINS,
City Clerk.

Whereas, There is pending before Congress a bill by Representative Bulkley, of Ohio, providing for the coinage of a three-cent piece; and,

Whereas, The people of Cleveland, O., are now, and have been enjoying for the past two years, three-cent fare on all the street railway lines of the city, while maintaining supervision and control of the operation of said lines; and,

Whereas, Such a three-cent piece would especially facilitate the operation of three-cent fare on the street railways of Cleveland and on the street railways of other cities about to enjoy such rate of fare, by furnishing a standard transferable coin; and,

Whereas, Such a coin would be beneficial to all the people of the United States by providing a smaller coin with which to purchase articles of general use and consumption now arbitrarily sold for a nickel;

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the council of the city of Cleveland, State of Ohio, that the city councils or corresponding legislative bodies in other cities of the United States and the legislatures of the various states, be urgently requested to enlist the aid of their Congressional representative or representatives and of their United States Senators in the passage of the aforementioned bill; and

Be it further resolved, That the city clerk be instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the city councils or city clerks of all cities in the United States with a population of twenty-five thousand (25,000) or more inhabitants and to the legislatures of all states in the Union.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 7th 1913.

This being the day and hour fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the General Assembly, the members-elect of the House of Representatives chosen at the last general election, held on November 5th, 1912, assembled in the House chamber.

The Chief Clerk (Mr. Thomas H. Garvin) called the House to order at 12:00 Noon.

PRAYER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. M. D. Lichliter, of Bellevue, of Allegheny County.

Oh, Lord God, Father of faith, hope and love, we wait upon Thee for the bread of heaven, the water of life, the light that makes bright the dark, smooths the rough ways, and inspires to good thoughts and nobler deeds. With the opening of this General Assembly, it is fitting, our Father, that we approach the Fountain of Wisdom and drink therefrom, that we may be enabled the better to know our duty, and knowing it, to be given strength to perform it. Especially do we invoke Thy blessing upon these servants of the Commonwealth, who are here in the performance of their duty. May they have a realizing sense of their responsibility, and in Thy fear may they walk, and by Thy counsel be guided in their deliberations.

May the lives and health of these representatives be graciously preserved, and in their absence, may Thy loving care be over the loved ones at home. Bless, we pray Thee, the President of the United States and his advisers, the President-elect who will soon assume his high position, and those who shall be his associates in the care of the general government. Bless the Governor of our own State and the heads of the various Departments in the State Government, and with an eye single to Thy glory, may Legislator and Executive work for the best good of the whole people. Forgive our sins, santify our purposes, and finally bring us to the General Assembly of the Church of God on High, and Thy name which is worthy, shall have all the praise, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, I move the adoption of the Resolution.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. RICHARD J. BALDWIN. Mr. Clerk, I raise the point of order that the resolution is out of order at this time, as the House is not fully organized until the Speaker is elected, and we are proceeding to do business without the election of a speaker.

The CHIEF CLERK. Does the gentleman insist upon the point of order.

Mr. RICHARD J. BALDWIN. I do.

The CHIEF CLERK. The gentleman insists and I therefore rule that the point of order is well taken.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The CHIEF CLERK. Unless the House grants unanimous consent I cannot see that this resolution can be taken up at this time.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. I appeal from that ruling.

The CHIEF CLERK. I would state that no appeal can be taken at this time. The House is only temporarily organized. I want it understood that I have no personal objection to the resolution, but I am simply ruling under legislative practice.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, this house has no rules. This is a meeting of the legislators-elect. We make our own rules to govern ourselves; and we have the Chief Clerk in the Chair simply to keep order and we appeal from the decision of the Chief Clerk, appeal to the membership of the House here present.

The CHIEF CLERK. The Clerk would like to state at this time that you are deviating from Legislative procedure. This resolution would come in under legislative procedure at a given point when I shall be glad indeed to entertain it.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Clerk, under Legislative practice in Smull's Handbook, page 970, in the section section on that page, occurs this language,

A motion is then made by a member "That the members present do now, in conformity with the ninth section of the second article of the Constitution, proceed to the election of the Speaker."

The framers of that legislative practice had in mind the ninth section of the Constitution of our State. It has been followed out in all the preceding years of our history. I want to say to the House that I have no objection whatever to them, so far as I can understand the proposed rules, but I do not see how we can proceed to business until the house is fully organized, and no legislative body is fully organized until it has elected its Speaker. The duties of the Clerk are defined and limited by the Constitution and legislative practice, and if you now proceed to business you practically recognize the clerk of the House as the Speaker of the House, with powers of the Speaker, and we have not reached that stage until we have elected a speaker.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, I take it that this point of order is not well taken. I take it that the mistake being made by the gentleman from Delaware, in his address to the Chair is in calling this a legislative body. It is not. There is no contention that it is a legislative body at the present time, but simply a parliamentary body. You sit as presiding officer here. As Clerk or what you have the ruling on the decisions to govern this parliamentary body which is now before you. A resolution has been offered—a very important resolution has been offered to this parliamentary body, in order that we as a parliamentary body can express ourselves as to this resolution which is to be given its legislative life when it is returned back to the parliamentarily organized body and there passed upon by the body of the House as then constituting the House of Representatives. We are now here returned by the electors as being members of this body. We now offer to the body a resolution, which we take it, that it is our right to pass upon, and our right to give our expression. If the Chair persists in its ruling that this point of order is well taken then surely the right of appeal asked by the Gentleman from Philadelphia is a right that we have as a body whether we agree upon the ruling of the presiding officer or not. I hold, Mr. Chairman, that this question should be submitted to this body. It is a question of great moment. It is a question of good faith. It is a question of those who have expressed themselves as candidates for the high office of speaker, have pledged themselves to go before the body before there is an election upon the question of speakership. I take it that this resolution as now offered that there is not one in this house will raise his voice in opposing it from the standpoint as expressing the good faith of the candidates, and I as one of the candidates say I express the view of my distinguished rival when I say that he urge the Chair to allow this expression of the body to be now made.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Clerk, I am delighted to have an opportunity to thoroughly agree with my friend the gentleman from Philadelphia. The legislative procedure which has been read refers to a section of the constitution but when you refer to that section of the constitution you find nothing in the section which indicates that the speaker must be elected as the first order of business. I take it Mr. Chairman, that this house is a law unto itself, except as it may be controlled by the provisions of the constitution, and as there is no provision in the constitution which in any way would interfere with variations from the ordinary procedure here suggested, it seems to me there can be no doubt of the right of the House, if it sees fit to proceed in this way, and I certainly hope, Mr. Chairman, in view of the understanding which has prevailed, and which has been referred to by my friend from Philadelphia, that the House will be permitted to act on this question at this time.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Clerk, since it is so apparent that we are all in favor of considering the subject at this time, although perhaps later some of us may differ as to the form, I would say that we agree to consider this by unanimous consent, and I therefore ask unanimous consent to have this matter considered by the House now.

The CHIEF CLERK. I will be glad indeed, owing to the present conditions that this question on the point of order be put to the House, if the House so desires; if not I will recognize the gentleman from Elk who moves that unanimous consent be granted to consider the Resolution at this time. Is there any objection? There appears to be no objection, and the resolution will be acted upon at this time.

RESOLUTION FOR CHANGE OF RULES.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Clerk, I offer the following resolution as a substitute for the resolution just offered, and ask that the substitute be read.

The substitute resolution was read as follows:

Resolved, That the Rules of the last House with the following substitutions and amendments be adopted as the Rules of the present House:

That Rule 5, of the Rules of the last House, which reads as follows:

"The Speaker shall appoint the members of all standing and select committees, unless otherwise ordered by the House, be stricken out and that there be substituted therefor, the following:

5. The House shall elect the members of all standing committees. The representation of each party or association on each committee shall be in the proportion which its membership bears to the total membership of the House. The said representation shall be selected by each party of association in such manner as it shall by its rules determine, said selection to be approved by the House. Each committee shall organize by electing its own officers. The Speaker shall immediately after his election announce the proportional representation to which each party or association is entitled on the various committees, and each member shall notify the Speaker of the party of association in which he desires to be counted for the purpose of determining such representation.

That Rule 41, of the Rules of the last House, which reads as follows:

"That recommendation by a committee that a bill be negatived shall not affect its consideration by the House, but the words 'negatived recommendation' shall be printed conspicuously on a line above the title of the bill, but such bill shall not be placed upon the calendar except by a vote of the majority of the members elected to the House: Provided, That a motion to place negatived bills on the calendar shall be made in writing when resolutions are in order and the motion shall then lie over until that order is again reached, but if such motion be negatived once it shall not be renewed" be stricken out and that there be substituted therefore the following:

41. The recommendation by a committee that a bill be negatived shall not affect its consideration by the House, but the words, "Negatived recommendation" shall be printed conspicuously on a line above the title of the bill, but such bill shall not be placed upon the calendar except by a majority vote: Provided, that a motion to place negatived bills on the calendar shall be made in writing when resolutions are in order, and the motion shall then lie over until that order is again reached, but if such motion be negatived once it shall not be renewed.

That Rule 62, of the Rules of the last House, which reads as follows:

"That after a bill has been ten days in the hands of a committee, after having been referred to, a majority of votes shall be sufficient to discharge the committee from a further consideration of the same: Provided, that if ready to report, it shall not be so discharged" be amended by striking out the words "Provided, That if ready to report, it shall not be so discharged."

That Rule 69, of the Rules of the last House, which reads as follows:

"A committee of five shall be appointed by the Chair who, together with the Speaker of the House, shall report to the House from time to time, rules for the government there and amendments to such rules; that said committee be privileged to report at any time; and said report shall be adopted by a majority vote" be stricken out and the following be substituted therefor:

69. A committee of seven, of which the Speaker shall not be a member, shall be elected by the House in the manner hereinbefore provided for the election of standing committees, who shall report to the House from time to time rules for the government thereof, and amendments to such rules; and said committee shall be privileged to report at any time; and said report shall be adopted by a majority vote.

That Rule 72, of the Rules of the last House, which reads as follows:

"All resolutions, after they have been twice read, shall be referred to an appropriate committee without debate, and if favorably reported shall be printed and lie over for one day, after which they may be called up under their appropriate order of business.

This rule shall not apply to the following resolutions, viz:

Recalling bills from the Governor.
Recalling bills from one House to the other.
Requesting information from heads of departments.
Those emanating from the Committee on Rules.
Those relating to adjournment.

be stricken out

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Clerk, I move the adoption of the substitute resolution.

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Clerk, I second the motion.

The motion on the adoption of the substitute resolution was then put.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, in speaking upon the resolution I ask the House to defeat the substitute. I think it is first incumbent upon me to explain in a simple manner and more clearly than can be done by the rapid reading of the resolution exactly what it is that I have attempted to do by introducing this resolution. Now it is a matter of the widest public knowledge that the people of this Commonwealth have come to feel that in the conduct of this body in years past there have gradually arisen certain evils of procedure which have gradually crystallized themselves into rules and become part of our parliamentary practice, and now there has run over the Commonwealth a political change it has been practically unanimously agreed, and there is no opposition to some liberalization of the rules, some method by which each individual, and by which each small group shall have a thorough opportunity to express themselves here, according to their own weight and to their own ability. The only point in contention which has arisen is the exact method which this agreed upon change of procedure should be consummated. Now there are only two ways in which a parliamentary body, such as this can expect to do this. They can select from among themselves a small committee, thoroughly representative of itself, who in some quiet opportunity will discuss and carefully weight and finally draft and consider a plan which will do what the members want done. The other way is to say that here and now by a complicated resolution we will pass the specific rules. Now, Gentlemen of the House, I doubt if there is any new member here who having heard that substitute resolution read once has a good conception of what it means. I have not been without parliamentary experience, and I may state not without experience of the old rules of the House, and yet sitting in my chair here and hearing that resolution read for the first time I would not know what it means. Neiter do I think that any such cursory amendment of the rules as provided by the substitute will at all effectuate what is desired to be done. There are vastly more changes needed in the rules than have been suggested in the substitute resolution. The rules ought to be harmonized in order to deal with the matter, with the new theories, the only sensible method is for the house to appoint a Committee.

Now a moment as to the personnel of that Committee. Now I do not wish you to understand that I should be charged in any way with the names that have been mentioned in that Committee. Somebody must make a tentative suggestion in any parliamentary body, and that is all that I have done. If there is any person here, who feels that some other name ought to appear in that resolution, that the Committee ought to be enlarged or diminished, or that any change whatsoever should be made, we are here and we understand parliamentary practice, and with that practice it will be easy to amend the resolution. But let me say this for that personnel that after most careful consideration,, after considering with assiduous care the various groups of members, which it is felt will more or less act in unison in this body, it was felt that a Committee of eleven members would be the most fairly representative of everybody, and it is the hope that if that Committee is constituted it will work not from a partisan point of view, but from a judicial point of view.

Just one more point. If I understand what is the intent of the amendment to the rules as suggested by the substitute I believe it is this; that the members of the standing committees of the House instead of being picked by the Speaker or instead of being picked by the committee on committees, as suggested in my resolution, shall be picked by the whole membership of the House, and that the membership of the House shall guide themselves through the party actions directed by party rules. Now the unfortunate occurrence for any such resolution is this that there are a great many of us here who judged by any criterion that you see fit to apply, belong to more than one party, and the suggestion is that each member must designate to the Speaker to which party he belongs.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Clerk, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The CHIEF CLERK. Will the Gentleman from Philadelphia, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, with pleasure.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Clerk, I only wanted to correct a statement you made, that this rule to which you refer, not only provides for party membership, but any association of members so that you and your independent friends, may form an association of your own and have your proportionate share of representation on committees, and not necessarily ask the majority of the House for it, but it is yours by right.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, I think I understand thoroughly and agree with the gentleman that he has correctly cited his resolution, but the difficulty remains as before with a person who wants to belong to two associations. In other words in this modern day and generation when men stand upon their own feet it is entirely contrary to public opinion that they should be bound and guided by the action of any party or association, if you please. Now, Mr. Speaker, personally, only for the purpose of illustration, I wish to say that I hold my position here on the suffrage of several parties. The Keystone party and Washington party are not merely nominal parties, but different organizations and in many respects they have widely different interests and if I represent them both it is because I feel that both want independent representation. If I look back over my parliamentary history the numbers of parties I have represented have been so numerous that some have escaped my memory. I remember starting with the City party and the William Penn party and a lot of others. Now I am not going into that to waste the time of the House. But owing to the peculiar political situation at the present time we should not divide the members into many parties or groups in trying to give just representation. This representation proposed in my resolution will do justice to all the members.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Clerk, would it be possible to divide the question so that we can discuss these amendments in their regular order? I ask for a division of the question.

The CHIEF CLERK. The gentleman can discuss anything in any manner he desires, but I don't think there can be a division of the question.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Clerk, the bone of contention—the principal contention is between the substitute which we have offered and the resolution which was originally presented. We offer the substitute from a united Democratic membership of the House, which is contained in Rule 5 for the appointments or the election of members of Committees. Under the old rule the Speaker was authorized to appoint the members of the standing Committees. Under the amendment to that rule, offered by the Gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, he seeks to place that authority into the hands of the Committee directly elected by the membership of this House in which the Republican members are entitled to four representatives and in which the Independent members are entitled to four representatives, and in which the Democratic membership are entitled to three representatives. Now, Mr. Chairman, we contend that the evil—that all the evils of the old system are covered only in a different manner by this Committee which he proposes. We maintain that as a party we are entitled to certain representation on the standing committees of this House. We further maintain that we, as a party, have a right to say who the members of that Committee shall be. Under this proposed arrangement they take all of that out of our hands and place it in the hands of a Committee, and that Committee have even nominated the members of our party and they say that by a majority of this House, a vote by this House that three men shall be chosen from this side of the House and they say who the Democratic members of our Committee are to be. We claim that by this method we don't get away from this system; that it is not an improvement over the old system under this amendment offered by Mr. S. B. Scott.

We demand and desire to maintain our independence as Democrats, and as a minority party of this House. We don't ask them to say whom we shall place on the Committees as Democrats. We demand the right to do that ourselves. I don't believe that the gentleman who has just spoken has understood this principle thoroughly because if he had I don't believe that he would have advocated it. I don't think he would have advanced this principle if he had understood it. I know him and he has my high regard and I know that he has stood here and fought for independence. I don't believe that he appreciates this principle or knows that he has advocated something that in the future will be no better than the present system.

He says perhaps this matter has not been well considered. I can say that it has been well considered and that some of the ablest Parliamentarians in the State have assisted in bringing these amendments before this House as an improvement over the present rules. Take rule number 41 as the next amendment provides "that a recommendation by a committee be negatived etc." The change we propse to make to that rule is, that if a bill is negatived it shall be placed on the calender by a majority vote instead of by Committee vote of the members elected by the House. That is the only change in that rule. Then we come to rule number 62 which provides "that after a bill has been ten days in the hands of committee, after having been referred to it, a majority of votes shall be sufficient to discharge the Committee from a further consideration of the same." Then there is the following provision, "that if ready to report, it shall not be so discharged." We strike out those words "that the committee must report" with its discharge. The committee must be responsible for that bill and when discharged present that bill to the House.

Then we come down to rule 69 which provides for the appointment of the committee on rules, by the Speaker. "A committee of five shall be appointed by the chair who, together with the Speaker of the House, shall report to the House from time to time, rules for the government thereof and amendments to such rules; that said committee be privileged to report at any time; and said report shall be adopted by a majority vote." We undertake to enlarge that committee from five to seven and we provide that those members shall be elected by their parties instead of being nominated by the Speaker.

Then we come to rule 72 which provides, under the old rule, as follows: "All resolutions, after they have been twice read shall be referred to an appropriate committee without debate, and if favorably reported, shall be printed and lie over for one day, after which they may be called up under their appropriate order of business. "We all know what that means. That is a compartively new rule, which was adopted, I think, four years ago, proposing at that time that an original resolution could be read in place when resolutions were in order. The resolution was then to be read the second time and then it was in the hands of the House for their consideration. They could then refer it to committee or debate the merits of it and act upon it then if they saw fit. But this rule provided this amendment to the rule. "Provided that the report of the Committee must be referred without debate." In other words, it is known as the famous "gag rule." We move to strike that entire rule out. That is one portion of the change which we are advocating and I am satisfied that there is not a member in this house but can fully grasp just what it is intended to cover and what changes we are proposing. There is no revolutionary change in the old rules of the House proposed; there is nothing which can conflict with some other rule; their is nothing in this substitute resolution which has not been well considered and there is nothing in it which any member of this House cannot cheerfully support. I wish to show you again that it is the only fair revision—that it is the only fair manner of doing this.

Let the members of the other side, if they choose, vote it down, and they are simply voting down this proposition, that we as minority members of this House, are not permitted to say who the representatives of our party on committee shall be. We place ourselves in the position of giving you our influence and will you put John Jones or any one else on the appropriation Committee? That is the very principle that is involved as that in which the Speaker names the Committee and we are fighing for this principle and we will continue to fight for it no matter what is done here to-day.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the House: I believe that the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn, has not fully comprehended the very broad resolution and the very fair resolution that has been offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott. If there ever was a resolution for the proper establishing of the rules of the House to take care of the minority it undoubtedly is this resolution that Mr. S. B. Scott has offered. Not only does this resolution provide for three representative Democrats to sit upon this committee of eleven but the committee, as has been well said by the gentleman from Philadelphia, considered this Committee as holding a fiduciary position in the House as well as a judicial position, and they expect that the three representative members from the minority party will express the will of the minority as to the members in the various committees and that will be assigned or appointed on the general committees, the same as it will with the votes of the Rppublican four members and the voice of the four independent members. But this resolution does more than that for the minority party; it not only provides for their representation upon the committees; it not only provides for these reforms in the rules that are advocated by the gentleman from Elk but it also provides as to the employees of this House in which the minority representation will be represented in the parceling out of the various appointments of employees of this body. There is something more, Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the House, that the minority has not had in the past, and I fear that the minority party does not appreciate the full force of this resolution. It is the first step in advancement; it is the first step at the beginning of this House that is going to make the Legislature of 1913 ring on through many years as a Legislature that was bound to reform and in the start began by reforming its own rules. In this substitute that has been offered by the minority you are doing that party no kindness. They look with suspicion when the majority is giving them some concession; they have not yet awoke to the light. They don't know that we now know on the other side of the House that the people are taking up reform. We start to reform right here in our own home; we do that by having these rules so amended that there can be no criticism upon the action of the members of this body. We do so that there can be no criticism of the members of this body in the giving out of the various appointments; that there can be no criticism of the formation of the various committees. Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the House, I hope that this substitute resolution will be voted down and that we will all join hands with the gentleman from Philadelphia, who has won his position as an independent, advocating reform on the floor of this House, and show the people of the State that we have confidence in him and that we will join with him in this very broad step of advance and of reform.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Clerk, I would like to have the resolution offered by the gentleman of Philadelphia again read, because, as I understand the resolution now, having heard it only once and having had no opportunity to know what was coming up, and it being handed in here this morning for the first time, I would like to know just what that resolution is and perhaps I can then better understand it. I will call for another reading of the resolution.

The CHIEF CLERK. The resolution will be read.

The resolution was read for the third time.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Clerk, If I understand the resolution correctly I fully agree with my Democratic friend on the other side of the House. There is perhaps not a doubt but what the particular committee named on that resolution will do what is right and what is fair, but I cannot see one particle of difference between that method and the present, in so far as refers to the difference that exists as complained of by the people. The people are complaining of the dominant faction doing as they please, having laws and regulations that gives them all the power; they say that history shows that the power has been abused because the minority party has no voice. There is not a bit of doubt but that the next committee as appointed should thereby, if there be no political disturbance in this state, follow exactly along the same line that has existed heretofore, reproducing exactly the same quarrels over again.

I have had some experience in the workings of parliamentary laws: I have had some little experience in politics, and I do know that if that resolution is passed, in so far as the dominant party is concerned, or whatever may be the majority when you come to it, that you are back in the very same place where we are now. I feel that I was right in raising the point of order I did and my reason for raising the point of order against considering this proposition at this time, which I should have said, perhaps, at that time, was, that we should have time to consider this proposition. My reason is this: Here is a membership nearly one half of which are men who have not served in a legislative body, and their occupations and professions of life have not given them any opportunity nor has there been any reason for them to study parliamentary law. Naturally, as a man who does not come in contact with matters of this kind or does not study questions of this character, he does not know much about them. Now, had my motion been sustained that we proceed to the election of a speaker and then to have this proposition come up afterwards, we could have laid it over until tomorrow. This would give us a chance to study and consider the resolution. The newspapers will probably have these resolutions printed—some probably have them in print now, and then each and every member will have time to think over the proposition and discuss the question with those in whom he has confidence and he can come here tomorrow with some intelligence and with some thought upon the subject. Therefore, I still think the proper thing to do is to vote these resolutions down at this time and proceed to the election of Speaker.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Clerk, I rise to a point of order. We are entirely out of order. This is my first experience with you but it does not require a very bright and brilliant man to understand this. I understand some parliamentary law and I understand that we are now acting as a parliamentary body engaged in forming some law, some regulation by which to guide us and to elect our Speaker, therefore I desire to make a motion and I move that we adopt the rules of the National House of Representatives until such time as we are organized.

The CHIEF CLERK. The gentleman's point of order is not well taken. The House gave unanimous consent to consider the resolution that is now before us.

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Clerk, I wish to say that the substitute as offered by our side should appeal to every honorable man and association in this House and that the rules of this House should not be put in the grasp of two or three associations.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Clerk and Gentlemen of the House, I don't quite see why those gentlemen from the other side of the House think that they can get the Democrats, the minority, to sell their right. I think the Democrats are not caring very much who gets the appointments of the House. We don't profess to care. We don't want them to think that we care for that. To let the will of the majority dominate the minority. That is where we stand. We Democrats who are new in the House cannot understand what the gentlemen on the other side of the House mean to do. We don't think that there is anything in the contention that they don't understand the subject. It has been considered enough and we do understand it. We only demand that the representatives of the minority shall be recognized and that the majority shall not dominate the minority. The first resolution may have taken away the arbitrary power of the speaker but they may put in the men who are not representing the people of the state.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Clerk and Gentlemen of the House; The original proposition offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia evinced confidence in both elements of the Republican Party, that they will be in control of the next General Assembly of this Commonwealth. By the adoption of this rule, as proposed by the gentleman from Philadelphia, they are apparently endeavoring to give to the people of the State a rule by which no one element of this Legislature may be in absolute control, but at the same time they are negativing a rule that will protect their faction in the next Legislature no matter which one may be successful at that time. The gentlemen who are representing the different elements of the Republican party in this contest are merely by their standing for this resolution undertaking to convey to the people the impression that they are giving them the control of their Legislative body, while, at the same time they are drafting a rule that in the next session, no matter which element may be in the majority in this house, they will have the same absolute control over the deliberations of the House and the appointment of these committees that has always been held by the dominant party who had votes enough to elect a Speaker. The people of this State expect every one of us, no matter what our affiliations may be, to restore to the people the control of the Legislature. They believe that the control of the Legislative proceedings should be restored to the membership of the House and be held in the grip of any particular element. I want to predict to you here that if you vote down this substitute resolution that we are proposing and undertake to fool the people of this State into the belief that you are giving them the thing they are demanding by the adoption of the original resolution you will be very badly fooled. The people are up in arms and demanding their rights and only that and the only way that the rights of the minority can be preserved is by giving them control over their assignments on committees and all other matters connected with the organization. If you refuse to stand with us in the adoption of these rules, that are Democratis rules the result will be like the action of the Democrats in Congress with the assistance of the insurgent Republicans. Those rules that disorganized the Republican Party in Congress will cause the same result for you. If you can fool the people of this state by not coming along and giving them the rules they are demanding you will find that you will not accomplish what you are after and that you will be very much mistaken. The temper of the people is such that they will not stand for any makeshift.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, it seems to indicate to me by the remarks that have been made, that the gentlemen on the other side have failed to understand one very important feature of this resolution. The duty charged upon the Committee we have suggested is to draft rules. Now these rules have not as yet been drafted. This committee might adopt the whole program of the gentleman on the other side. When this committee reports there will be time to take up all suggestions whether the set of rules are not prepared until some future time.

The CHIEF CLERK. The question is on the adoption of the substitute resolution.

The Resolution was not agreed to.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Clerk, I cannot understand the haste of passing this resolution. Perhaps if I thoroughly understand why there was so much haste, I might be for it, but I don't. But I do know that it is a question that this house ought to know and also that it ought to know what it is voting on thoroughly and the more appreciate the force of it. I am satisfied that there is some here who cannot fully understand the force of it, as well as myself, and for that reason I think it should be postponed for the present. I, therefore, move that the further consideration of this resolution be postponed for the present.

Mr. NORTH seconded the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

The CHIEF CLERK. The question in on the adoption of the original resolution.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Clerk, are we proceeding to vote on this resolution as presented by Mr. S. B. Scott of Philadelphia?

The CHIEF CLERK. The question is on the resolution offered by Mr. S. B. Scott of Philadelphia.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Clerk, I ask consent to make a statement at this time on my position upon the question of the rules and my position upon the resolution as introduced by my friend Mr. S. B. Scott of Philadelphia. As I understand, this committee of which I have been made a member, consists of a committee of eleven. I wish to state to the members of this House that I became a member of this committee and permitted my name to be put on this Committee only by the insistent urging of men who are honestly and earnestly pledged, I take it, and whose convictions are firm for a change of the rules of the House of Representatives as enforced at the last session. I wish to state, that in permitting my name to stay upon the membership of this committee my position on the question of the Rules, was in favor of a change.

If there are any members here who were in the last session they know that every day from the time we entered this House until its close we were compelled to fight on decisions and I made up my mind that when I came this time I would do what I could to have these rules amended to the full extent of my power that I might have in this body. I favored a change in the method of the selection of the members of the committees. I favor the taking of that power out of the hands of the speaker.

Under the rules in the House of Representatives in Washington when particular bills must be referred to particular committees the Speaker refers all bills to such committees as in his judgment the reference should be made. Because this resolution proposes to take up that question I have consented to be a member of this Committee. The question of negativing the recommendation as interpreted under the old rules should be well considered. Those who are old members of this House know that the old rule constituted, in the last session— if a bill came out of committee with a negative recommendation that was compelled to lie over for a day. Then I learned that it was not a day of 24 hours but a resolution day when resolutions were offered whereby I was forced to wait one week for the consideration of my motion. I am opposed to any such rules; I am a member of that committee pledged that these rules shall be amended to the extent of making the Speaker, as the presiding officer, the machinery whereby legislation shall be enacted in this State in accordance with the platform of the Progressive and Washington parties. This is not so much a question of proceedure except as it will aid in the passage of progressive legislation. If it should so happen that by any legislation such committees should make or attempt to make a report that is not made in good faith; a report that does not meet the conditions as they exist today, I, as a member of that committee shall come here with a minority report and fight for it.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Clerk, the gentleman from Schuylkill, has stated to you his feelings and his purposes and I believe them to be practically mine. I have been a member of this House for two sessions and I have been an independent Republican. I have voted against rules such as he states and I have consented against my wishes to have my name put upon that committee.

I would prefer not be on it, but if I am,—as my name does appear on it,—I intend to carry out the avowed purposes of the reform people of this State, and give to the House working rules such as they might desire.

Mr. RAMSEY: Mr. Clerk, I would like to ask if it is in order at this time to submit the additional clause to this resolution before it is passed. What I would submit is this, that when this Committee has drafted the proposed changes in the rules of this House, that they be printed and placed in the hands of every member of this House at least five days prior to the time they are to be acted upon by this body, so that no member may come here ignorant of what proposed changes are to take place.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Clerk, I would like very cheerfully to agree to that amendment.

Mr. BAYLE. Mr. Clerk, I do not understand this undue haste. Why is this resolution thrust upon us in this manner, and this convention asked to adopt it?.

Gentlemen, we are in favor of a revision of the rules that will enable us to do business as businessmen, and I hold that a resolution of this importance should be more fully considered. It should be printed and placed upon the desks of every member, so that in the morning hour, you and I as reasonable men, may look into it. A moment ago we voted down a Democratic resolution that had much credit attached to it, and yet we are supposed to vote for this resolution coming as it does, sprung upon us not in the usual way, and I promise you to vote against it.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Clerk, I am just as much in favor of having a resolution that will be fair as any other member of this House, but I would like to know fully what I am voting on, and I agree with the gentleman in my rear most fully.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution.

It was agreed to.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN, offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved, That in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, the House do now proceed to the election of the Speaker, and that the clerks act as tellers.

NOMINATIONS FOR SPEAKER.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Clerk and members of the House of Representatives:

It is with a full knowledge of the great responsibility resting upon the members of this House at this time that I rise to place in nomination for the Speakership, one of its members.

In the eyes of more than seven million people in this great Commonwealth, are upon us, their ears attuned to receive tidings that shall be flashed from the Capital City to every city, town and hamlet throughout the length and breadth of this grand old Keystone State.

And why this wonderful interest? Why this unusual close scrutiny?

The great majority of us have been pledged to Progressive Legislation, looking towards an ideal Government, a Government truly of, for any by the people.

The first step, as I see it, and as I firmly believe you do, is the election of a man for Speaker of the House who measures up to all requirements, a man who would join hands with our great and good Governor, John K. Tener, the Chief Executive of our State, who has so nobly stood for the right and encouraged aggressive and constructive action on the part of the General Assembly.

I believe I have in mind a man who is of such a character and whose life is best expressed in a favorite poem of mine:

There are Hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self content,
There are souls like stars that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
Then there are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran,
But let me live in a home by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.
Let me live in my home by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by;
The men who are good, and the men who are bad
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat
Or hurl the cynics ban,
Just let me live in my home by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
By the side of the highway of life,
Where the men who press with the ardor of hope
The men who are sick with the strife.
I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears,
Both parts of an infinite plan,
Just let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

That is the kind of a man I have in mind, a giant physically and mentally, who possess in addition to a character above reproach, whose life both public and private has been an open book, a record of achievement both as a member of the bar of Allegheny County and as a member of this House during the last two sessions.

You have seen him in action as Speaker pro tem, and even those who oppose his election declare their belief in his ability, honesty and fairness. So in the name of the good-thinking and good living people of this great State, I present to you their candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Honorable George E. Alter, of Allegheny County.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Clerk and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

In rising to place in nomination for the Speakership of this House a man wholly worthy of that high office, I ask your indulgence for a few brief remarks.

No man in this Chamber, I am sure, underestimates the importance and responsibility of his present position. We stand on the threshold of a new political epoch, and all men feeling the force of the present day adjutation for bigger and better things, are striving to outdo each the other in carrying out advanced social and political ideas.

In the sincere consideration and attachment for things beneficial to my fellows, I bend the knee to none. My conception to duty and right and political ideal is as clear as day, and in my legislative work, and in this Speakership contest, I walk straight, and according to my honest and conscientious feelings using my best and fairest judgment, and in conformity with the wishes of my constituents; and I ascribe to every other member of this Chamber (and it is a high honor, our constituency pays us each in sending us here) impulses and good judgment as fair and honest.

Therefore, on the question of Speaker, I have deliberated long and earnestly. I have considered all men, and in my candidate for this high office, I see a man of experience, of great legal and parliamentary skill, a man of honesty and trustworthiness; a man of honor; a man of family, with ideals, and a man who in achieving success in life, has shown at every step ability, character and determination.

He has promulgated a platform of which any man might justly be proud. He stands before you, to-day, strong in his resolve, lofty in his ideals, loyal and determined in his convictions. In his qualifications for this office, in conjunction with his platform, he stands unsurpassed and unchallenged in his request for your support.

I therefore, take great pleasure, and feel that I am acting in the best interests of this, my beloved Pennsylvania legislature, in placing in nomination for the office of Speaker of the House of Representatives the name of John R. K. Scott of Philadelphia.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Clerk, I desire to place before the House for the office of Speaker a man, who is now entering upon his fourth session as a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature. He came here in 1907, belonging to a small crowd of independents. He has continued to belong to that crowd during the three sessions of this Legislature. During that whole time there has never been a question raised as to the sincerity of any of his legislative acts. He has held strong in that allegiance and has not been influenced by authority or anything other than his own judgment; and in the exercise of that judgment he has displayed liberality, that has convinced, not only the members of this House, but all persons who have watched his career that his judgment has not been bound either by partisanship or sectional prejudice. It gives me great pleasure, gentlemen, to place in nomination the name of the Hon. S. B. Scott of Philadelphia. Many of you while seeing the courage displayed by him in contesting almost single-handed principles that he believed to be right, will agree that in courage, there is no man in this House who is his superior. And on the question of the integrity of his motives I believe there is no man in this House who has ever raised the slightest question as to any of his actions. Further, as to his ability, I believe there is no man who has known him who will doubt for one moment, that as a parlimentarian, as a man with a broad conception of the underlying principles of this Government, and as a man with a broad understanding of the rules of this House that there is a man who is the superior, and few the equal, of the gentleman whose name I have just placed in nomination.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Clerk and Members of the House of Representatives, I desire today to place before you a candidate for the Speakership, whom I know and whom I believe you who served with him in the last Session of the Legislature will realize that he did his duty as a legislator. Every act on the part of the man, whom I desire to place before you I found to be true to the principles upon which he was elected and those of his constituents. I believe that no better man could be chosen in this house to fill the office of speaker than the gentleman whom I am about to name. I take great pleasure, gentlemen of the House, in placing before you the name of Eugene J. McAleer, of Philadelphia.

Mr. FREY. Mr. Clerk and Gentlemen of the House: Never before have I arisen to second the nomination of any candidate that has given me such keen pleasure as in this case; nor has there been placed in nomination the name of a man whom I most honestly believe to deserve the support of this House, and one who is more capable to fill the position to which his friends desire to elevate him. All of us who know the man, whose nomination I am about to second, know him to be a man, true and loyal to his friends, true and loyal in his friendships. We know him as a man skilled in debate, as a master parlimentarian, as an efficient legislator, but we know him best of all as a man honest and sincere. Gentlemen of the House, a man who is true to his friendships cannot help but be true to his pledges. We all know him and have read the pledges this man has made. This man has made the pledges which are responsible for the resolution just passed by this House, to change the rules of this House, so that it might run and conduct its own business. None of us who know this man fear that he will not keep these pledges to the very letter as Speaker of this House, but believe that he will so conduct the business that this Commonwealth will enter upon a new era of prosperity. So, gentleman, it is for these reasons that I take great pleasure in seconding the nomination of the Hon. John R. K. Scott, of Philadelphia.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Clerk and members of the House of Representatives: It is my pleasure to present as a candidate for Speaker the name of a man who has served here with credit to himself, party and State. I have the pleasure to present the name of the Hon. Chas. A. Shaffer, of Columbia County.

Mr. MATT. I arise and take great pleasure in seconding the nomination of the Democratic candidate for Speaker, the Hon. Chas. A. Shaffer, first, because I know him to be a manly man,—a man of principle; and next, because I know he is fully equipped to fill the position. We have selected Mr. Shaffer to present him to you as our candidate for Speaker of the House because of the implicit confidence placed in him, not only now, but in the past, and because of the record made by him two years ago, hence, it is a great pleasure to me to second the nomination of the Hon. Chas. A. Shaffer, of Columbia County.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut, could have talked all afternoon and not said too much in favor of the man he has nominated. Everybody on the floor of the House knows that he is independent. We also know that some people are born independent, some have independence thrust upon them, and others are independent for revenue and power only. Now gentlemen of the House, the man whose nomination for speakership I take pleasure in seconding is a man who was born independent. He was born independent and you can depend on him staying independent under any circumstances. Those of you who were here last year know that what I am saying is true. Far be it from me, to discourage the candidacy of any of the other gentlemen named. I know them all. They are all competent men, but I want to second the nomination of Mr. S. B. Scott, because every member knows, first, he has the confidence, and second, he has the nerve.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Clerk and Members of the House of Representatives: As a Representative from North Eastern Pennsylvania, I rise to second the nomination of that man among men who comes from the Western part of the State, and who has served two terms in this house with marked ability. The man whom I believe would compare more favorably than any other member of this assembly in development of body, kindness of heart, and intelligence of mind with that great emancipator of half a century ago, with the exception that his face is more beautiful to look upon. We who served with him during the session of 1911 know that when he was called to the chair to preside temporarily his conduct and rulings were satisfactory to all concerned, and what better recommendation could the newly elected members desire?

The political conditions in our Commonwealth require that party predjudice and factional differences be eliminated so far as possible from our law making bodies, so that we may enact legislation beneficial to all the people of the Commonwealth. And the election of a right kind of a man for Speaker of the House will be a step forward in that direction, and I am happy to say that such a man is available. What we need is a man big enough to fill the chair with credit to himself and an honor to the old Keystone State. In brief a man physically large, morally large and intellectualy large. Therefore, Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the House, I sincerely feel that there is just one man measuring up to this grand ideal.

> As compared with him we are all very small,
> For he is head and shoulder above us all.
> So let us do our duty and never falter,
> And elect for Speaker Honorable George E. Alter.

Mr. SPILLINGER. Mr. Clerk and Members of the House, I arise to second the nomination of the Hon. Eugene J. McAleer for the office of Speaker of this House.

Mr. EDWARD E. JONES. Mr. Clerk and Members of the House, I arise to second the nomination of the Hon. Geo. E. Alter, of Allegheny County, and in doing so, I wish to state a few reasons briefly. I have served as a member of this House for three sessions, and this is the beginning of my fourth term. I have served with the other candidates who have been placed in nomination for this position and I want to agree most cheerfully with all the loyal things that have been said about the candidates, every one of them, but in particular I want to make this statement: As to my friend, the Hon. John R. K. Scott, from Philadelphia, who sits across the aisle from me, and did in the last session, and with whom I have had friendly relations and whom I have found to be a man absolutely on the level and on the square in whatever relations I have had with him, I want to say that the word of John R. K. Scott to me would be as good as his bond. Many excellent things could be said of all the candidates placed in nomination. I arrived at the conclusion I have reached regarding my choice for Speaker from three different standpoints: First, the wishes of my constituents and their welfare, and second, the welfare of what seems to me to be the body politic of the whole thing, State of Pennsylvania, and the welfare of my own party—the Republican Party—and upon these three viewpoints I consider that the gentleman from Allegheny County measures up to the fullest capacity of these requirements and to my mind is the logical candidate for this House to select as Speaker; and, therefore, without analyzing the peculiar political condition in our State, I firmly believe in my own heart that the gentleman from Allegheny County has more of the qualities, which will fit into the peculiar conditions we find confronting us, and, therefore, I have the great honor and privilege of seconding the nomination of the Hon. Geo. E. Alter, of Allegheny County.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Clerk and Gentlemen of the House; I just want to add one word as to the candidate from Western Pennsylvania. I have served in the Legislature with Mr. Alter, was on the judiciary general committee with him and have found him a man who is fair in his judgment, and well-versed in the rules of the House, and the laws and Constitution of this State. I come from his immediate vicinity, an adjoining county, and I can say to this House that he is a man that comes from one of the cities in this State that has no superior in the world. It is the greatest industrial point and industrial city on the face of the earth to-day. He knows the wants of this region. He is a man who has lived on the banks of the old vine-clad hills of the Allegheny and from his boyhood days has been alive to all the necessities and protection of that great city. And, not to delay, I might say that I am one of the original "George E. Alter" men. I think I suggested to him at the State convention that if I came back to the Legislature I would like to see him Speaker of the House, and I have every reason to believe from my personal knowledge of his ability, experience and good judgment that he is one of the fittest men in this House. I have served with nearly all of the other candidates and I must agree with the men who nominated them as to their ability and fitness, but in our end of the State, we believe that in order to secure better legislation as to the governing of our coal and iron works and other great fields of industry we want a man from that section of the State as Speaker in the House of Representatives at this session.

The CHIEF CLERK. Are there any other nominations? If not, the nominations are closed, the roll will be called and the Clerks will act as tellers.

ADDRESS OF THE SPEAKER.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: This is no time for words of mine. The honor which you have conferred upon me, and the manner in which it has been conferred fill me with a sense of gratitude not to be expressed, and with an overwhelming sense of obligation. My sense of obligation and responsibility leads me at the outset to appeal to each member of this House for his entire goodwill, help and co-operation in carrying on the work which has been entrusted to use here. The people of Pennsylvania expect great things of this session of their General Assembly. The manner in which you and I perform our work determines whether or not they shall be disappointed in their expectations. If our work is performed well, if the expectations and hopes of the people of Pennsylvania are realized, it will tend greatly to strenghthen their faith in the representative form of government which we have inherited from our fathers. If we fail to meet their expectations it will be a death blow to that form of government.

With the help of God, through our utmost exertions and most diligent devotion to our duty, let us strive to do our full duty to the people of Pennsylvania.

HEALTH

The comprehensive work of the State Department of Health, under the untiring efforts of the Commissioner, in gathering information and conducting researches to determine the causes of diseases and the best methods for their prevention, as well as its co-operation with the local authorities in promoting the health of all the people of the State, and especially in its campaign aganist tuberculosis, is commended.

I recommend that the policy of the State in making liberal appropriation for this laudable purpose be continued.

The Department, by reason of the establishment of dispensaries which represent 116 educational centres, the sanatorium at Mont Alto, with a capacity of 1,050 patients; the new sanatorium at Cresson, which will have a capacity of 340 beds, and the institution now in course of erection at Hamburg, which will have a capacity of 380 beds, has placed Pennsylvania foremost among the States of the Union in the care and treatment of its tuberculosis poor. All the divisions of this department shows commendable results, especially the stations for the free distribution of antitoxin for diphtheria, and the medical division which has done much to help local boards of health to prevent the spread of communicable diseases and to check epidemics of smallpox and diphtheria in Allegheny County and at Carbondale, Coatesville and Troy.

PURE FOOD.

The subject of pure food is of great importance and should have your early and serious consideration, as it is the duty of the State to see to it that the people are protected from impure food, adulterated food, and food from which the nutritious quality has been taken. I recommend that the pure food laws be so extended so as to insure to the people pure and wholesome food prepared in a sanitary way. In order to provide the greatest possible protection to the health of all the people of the Commonwealth, legislation should be enacted prohibiting absolutely any and every adulteration in food and drink.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The new School Code has gone into effect everywhere efficiently, and has been sustained by the courts with no important exception. It is therefore urged that no changes in the school laws be made until the code has had a reasonable time to be fully tested by experience.

The State Board of Education has been especially helpful to the school districts of the State. The provision contained in the code for the establishment of a school fund is commended, and all the sources of this fund as provided should be kept free from any encroachment or diversion.

The State Normal Schools should become the property of the State, for the reason that the plan contained in the code will make them of more service in the general preparation of teachers; and for the further reason that most of this property has been paid for by the Commonwealth and should, therefore, belong to it rather than to private individuals.

The policy of the State should be continued in making liberal appropriations for the maintenance of the public school system, as no appropriation is more far-reaching and important in its results.

BOARD OF CHARITIES.

Attention is called to the supervision of the State charities, and to the functions of the Board of Public Charities.

The present system is fundamentally one of local control and responsibility. Strictly State institutions are under the management and control of boards of trustees who are appointed, in the main, by the Governor. The trustees selected are, as a rule, from the district or locality in which the institution is located. These men serve without pay, and it would be a mistake, in my judgment, to deprive the State of their services.

The semi-State institutions and what are known as private charities are managed and controlled by boards of trustees or directors who are elected or appointed by the charitable, benevolent and generous people who incorporated or instituted them. They have been organized to care for the helpless and dependent, and are managed and conducted, generally, by many of the best men and women of the communities in which they are located. Many of the persons who control these institutions not only give their services free but contribute generously from their private means for their support. The function of the Board of Public Charities is not, as many suppose, to control the management or to supervise the internal affairs of these institutions. The Board has been given absolute visitorial power, and is authorized to examine and inquire into the conditions, methods of government, official conduct, finances, and all matters pertaining to general management.

In connection with such investigations, the Board also make inquiry into all applications for Sttae aid, and reports its conclusions to the Legislature. These reports place in the possession of the Executive and Legislative branches of the Government full and detailed information as to the condition and management of the institutions, so that the Executive, so far as the State institutions are concerned, can correct inefficiency in management by the dismissal of the old and the appointment of new trustees. The Legislature, also, on being informed by the Board of unsatisfactory conditions, may correct them. The policy of the State has been to confide the management of these institutions to the directors or trustees in charge. This, as has been already indicated, is purely local government, which secures for the management the best men and women for the purpose in the State. They constitute a special class which, by tastes, disposition, trend of mind and conviction, is most likely to render disinterested service. There are from seven thousand to ten thousand persons, belonging to the most intelligent, capable, charitable and honorable class, who are assisting the Commonwealth in this praiseworthy work and are doing it from the very highest motives. To change the present system would, no doubt, destroy local interest, thereby depriving these charities of the services of a large number of the persons now engaged in this philanthropic work. The present system, in my judgment, is superior to a system of central control by a department. I therefore recommend that the powers and duties of the Board of Publci Charities be extended to meet any deficiency that may now exist; but not, however, in such a way as to interfere with the home rule principle of management.

APPROPRIATIONS TO CHARITY.

The appropriations to the charitable institutions not under State control have been a substantial help in the alleviation of the sufferings of many thousands of unfortunates who, if deprived of this aid, would have been helpless. Pennsylvania has stood as an exemplar to other States in this great benevolence, calling for the expenditure of millions of dollars, and should continue so to stand; but these appropriations should be granted upon the basis of service rendered, and the cost of free hospital days in connection with the free service should be provided for. The observance of this rule would result in an equitable division of appropriations.

The Legislature at its last session kept its appropriations practically within the revenues of the State, and it is hoped that the same plan will be followed at this session.

THE STATE'S DEPENDENTS.

In your work for the welfare of the State, the problem of caring for its dependents should not be overlooked. Solutions of this great problem are offered on every hand by those who are deeply interested in the work. This subject should be studied thoroughly; nothing should be done hastily. In order that this question may receive the most searching investigation, so that the firmest foundation for after work may be laid, I recommend that the entire matter be referred to a Commission, created by legislative enactment, invested with the power and authority to investigate and consider all phases of the question and report its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly.

COATESVILLE.

In the comparatively recent case of Commonwealth vs. Moir, 199 Pa. 541 (1901), our Supreme Court, reaffirming a well-established principle of Constitutional law, held that,—

> "Municipal corporations are agents of the State invested with certain subordinate governmental functions, for reasons of convenience and public policy. They are created, governed and the extent of their powers determined by the Legislature, subject to change, repeal or total abolition, at its will. They have no vested rights in their offices, their charters, their corporate powers, or even their corporate existence."

I believe that this authority of the Legislature should be invoked with respect to the Borough of Coatesville, and that her charter be taken away. Governmental functions were given her as an arm of the State, but she has betrayed the trust reposed in her. Had her officials or her citizens done their duty the Commonwealth would not have been disgraced and her fair name dishonored. People of this Borough by fomenting murder and consorting with murderers have not only violated the laws and obstructed the administration of justice, but in my judgment have forfeited the high privilege of further acting as a governmental agency of the State. I therefore recommend the enactment of appropriate legislation providing for the dissolution of boroughs, to the end that State agencies like the Borough of Coatesville, which set the laws at definance and outrage the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth, may be obliterated from among her orderly municipalities.

GOOD ROADS.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is committed to a comprehensive system of improved highways. A practical working plan has been adopted which deals fairly with all sections of the State, according to their respective needs. The widespread popular demand for improved roads is unquestionable, and I earnestly urge that the Constitutional Amendment adopted unanimously at the last session of the Legislature, which comes before you for action at this session, have your prompt attention, in order that the subject may be submitted to the people for ratification, and that there may be no delay in meeting the pressing necessity for road improvement.

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

In my inaugural address I said: "The present Railroad Commission has done well; but, circumscribed as to its limitations, it cannot fulfill the present requirements in the treatment of the relations between the people and the public service corporations. There should be a commission, vested with all possible power, to have the general supervision and control of the corporations and individuals having to do with public utilities, and the present Railroad Commssion should be abolished.

"Properly conducted, this public service commission would create a better feeling between the people and the corporations, would keep these companies within there lawful bounds, and compel them to render to the pubic the reasonable and satisfactory service for which their franchises were granted. It would prevent the building of unnecessary railroads and works, and the issuance of obligations not fully represented by actual value given; it would protect these companies against unfair attacks, while, at the same time, the rights of the people would be fully conserved. I recommend the enactment of legislation creating such a commission. It is desired by the people, and should be welcomed by all fairly disposed corporations."

I renew that recommendation, and earnestly urge the early passage of a sane, sound, comprehensive, and effective public utilities law, framed along substantially the same lines as that drafted by Attorney General Bell, which failed of passage at the last session of the General Assembly. There is unquestionably a universal demand for the enactment of such a statute. No doubt several bills will be introduced concerning this subject. I therefore recommend the early reference of all such proposed legislation to an active committee, which shall forthwith give intelligent consideration to the same, with a view of reportng to the Legislature the best of such proposed enactments, or, if deemed wise, a new or composite bill, which shall contain the best provisions to be culled from any or all of those suggested bills and from the field of such legislation in other states.

SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

The enactment of legislation providing for the regulation of corporations engaged in public service will conflict in some measure with an executive department long since established. The maintenance of two departments with a common purpose would serve only to produce conflict of authority, duplication of work, and unnecessary expenditure of public moneys. I therefore recommend that the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs be abolished by Constitutional Amendment, and the powers of that official over such corporations be transferred to the Public Utilities Commission, that the Bureau of Industrial Statistics be transferred to the Department of Factory Inspection, and that the subject of land and land grants be transferred to the Department of Agriculture or to the Department of Forestry.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS COMMISSION.

I transmit herewith the Report of the Industrial Accidents Commission, appointed under the provisions of the Act of June 14, 1911, P. L. 917. The subject of this Report is important in every civilized community, but is of peculiar importance in Pennsylvania because of the pre-eminent position of our State in the industrial work of the world. The Report deserves especial attention, because of the fact that it comes from a Commission made up of men who represent diverse interests, who have all given the subject thought and study before their appointment, and who, after many months of work, are unanimous in their conclusions. This unanimity in men of their character and standing speaks eloquently for the sincerity of their efforts and the fairness of their work. Furthemore, the constant publicity which the Commission gave to its work ,and the frequent hearings which it gave to all interests, show that it is has been in close touch with the general sentiment of the people of the State.

In the appointment of the Commissions I did not consider, and in some cases did not know, the political views of the men appointed. It is my earnest hope that the matter will be dealt with b ythe Legislature in the same non-partisan spirit.

I strongly urge the enactment of the Workman's Compensation bill, and the other related bills included in the report of the Commission, without change in their essential features, and without delay, especially the bill regulating the employment of women and children.

MINES.

I renew the recommendation contained in my Inaugural Address, that the Department of Mines be reorganized so as to include within its supervision all subjects relating to mines and mining of all kinds, and matters kindred or incidental thereto. The Bituminous Mine law, enacted at the session of 1911, has been the means of reducing accidents in 1812 by at least fifteen per-cent. as compared with the number in 1911.

The Commission appointed to codify the Anthracite Mine laws will report to the General Assembly at an early date, and I recommend that the proposed code have your early consideration.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR AND INDUSTRY.

Pennsylvania ranks high among the States of the Union in her manufactories. In encouraging the establishment and development of these industries the State has not alone encouraged capital, but has sought to surround the toiler with her protecting care. As our manufactroies increase and competition becomes keener, the need of that care grows greater with the passing of the years. I therefore suggest that you consider the advisability of creating a Department of Labor and Industry, whose chief concern and duty it would be to enforce fearlessly and honestly the laws of the State protecting labor, and to collect statistics, the study of which would result in wiser and more efficient labor laws. Such a department, if created, should include the Department of Factory Inspection and the Bureau of Industrial Statistics.

CLASSIFIED DIRECT INHERITANCE TAXES.

The Legislative Committee for the Revision of the Corporation and Revenue laws reported to the General Assembly, in 1911, a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution permitting the "subjects of taxation" to be "classified for the purpose of laying graded or progressive taxes." The resolution was passed at the last session of the General Assembly. See Pamphlet Laws of 1911, P. 1167. I recommend its adoption, so that it may be submitted to the people for ratification. Pennsylvania, as early as 1826, recognized the wisdom of such taxes as respects collateral inheritances, and the Act of 1897, which sought to apply it to direct inheritances, was decided to be a violation of the Constitution, which requires that taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, etc.

This amendment will provide for the grading of all subjects of taxation and for exemptions wherever proper. The leading nations of Continental Europe, the provinces of Canada, and many of the States of the Nation have graduated taxes; and the amendment proposed, with the laws to follow, will place Pennsylvania in accord with the modern legislation of other nations and states.

CORPORATE TAX SETTLEMENTS.

The proper regulation of corporate tax settlements is a matter that calls for the most careful efforts on the part of the State. While his work in the Auditor General's office is done as well as could be expected under the present system, yet great improvement can be made by providing for the creation of a tax board—to consist of three officials, two of whom should be learned in the law, and the other an accountant—which should have charge of such tax settlements, the vote of a majority thereof to determine the settlement, subject however to the approval and settlement of the Auditor General and State Treasurer, as is now required by law. Furthermore, the question of appeals from such settlements should be strictly regulated. No corporation should be permitted to adduce evidence on an appeal from a tax settlement other than the evidence submitted at the time of the original settlement, or of a resettlement. I believe that if tax settlements and appeals therefrom were put upon a business-like basis, it would result in greatly increased revenue to the Commonwealth. These matters are submitted for your earnst consideration.

LIQUOR LAWS.

I recommend for your consideration the amendment of our liquor laws in several respects. Because of the widespread abuse of the privilege, and for the well-being of our villages, towns and cities, I believe that an act should be passed forbidding social and other clubs to dispense liquors to their members, or others, during those days and times when, under existing laws, licensed saloons and hotels are forbidden to sell liquors to their customers. I also believe that such clubs should be required to obtain licenses for the sale of liquors, in the same manner as hotels are now required to be licensed. And, to correct another existing evil,—to prevent what amounts, practically, to an indiscriminate sale of liquors by the traveling agents of brewers, distillers and other wholesale dealers directly to consumers,—I recommend such further regulation and restriction in the sale of liquors by wholesale as shall forbid the solicitation of orders by any traveling agent of such wholesale dealers, from any and all persons except duly licensed retailers.

ELECTION LAWS.

The commission created for the purpose of revising and codifying the election laws will make its report to the General Assembly at an early date. The conclusion and recommendations contained therein should have your careful consideration, as the present election laws should be amended and extended so as to safeguard the ballot in every way

NON-PARTISAN ELECTIONS, MUNICIPAL AND COUNTY OFFICERS.

I have long entertained the belief that the nomination and election of municipal and county officers, and especially of judges, should be non-partisan, and I therefore recommend that our election laws be amended so as to provide for the nomination of such officers at non-partisan primary elections and their subsequent election upon a non-partisan ballot.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

I recommend that appropriate legislation be enacted, to the end that the voters may be given an opportunity o decide, by the submission to them of a constitutional amendment, whether or not women shall have the right of suffrage in Pennsylvania.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS—LIQUIDATION

Attention is again called to the present inadequate and expensive manner of liquidating financial institutions that have been compelled to pass into the control of receivers. It is essential that the present evil be corrected; and I therefore recommend that the Department of Banking be required to take possession of such institutions when in a state of insolvency, to wind up their affairs promptly, and with the least possible expense, as is the system under which such institutions are liquidated by the National Government. Such an enactment would more effectually guard the interests of the depositors, creditors and shareholders.

BONDS, STOCKS, ETC.

In my inaugural address I called attention to the necessity of the State exercising jurisdiction over the issuance of obligations by public utility corporatons, to the end that such obligations should represent actual value.

I renew that recommendation, with the further recommendation that every corporation, company, copartnership or association, organized, proposed to be organized, or which shall hereafter be organized, within or without this State, whether incorporated or unincorporated, shall not be permitted to sell, or negotiate for the sale of, any bonds, stocks or other evidences of property or interest in itself or any other company, unless subject to regulation and supervision by the proper departments of the Commonwealth, to the end that such securities shall represent actual value only.

PRIVATE BANKS.

The Act providing for the licensing and regulating of private banking became operative on the first day of December, 1911. This law was enacted for the purpose of affording protection to a large portion of the population, mostly of foreign birth, in the deposit of moneys with individuals, styling themselves bankers, and to correct certain abuses which had been reported concerning the unreliability of some of those engaged in this class of business. The present law provides certain exemptions, the most notable of which declares that the law should not include any person, firm, partnership or unincorporated association engaged in business as private bankers at the time of the adoption of the Act, when such person, firm, partnership or unincorporated association, and his or their predecessor or predecessors, or one or more members of such private banking institution, continuously and in the same locality conducted the business of private banking for a period of seven years, and such banking institution is not engaged in the sale, as agent or otherwise, of railroad or steamship tickets. In my judgment there should be no exemption of institutions engaged in the business of private banking, as it is a good financial principle that no such institution should be permitted to receive deposits upon the credit of individuals unless subject to the examination and scrutiny of the banking department of the State or Nation, as the case may be, in order that such deposits may have the greatest possible measure of security placed around them. I therefore recommend that the law be extended so as to include all persons, firms, partnerships, or unincorporated associations engaged in this class of business.

SYSTEMS OF RURAL CREDITS.

Attention is called to the fact that, under the auspices of the Southern Commercial Congress, a Commission, to consist of two delegates from each State, will visit Europe during the present year to study systems of rural credits and agricultural finance.

Pennsylvania should be represented in this work; and I recommend that legislation be enacted authorizing the appointment of two delegates to represent the State in the deliberations of the Commission and to embody the results of their investigation in a report to the General Assembly, with a view to the establishment in this Commonwealth of a sound system of rural credits and agricultural finance.

WOMAN'S INDUSTRIAL HOME.

In my judgment the penal system of the Commonwealth should be extended so as to provide for the creation and establishment of an industrial and educational reformatory for young women, between the ages of fifteen and thirty. We have such an institution—the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory, at Huntingdon—for young male offenders; but, under existing laws, women must be imprisoned with male criminals in our jails and penitentiaries. Obviously, such joint imprisonment must seriously interfere with, if not entirely defeat, the reformation of such young women, which is the chief object of their incarceration.

CONGREGATE METHODS IN PENAL INSTITUTIONS

The "congregate method" should be made a part of our penal system; and hence I recommend the passage of an act providing that the inspectors, commissioners and managers of penitentiaries, jails, houses of correction and refuge, and reformatories shall be authorized, in their discretion, to have the inmates of such institutions congregated for the several purposes of worship, labor, learning and recreation.

WESTERN PENITENTIARY.

Attention is called to the Act of March 3, 1911, P. L. 32, providing for the selection and purchase of a tract of land and the erection thereon of buildings for the Western Penitentiary.

This highly meritorious plan for ameliorating the condition of convicts and treating them in a humane manner is commended everywhere. The Board of Inspectors charged with the responsibility of carrying this work to completion has made much progress.

I call this subject to your attention, and recommend that an appropriation be made in order that there may be no delay in the accomplishment of this commendable purpose.

THE AUSTIN DAM FAILURE.

On September 30th, 1911, at Austin, Potter County, a masonry dam collapsed, resulting in the destruction of the town and the loss of seventy-seven lves. A similar catastrophe occurred at Johnstown in the year 1889. Remedial legislation to prevent the recurrence of such tragedies should be enacted.

Immediately upon the Austin dam failure, I instructed the State Water Supply Commission to institute an examination of all existing dams of importance in Pennsylvania. This Commission has declined, with my approval, to sanction the issuance of a charter to any water-power company until the Legislature shall have had an opportunity to consider granting authority to said Commission to effectively control dams in all essential matters pertaining to their design, construction and operation.

I recommend that the State Water Supply Commission be given authority, at its own discretion, or on petition or complaint of citizens, to pass upon the design and construction, and to control the operation, of any dam, wall, wing-wall, wharf, pier, embankment, abutment, projection or other obstruction to be built in or along any river or stream, and that the Commission be empowered to examine all existing dams and structures with power to require repairs to insecure structures or to direct their removal.

INVENTORY OF WATER RESOURCES ESSENTIAL.

Power-producing cumbustibles are on the wane. Competent experts frequently raise their voice in prophesy of the date when coal will have been exhausted. The people reaize the seriousness of the situation and demand that the water resources of the State shall receive the attention of the Commonwealth.

To Pennsylvania remains this one great resource. The State would be faithless to the trust reposed in it if this heritage were to be neglected. It is not possible to shift the responsibility to a private corporation or corporators. There is but one course to pursue in the interests of all the people, and that is for the State to make an inventory of its water resources, stream by stream, valley by valley, and district by district. The State should determine where reservoirs may be constructed to minimize floods, to store water for power, transportation and supply purposes, and to increase the low water flow of the streams for the benefit of navigation and the improvement of the purity and potability of the waters.

I am opposed to granting the right of eminent domain to water or other power companies. Furthermore, with respect to granting land patents, I take the position that the State should retain its ownership of the numerous vacant islands in the Susquehanna and the other rivers of the State, since Pennsylvania may want to make use of the streams and the islands in connection with the conservation of resources.

Water is a great medium of transmission of infection. The preservation of the purity of the waters of the State for the protection of the public health is in charge of the State Department of Health. That Department has been at work directing a part of its efforts towards the suppression of water-borne diseases, the removing of causes of pollution, and the establishment of preventive measures. As a result there has been a marked reduction in the death rate. Typhoid fever is less prevalent now, by over sixty per cent., than seven years ago. No law should be enacted that will interfere with the great public health program now being carried forward.

An enlarged application of the water-policy already begun by the State, through the co-operative relationship of the Department of Health and the Water Supply Commission, is one of Pennsylvania's greatest needs. This policy is something more than a water-power policy,—a mere marketing of energy; it is something more than the control of future waterway transportation; it is something more than the supplying of drinking water to populous communities under equitable distribution and charges; it is something more than the drainage and water-disposal problems of towns and industries; and it is something more than utilization of soil through the furnishing of water for irrigation. It is a definite and comprehensive plan to keep control of the only great resource left to the people of Pennsylvania, and not only to keep it but to develop it for the permanent benefit of all the people. Hence, it is a State conservation problem.

In view of the fact that the Commissioner of Health is a member of the Water Supply Commission, I recommend that the Enginerring Division of the Water Supply Commission be consolidated with and made part of the Engineering Division of the State Department of Health, in order that all kinds of uses of water may be considered and studied as a whole, and with a view of devising comprehensive plans for the highest development of the water resources of the State. When these comprehensive plans shall have been adopted by the Commonwealth as a permanent policy, there then will arise the question of methods of precedure; but those methods will be secondary and will follow the working of the comprehensive plans and the adoption of a State policy of conservation and development.

FORESTRY.

The experience of older countries is that a well maintained and well developed forest is a never failing resource and an asset of increasing value. The preservation of the wild life of the Commonwealth—the game, fish, and, especially, insectivorous birds—is dependent upon the forests. The denuded mountain is of no value in conserving and maintaining a full stream supply. The health conditions of the State are augmented favorably by the presence of large areas of forest.

Pennsylvania now owns 982,337 acres of timber-land, which is being developed into good forest. I recommend that liberal appropriations be made for the continuance of this valuable work, to the end that increasing areas may be purchased, additional work undertaken, forest nurseries established, and thorough protection of the forests made possible.

I recommend that you consider the feasibility of devising a plan whereby a reasonable annual tax may be imposed upon timber-land, with a deferred tax on the timber, to be assessed and paid when the timber is taken therefrom, in order to prevent the constant cutting of growing timber by private owners who claim that they cannot afford to conserve it under the present system of taxation.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE—EXPERIMENT STATION.

The marked increase of interest in agricultural pursuits in the Commonwealth within the past decade is largely the result of an awakening of the people to the fact that the cultivation of the soil is a permanent and dependable source of wealth. In view of the fact that modern and scientific methods of cultivation are now essential, and that the day of "gener alfarming" is passing, no agency should be omitted or neglected which would increase the productive capacity of the soil. The Agricultural Experiment Station of the Pennsylvania State College should be liberally supported, and the results of its investigations should be carried direct to the rural communities through every possible channel. The necessity for scientific farm managers has become so urgent that liberal appropriations should be placed at the disposal of the School of Agriculture of the college to train a sufficient number of young me nto meet the demand.
ficient number of young men to meet the demand.

STATE FAIR

While Pennsylvania is eminent among the States of the Union on account of her vast manufacturing and mining industries, her agricultural interest are of great importance. Everything should be done toward increasing the productiveness of our farms and improving the quality of our livestock. Among the means of encouraging improved methods, a fair or agricultural exhibition is pre-eminent. Other States have realized this fact, and the State Fairs held therein serve to bring together in friendly rivalry the best among their agriculturists. The education thus derived is of incalculable value, not alone to the farmers, but to the dwellers in the large municipalities as well. I therefore recommend that you consider the advisability of creating a Commission with authority to study the subject and make recommendations with a view of establishing a State Fair, to be held annually in a central location, and devised along lines that will conduce to the fostering and enhancement of our agricultural interests.

CHESTNUT-TREE BLIGHT COMMISSION.

The Chestnut-Tree Blight Commission has carried on its work in a satisfactory manner, and the promise for the future is exceptionally good. It is believed that the State may be almost entirely freed of the chestnut-tree blight disease, and that the investigation and work of the Commission will result in a new and improved growth of chestnut, which can be protected by reason of the knowledge that the public has received as a result of the labors of the Commission. I recommend the continuance of the Commission for another period of two years, with necessary appropriation to carry on the work.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

The purchase of ground for the Capitol Park Extension calls attention to the need of a permanent body charged with the responsibility of new public works. Not only in projects like the proposed Capitol Park, but in the erection of new institutions and buildings, public monuments, and other State works that the Commonwealth may undertake, a permanent Board of Public Works would prove a source of public economy and efficiency. I recommend that you consider this question, with a view to creating a Commission for the purpose of studying this subject and making recommendations to the next session of the General Assembly as to whether or not the time has arrived when Pennsylvania should establish such a body as a separate branch of the State Government.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

The Congress of the United States, on Monday, the 4th day of December, 1911, passed a Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing that Senators shall be elected by the people of the several States, and has sent the same to the Governors of the several States of the Union to be presented to the Legislatures. I therefore submit to you a certified copy of the Joint Resolution for your consideration and action.

SENATORIAL AND REPRESENTATIVE APPORTIONMENT.

Attention is called to Article II, Section 18, of the Constitutin of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which provides that the State shall be apportioned into senatorial and representative districts immediately after each United States decennial census.

INCOME TAX AMENDMENT.

Attention is called to the certified copy of the Joint Resolution of Congress proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, commonly known as the income tax amendment, which was transmitted to the General Assembly at your last session for consideration and action.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

Attention is called to the Act of June 14, 1911, P. L. 286, creating a Commission to provide for the observance of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, which Act makes an appropriation of $50,000 to carry on the preliminary work of the Commission, with a commitment to an appropriation not to exceed $250,000.

To us now living, after the lapse of half a century, falls the patriotic duty of commemorating the historic Battle of Gettysburg. I therefore recommend that suitable appropriation be made at an early date in order that there may be no delay in carrying to completion the plans of the Commission.

VALLEY FORGE.

Following the precedent set by the United States in the battlefields of the Rebellion, Pennsylvania has created a Park at Valley Forge, as New York has done at Stony Point. Sir George Trevelyan, the famous English Historian, calls Valley Forge the most famous Camp-ground in the world. The Commission in charge of it has done its work well, and with reasonable expense. I recommend that an adequate appropriation be made for securing the rest of the ground within the Camp, and for its care and preservation. This field best exemplified the spirit of the American Revolution, and the National government is now erecting a memorial arch there at a cost of $100,000.

STATUE TO GENERAL GEORGE GORDON MEADE.

The appropriation contained in the Act of June 14, 1911, for the erection by the Commonwealth of a statue, in the City of Washington, in memory of General George Gordon Meade, Pennsylvania's distinguished soldier, who commanded the Army of the Potomac at Gettysburg and up to the close of the war, is inadequate. I therefore recommend that an appropriation of $15,000, in addition to that contained in the Act referred to, be made at an early date for this commendable and patriotic purpose.

PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION.

Attention is called to the joint resolution approved June 14, 1911, P. L. 950, providing for the appointment of a Commission to arrange for the participation of the State of Pennsylvania in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, to be held in San Francisco, California, in 1915, to celebrate the completion and opening of the Panama Canal, and the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean.

The Commission appointed under the provisions of this resolution has selected the site for a State building. I therefore recommend that necessary appropriation be made, in order that Pennsylvania, because of her industrial and agricultural pre-eminence, may be fittingly represented at this great international exhibition.

BOARD OF CENSORS—MOVING PICTURES.

The last session of the General Assembly inadvertently omitted to make an appropriation to carry into effect the Act of June 19, 1911, P. L. 1067, which provides for the appointment of a State Board of Censors for the examination and approval of moving-picture films or reels and steropticon views, and for the regulation of moving-picture and stereopticon exhibitions.

There is a general demand for the enforcement of this act. I recommend that the necessary appropriation be made at an earl date, in order that the Board of Censors may be appointed and the provisions of the Act put into operation without delay.

THIRD CLASS CITIES.

The consideration of the needs of cities of the third class, which includes all those cities outside of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Scranton, is a subject recommended for your consideration. Such cities as Harrisburg, Wilkes-Barre, Erie, Reading, and others of the same class appear to have suffered in their development by reason of restrictions which have not only retarded their growth, but have prevented the achievement of certain civic aims and purposes. While they have made splendid progress, notwithstanding these limitations, yet a larger measure of home rule and greater freedom of action, consistent with the public welfare, would contribute in no small degree to the upbuilding and prosperity of such municipalities.

QUARANTINE SERVICE—DELAWARE RIVER AND BAY.

Attention is called to the quarantine conditions on Delaware River and Bay, and to the unnecessary burden upon commerce and the delay of vessels entering the Port of Philadelphia, as compared with the conditions at competitive ports. Under the present system all vessels from foreign ports entering Philadelphia are required to stop both at Reedy Island and at Marcus Hook, where separate examinations are made of passengers and crews—one by the United States authorities and another by the State officials.

I therefore recommend the advisability of devising some plan whereby the examination of passengers and crews, en route to Philadelphia, may be made at the same time jointly by the Federal and State quarantine physicians—preferably at Marcus Hook.

DISTRIBUTION OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

The present system of distributing public documents of the State is hardly to be commended, either as to efficiency or economy. Of each document printed, a stated number is sent to every member of the General Assembly, without regard to the needs or desires of his constituents, and to most of the departments of the State Government. The result of this unbusiness-like distribution is that thousands of dollars of the State's money are wasted in printing and distributing documents that are never read. I recommend that the General Assembly give this matter attention, and that a central distributing bureau, or division, be established in the Department of Public Printing and Binding. To this bureau every State publication should be sent as printed, and then distributed on orders received from those entitled to such documents. The expense necessary to provide for such a bureau would be comparatively small, while the saving to the Commonwealth would be considerable; and an important result would be accomplished, as the public documents would reach those actually in need of and interested in them.

MISCELLANEOUS EXAMINING BOARDS.

The fact that the presidents, secretaries and members of the numerous boards created by legislative enactment, with authority to license applicants to practice certain professions within the Commonwealth, are scattered throughout the State, and are not known to those who have business to transact with them, causes much confusion and annoyance. I respectfully recommend that these boards have a secretary in common, with an office in the State Capitol, to whom all communications should be addressed, and who could furnish information in response to inquiries either by letter or in person. I also recommend that the annual compensation to be received by each member of these boards be fixed by statute, and if it be deemed advisable to continue the collection of fees that they should be paid into the State Treasury for the use of the Commonwealth.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS.

The details of the work of the several Departments and Commissions of the State Government to which no special reference is made, will be found in the respective reports. I recommend that the suggestions found therein have your careful consideration.

REPORTS OF COMMISSIONS.

The Commission created under the provisions of the Act of June 14, 1911, to investigate and report to the General Assembly a plan for the segregation, care and treatment of feeble-minded and epileptic persons within the Commonwealth; the Commission created under the provisions of the Act of June 14, 1911, known as the Pennsylvania State Vaccination Commission; the Commission created under the provisions of the resolution approved May 12, 1911, for the investigation of the different systems of recording deeds, mortgages and insurance of titles now in effect in the several States; the Commission created by resolution approved June 13, 1911, known as the Triangle or Erie Purchase, to examine into and ascertain the several tracts of land owned by or to which the State of Pennsylvania is entitled, lying and being within the county of Erie or the harbor of Erie; the Commission created by Act approved June 20, 1911, authorized to investigate the method of inflicting the death penalty in this and other State and countries, and to investigate the expediency of selecting a site centrally located where all criminals sentenced to death in this Commonwealth may be executed, and to investigate the expediency and propriety of making any change in the present method of inflicting the death penalty; the Commission created under resolution approved March 22, 1911, to codify the election laws of Pennsylvania; the Commission created under the provisions of resolution approved May 24, 1911, continuing the joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives to consider and report on a revision of the laws of this Commonwealth relating to corporations and to revenue; the Commission created under the provisions of resolution approved June 14, 1911, for the codification of the building laws; the Commission created under the provisions of the Act of June 14, 1911, to examine and report upon the propriety of the purchase by the Commonwealth of a certain tract of land in Jefferson, Forest and Clarion counties; the Commission created under the provisions of the Act of June 14, 1911, for the prevention, control and eradication of the disease affecting chestnut-trees, commonly known as the Chestnut-tree blight; the Commission created under the provisions of the Act of June 14, 1911, to revise and codify the present anthracite mining laws; and the Commission created under the provisions of resolution approved March 24, 1911, for the purpose of investigating and reporting upon both physical condtiions and legal rights in the matter of surface support where anthracite coal has been removed, or the right to remove said coal is vested in others than owners of the said surface,—will submit reports to the General Assembly, making recommendations based upon investigations authorized by legislative enactment. The recommendations made by the several Commissions are commended for your careful consideration.

In conclusion, it is important to remember that too much legislation is frequently worse than not enough, and I earnestly recommend that only such laws be enacted as will, in your judgment, promote the best interests of all the people of the Commonwealth.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS DEFERRED.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I would suggest that the reading of bills in place by Senators be deferred until to-morrow, as the clerks are crowded with work, the committees just having been announced, and the names of new clerks have not yet been announced and some of the appointees are probably not here; and it will make a great deal of confusion and delay if we start to introduce bills to-night.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION FOR APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE AS TO THE NECESSITY FOR, EFFICIENCY, NUMBER AND SALARIES OF THE OFFICERS, CLERKS AND EMPLOYES OF THE SENATE, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND THE SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS, BOARDS AND COMMISSISONS CONNECTED WITH THE STATE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. CROW offered the following resolution which was twice read, as follows:

Whereas, There has recently been considerable discussion in the newspapers and elsewhere regarding the number, duties, efficiency and salaries of the officers, clerks and employes of the Senate, House of Representatives and the several departmnts, boards and commissions connected with the State government; and

Whereas, It is of the greatest importance that the Senators and members of the present General Assembly should be informed as to the necessity for, also the qualifications, number and salaries of said officers, clerks and employes, so that if any changes are found necessary they may be authorized during the present session of the Legislature; therefore

Be it resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That a commission consisting of four members of the present Senate, one of whom shall be a Democrat, be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate, and five members of the present House of Representatives, one of whom shall be a Democrat, be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to investigate as to the necessity for, efficiency, number and salaries of the officers, clerks and employes of the Senate, House of Representatives and the several departments, boards and commissions connected with the State government, and to make report thereof and, if necessary, to recommend, not later than April 1, 1913, to the present General Assembly such a bill or bills as may be requisite to improve the service and remedy any defects existing under the present laws.

Such commission shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books and papers; to issue all necessary processes, and to exercise all the powers belonging to a joint committee of the Legislature. Such commission shall elect from its number a chairman, and shall have power to select not more than one clerk and one stenographer the salaries of whom, as well as any other expense of said commission, shall be provided for in the General Appropriation Bill of 1913.

MR CROW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 be suspended in order that the resolution may be considered at this time.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I object. I want to read that resolution carefully before I am ready to vote on it. I am in favor of allowing the resolution to lie over until to-morrow morning's session and then I will be ready to vote upon it, and I think that will be reasonable on the part of the other Senators. If they agree to that I am willing to agree to that resolution to-morrow morning. If not, I will insist upon the rule. If the Senator from Fayette will make a motion that this resolution shall be considered at to-morrow morning's session I am willing to agree to that.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I move that the resolution be considered to-morrow at the regular session at 11:30 o'clock.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I move to amend by striking out the following:

The three persons last named for assistant sergeants-at-arms; the person named for messenger; the person named for assistant messenger; the seven persons last named for assistant doorkeepers; the two persons last named for pasters and folders; the person named as overseer of heat and ventilation; the twelve (12) persons named as clerks to committees; the three persons named as custodians of committee rooms; the two persons named as assistant custodians of the wash-room; the person named as assistant custodian of basement; the person named as custodian of newspapermen's room; and the six (6) last named pages.

I would like to ask a roll call for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I am informed that the employes of the Senate, the officers and employes of the Senate, are provided for by law, and that if they are striken out of this resolution it will not reduce the expense of this State one penny, but that the old employes will hold over and draw their salaries under the former resolution. I feel certain that when the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, is of that opinion that he would not press this resolution at this time. I have some appointees on there and I want to say now that if any one of them is unnecessary I would be very glad to strike the name off, but there is a resolution provided here for all investigation upon that subject and as soon as that is in if there is any man in it that is unnecessary I am in favor of striking him off the payroll, and my own men as well as anybody else's but I am not in favor of the adoption of that amendment, if it be true that the old employes will hold over instead of those named by the present Senate. I am informed that the Act says that the old employes shall hold over until their successors are chosen. If that be true I am certain that the Senator from Monroe will not press his amendment.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I think Senator Powell is misinformed if that is his belief. The resolution introduced is for a commission to make a report, as we know after this election takes place, and that would make it effective about 1915, which means under the present rule as it is outlined we re-elect the same old number of employes. Now the resolution of the gentleman from Fayette provides for certain offices and appointees to fill those places. The statute does not provide for any specific office, it provides for the payment to be made to all the officers elected; for instance, if there is no man elected as assistant doorkeeper he does not draw any pay and the old officers do not hold over.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I understand that the Secretary of the Senate has the Act there and I would like to know as that will determine my vote.

Section 3 of the Act provides " All the officers and employes provided for in this Act shall return as such to the next regular biennial session of the Legislature following that for which they were elected or appointed, and those who shall not be re-elected or appointed, or elected, or appointed to some other office in the Legislature shall be allowed their regular per diem compensation," etc., * "for ten days or until their successors are duly elected or appointed and qualified, and if that be true I am opposed to the amendment. That is the wording of the Act.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Huffman and Mr. Wasbers, and were as follows:

YEAS—11.

DeWitt,	Heacock,	Judson,	Nulty,
Farley,	Herbst,	Miller,	Wasbers,
Fisher,	Huffman,	Morgan,

NAYS—32.

Alexander,	Graff,	Knapp,	Powell,
Beidleman,	Gyger,	Kurtz,	Salus,
Buckman,	Hoke,	Magee,	Sheatz,
Catlin,	Homsher,	McIlhenny,	Snyder,
Clark,	Hunter,	McNichol,	Sproul,
Cooper,	Jarrett,	McNichols,	Stineman,
Crow,	Jones,	Mills,	Thompson,
Daix,	Kline,	Moore,	Vare,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, the way I understand the resolution embodies all the employes, the same as we had them two years ago, the same number of employes as we had in the session of 1911. I ask for a division of the question, because I intend voting for some of those employes. There is one especially needfull for all of us, I need him and I want him to pray for me with a warm heart, and I want to vote for the Chaplain; therefore, I ask for a division of the question.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Berks, Mr. Herbst, asks for a division of the question. In what respect a division?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, a division of the question, because we can vote upon each of them separately, Rule 30, and the same rule applied over in the House just a moment ago. The question can be divided and any Senator can ask for a division and it can be divided without marring the entire question. There is another employe I intend voting for.

The PRESIDENT. Does the Senator insist upon the vote being taken separately upon each employe recommended in the resolution.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, separately, as far as I am personally concerned upon Chaplain and the Barber.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator demands a division of the question on the Chaplain and the Custodian of the Wash-Room, and the vote will now be taken upon the election of the Chaplain named in the resolution and the Custodian of the Washroom.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the election of the persons named in the resolution for chaplain and custodian of the washroom?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. I therefore declare the persons named elected as such employes of the Senate for the session of 1913.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the election of the remaining persons named in the resolution?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT, I therefore declare the persons named in the resolution as having been duly elected officers and employes of the Senate for the session of 1913.

ADJOURNMENT.

M. CROW. Mr. President, I move the Senate do now adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at 11:00 o'clock.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The Senate adjourned at 10:40 o'clock P. M. until 11:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, January 21, 1913.

CORRECTION OF VOTE FOR SPEAKER.

Mr. BLELOCH asked and obtained permission to have a correction made in the Legislative Journal of January 7, 1913, page 31, so that his vote for Speaker should be recorded on the first ballot for the Honorable Samuel B. Scott.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON COMMITTEES.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the Committee upon Committees constituted by a resolution at the last session of this body is now ready to present its report. Three duties were laid upon this Committee, any one of which would have been sufficient to have given us long thought and careful consideration. If there has been any fault in these reports, let me assure the House that it has not been on account of any lack of industry, or upon any lack of good-will and desire to do the absolutely right thing. In fact, Mr. Speaker, I think this House is to be congratulated, and the State of Pennsylvania through this House, that it has men who are willing to do the amount of detail work, and put in the long hours of labor which this committee has; and I would not be fair to the Committee if I would not tell this House that it would be impossible for men to work together with greater good feeling, with more harmony of purpose in a desire to produce a proper result under trying circumstances, than the gentlemen of that Committee did. Since we have had three separate and distinct duties laid upon us, I will ask the permission of the Chair to present the report in three sections. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I offer first, the draft of rules to govern the action of the House and move the adoption of this section of the report.

The Report of the Committee was then read by the Clerk as follows:

It was only where two members both wanted the same thing that we failed to do this.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I felt that I should uphold the action of the Committee on Committees, and fell that I have done so. Now I desire to cast my vote for Mr. Thomas H. Garvin.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, without giving any reasons, I cast my ballot this time for Mr. Blakslee.

Mr. JACKSON. Mr. Speaker, I wish to change my vote from Mr. Boyd to Mr. Garvin.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker as a new member, I was personally unacquainted with either of the prominent candidates for Chief Clerk. I voted for the Committee on Committees, and as such I accepted their recommendation. I now feel that the candidate recommended by the Committee on Committees, under the circumstances, is unable to be elected. I, therefore, change my vote from Mr. Boyd to Mr. Garvin.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to do likewise, for the same reasons.

The SPEAKER. The tellers agree in their count, and the vote cast by the members is as follows:

Mr. Thomas H. Garvin received 106 votes; Mr. Berkey Boyd received 45 votes, and Mr. James I. Blakslee received 54 votes.

Mr. Thomas H. Garvin, having receied a majority of all the votes cast, is hereby elected Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Mr. KENNA. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The roll will now be called for the election of Assistant Clerk and Resident Clerk.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I move that there be a division of the vote, having the Resident Clerk first.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the names of the candidates for Resident Clerk.

The Clerk then read the names of the candidates as follows: Wm. P. Young, Wm. S. Leib and Jerome T. Ailman.

The vote was then taken as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Watson.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I felt under some obligation to obey the suggestions of the Committee on Committees. It seems, however, that a majority of the members of the House, regardless of party affiliations, have a mind of their own, and I ask to change my vote to Mr. Leib.

The SPEAKER. The tellers agree in their count, and the vote cast by the members is as follows:

Mr. Wm. S. Leib having received a majority of all the votes received 51 votes and Mr. Jerome T. Ailman received 51 votes.

Mr. Wm. S. Leib haing received a majority of all the votes cast, is hereby elected Resident Clerk of the House of Representatives.

The SPEAKER. We will proceed with the roll call for the office of Assistant Clerk. The nominees for Assistant Clerk are: Willard R. Black, Cumberland county; Thomas Templeton, Luzerne county; Arthur McKean, Beaver county.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, when this Committee commenced to distribute the patronage of this House, it was understood that the only contest, so far as the members of this Committee were concerned was on the positions of Chief Clerk and Resident Clerk. I am now informed that when we commenced to distribute patronage, that this particular position, of Assistant Clerk, was given to the Independents upon the Committee, and therefore, as I am bound by my report and by my agreement, I propose to vote for the Independent candidate, Mr. Willard R. Black.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, like my friend, the gentleman from Philadelphia, there is no question but that the balance of the list as made up is with the thorough understanding of the Committee, and I should like to say that we should sustain that report, and I believe at this time—and I speak simply for the purpose of obtaining the consensus of opinion here—I think that the entire report should be adopted. I move you that the balance of the report be adopted by this House as a whole.

Mr. SHERN. I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion is not in order. A division having been called for by the gentleman from Delaware on the three offices, this ballot still remains to be considered.

Mr. SHERN. I feel, that as the members of this House voted for this Committee, irrespective of party affiliations, they should now support the Committee and the members thereof. This is due in all fairness. It would be a breach of faith, if any member of this House who voted for the appointment of this Committee to now vote us down. The only difference of opinion in this Committee was on the positions of Chief Clerk and Resident Clerk, and I sincerely hope that the members of this House will support the Committee in this report, as the rest was apportioned fairly and there was no difference of opinion. We all acted fairly towards each other, and we were in harmony in all regards, except as to these two important positions. There was no unpleasantness among the members of the Committee. I sincerely trust that every member of this House will show his loyalty to this Committee, and I trust that the gentleman from Delaware, in all fairness, will withdraw his motion for a division.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether the gentleman from Philadelphia intended to infer that I was simply acting in the interest of some political scheme or not. I do not believe he did; and yet what he said would infer that any other nominations made by any other member of this House, which is our right, is based purely on political or factional differences. I want to say to this House that when I presented these names I presented them because I believed the men worthy of the consideration of this body. I am entirely satisfied with whatever this vote may show; but I do say that a number of the members of this House were not in sympathy with that resolution; that a number of the members of this House did not think that when that resolution came in here, naming eleven men to fix the patronage of this House, that it was done in an open way. (Applause).

There is an atmospheric condition in the State that I recognize as well as the gentleman from Philadelphia, and that every gentleman in this House recognizes, and that is that this House should meet untrammelled and unbargained to do just what it in its due deliberations believes is right; but there is not a member in this House but does know that that Committee came in here to arrange a part of the program. A very small percent of this House was considered or advised of their action until the last moment. The fact that there are two names here before us is no evidence of their political significance; at least the evidence is equally strong against one as against the other, that it is a political pie that is to be cut for this or that man. I never ask for favors on that ground. I only ask for consideration of these men upon their merits, and that is what the House should consider, and if the majority think that Mr. Templeton is not as capable as the other gentleman, vote that way. But certainly every member has a right to nominate whoever he is for. What power are you going to give a committee? Can a committee come into this body—does the House intend that they shall come and fix a set of nominations, and thereby trammel the House and prevent every person in here from making nominations? No; nor do I ask any member of this House to vote for this man, and the man who is best is the man you should support.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, that there is absolutely no political significance attached to this nomination or to this report, and if the gentleman desires the members of the House to infer that he is absolutely and erroneously wrong.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman from Delaware whether during the four or five sessions he was here he ever presented a candidate opposed by the Slate Committee in the times of old. I ask him to name his man, whether he ever presented a name during the last two sessions I served with him in opposition to the Slate Committee appointed by the House caucus? I ask the gentleman to say now whether he is on terms of personal intimacy with the man he has nominated, and how long he has known him? Whether that gentleman was ever a member of this House or ever attached to this House? I do not care who this House selects for the position of Assistant Clerk, but I do know that the man the Independents selected bears the ear-marks of intelligence and has served from that very desk, and I received a personal letter from ex-Speaker McClain recommending him for the position. I do say that I am bound by honor to support this report, and I do say that when the members of this House appointed this Committee and gave them that power there was no objection except from the gentleman from Delaware who raised the point of order before the acting-Chief Clerk. When the matter was put to the members of the House, they voted as a unit and there was not a single dissent. I am making this argument in all honor and fairness to the members of this Committee. We did not select Mr. Black nor did my colleagues classed as regular Republicans, but when he was presented to the Independent members of the Committee and they accepted him, we, the balance of the Committee, felt that under the bond of honor, we should support that candidate. I therefore, ask the members of this House, having given the Committee the power to apportion the patronage under these conditions, to support that Committee.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman desires that I should answer those interrogations I will be glad to do so. I will say to the House that previous to this session, or the last session that I was in, I met with all the Republicans of the State of Pennsylvania in a caucus. In it were permitted the newspaper men of this State, and, so far as the room would accommodate the public, they were permitted to come in, and there all of the very questions that the gentleman asks me why I did not oppose on the floor of the House, I considered looked into and agreed to, just as the gentleman did, and the gentlemen in this particular committee. The only difference was that eleven men did it in this case and in that caucus over one hundred did it. If I agreed with the actions of that Committee like my friend and was a member on the floor, of course, I would stand on the floor of the House and defend it; but I only asked the privilege of exercising my constitutional right to name somebody else. Should that create any excitement? There is no necessity of getting wild over this proposition. The members of this House can meet these questions in cold blood. I am not asking you to vote for anybody. I say vote as you see fit. He appears to think that I am asking you, but I have not done anything of the kind. I have simply put a gentleman in nomination and, as I said before and say now, it makes no difference to me how you vote.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker. My colleague from Philadelphia is mistaken. I think your records will show that I raised the point of order that we were out of order. I considered at that time and do to-day that this committee was illegally appointed. I am only a young member, but I have the same power and the same say as the members who may have been here forty years, and I say it was an outrage to elect a Speaker the way our Speaker was elected, since Pennsylvania has been a State, and then strip him of his power. That was my determination, but I was out of order. When he says my friend from Delaware was the only one, if you will look you will see that I raised that point and I was ruled out.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. Mr. Speaker, before I vote to sustain that motion there is something about the make-up of that list I would like a member of the Committee to explain. I see on the list of employees we have received one from Blair County. The Blair county members agreed on one man and that man's name is not on the list, but another is put in place of it, who did not have the endorsement of one of the members from our county. I would like one of the members of that Committee to explain how a person from the county we represent was placed there without endorsement and the one we endorsed stricken out.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, The gentleman from Philadelphia said that the vote on this Committee was unanimous. Personally, I did not vote for this resolution. My colleague likewise failed to vote for this resolution. A division was called upon that resolution. It was not agreed to. Therefore, I agree with my friend, Mr. Baldwin, that the proceeding was irregular. The Constitution plainly states that in the beginning a Speaker shall be elected. That appears to be imperative. A Speaker was not elected when this resolution was passed, and therefore I consider it irregular.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I would like to set the gentleman from Delaware right on what is known as the Slate Committee. Two years ago the caucus met in the House Caucus Room, as he suggested. A resolution was adopted forming what is known as the Slate Committee, consisting of one member from each congressional district in the State. I was put upon that Slate Committee. A gentleman from Allegheny county was the Chairman. No meeting of that Slate Committee was ever held to my knowledge. The members were never called together. When the patronage of this House was apportioned or slated the members were asked to come and sign up that report. That was all there was to the Slate Committee. This Committee on Committees was, I believe, created for the fair and honest purpose as has been stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia. In arranging these appointees or these officers of the House it was divided up into sections, trying to accommodate the whole State as near as possible. I have no interest in it. I would as soon this House would take up every name mentioned on the list, and vote for them one by one and I will stay here with them until to-morrow noon if you want me to do it. But after what has been stated and what has been practically agreed to, the proper thing for this House to do is to adopt the suggestion of the gentleman from Philadelphia and end this thing right here.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. Speaker, I was one of those that voted for the unanimous election of this Committee on Committees. I thought in naming that committee that they would at least have courtesy enough to name for the office of reading clerk one who would receive the endorsement of the men from that district, but they have not been. They have taken a man that they know the representatives of the district are opposed to and had the best of reasons for being opposed to; and therefore I am against it.

The vote was then taken as follows:

Mr. Willard R. Black received 101 votes; Mr. Thomas W. Templeton received 50 votes; Mr. Arthur McKean received 47 votes.

Mr. Willard R. Black haing received a majority of all the votes cast is declared elected Assistant Clerk of the House of Representatives.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the balance of the report?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in explanation of the inquiry of the gentleman from Blair county, it seems there was an error made in the residence of K. B. Rogers. He should be credited to Cambria county instead of Blair county, and the report should be amended to that effect.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman whether the assignment of that appointment was made to Blair county or Cambria county.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I have no knowledge, so far as I can now remember, of any request from Blair county being made.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. My colleague, Mr. Snyder, and myself agreed on the endorsement of one man. It was sent to the committee and I do not see how the Committee could not have received it. I would like to know whether this appointment was assigned to Blair or Cambria county. Mr. Rockwell, the gentleman from Tioga county, says that there was a mistake made in the county, and then he turns around afterwards and says that he is not sure about it.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I think the gentleman is making a mistake when he says that I am not sure whether there was a mistake or not.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. I understood that from what the gentleman said.

Mr. ROCKWELL. So far as I know there was no application from Blair county. The name of J. B. Rogers was intended to be listed from Cambria county.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee on Committees.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. I will.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman whether or not he received an endorsement for an appointment from our county.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. As there were some 5,000 papers and letters filed with the Committee, I must confess that I do not know whether such an endorsement was received or not.

The quesion recurring,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the balance of the report?

It was agreed to.

Mr. McNICHOLS, offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, The Commission to Investigate and Report upon Surface Support in Mining Anthracite Coal, created by Joint Resolution, approved the 24th day of March, A. D., 1911, will be unable to make its report to the General Assembly on February 1st, 1913, the date specified in the Resolution, because of insufficient time;

And Whereas, This delay has been occasioned by the fact that the Commission has as yet been unable to secure certain maps and other valuable data now in course of preparation, and because of the fact that the testimony of a number of expert mining engineers and others is still to be taken by the Commission;

Therefore, Be it resolved (if the House concur), That the Commission hereinbefore mentioned be granted an extension of time to make its report to the General Assembly; said report to be made on or before the 15th day of March, A. D., 1913.

BILL BOX PROVIDED.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN offered the fololwing resolution which was twice read and considered:

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House be authorized to procure a box to be known as the "Bill Box," to be kept on his desk in the House of Representatives. Any member desiring to introduce a bill to the house shall deposit the same in said box.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN asked and obtained unanimous consent for the consideration of the resolution at this time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the Resolution?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to explain to the members of the House the purpose of this Resolution. Experience already has demonstrated that in the work of handing the bills to the Chief Clerk it results in members handing the bills to the Chief Clerk almost everywhere they meet him; some are left down in his office, and some are left on his desk. The result of that practice undoubtedly will be that after a while some bills will be lost, and it may possibly then be charged that the Chief Clerk lost them intentionally. It is for the protection of the members and also for the protection of the Cheif Clerk that I offer this resolution. This is in existence in some States in the Union and has been in operaton for years, and undoubtedly where tried has been considered very effective and very wise.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, on account of the suddenness with which this resolution has been sprung and considered, I have not had any opportunity to consult with my committee, but speaking for myself I would say that when this rule providing for the present method of introduction of bills was under consideration we thought, of course, that the Chief Clerk would do exactly what this resolutoin requires. The rules go no further than designate the official who is responsible for the bills, and we thought he would provide a place for their safe reception. If the Chief Clerk feels that the resolution would be of assistance to him I cannot see the slightest objection to it.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I think perhaps it would be a good idea to have the mind of the Chief Clerk on this subject as he has intimated that there is no room on his desk.

The SPEAKER. The Chief Clerk desires it to be stated that so far as he is concerned it is immaterial. He prefers that the members should not hand the bills to him on the street, but otherwise he has no concern as to how this matter is handled.

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. BARNER offered the following resolution which was twice read.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT.

Whereas, The State Highway Commissioner has filed no report of the conduct of the State Highway Department since last session of the General Assembly, and

Whereas, Large sums of public moneys have been appropriated to and expended by that Department since the last published report of said Department, and

Whereas, It is essential that this House should have full knowledge of the operations of this Department, in order that it may be enabled to consider intelligently legislative matters affecting said department;

Therefore be it

Resolved, That the Commissioner of Highways be and is hereby required to forthwith furnish to this House full, complete and detailed information as follows:

(a) An itemized statement of the expenditures of the appropriation made by Act of 1911.

(b) A complete statement of all contracts let by the said Department since the date of the last published report, giving the name of the contractor and setting forth the location of the roads or other improvement, the amount of work done and payments therefor.

(c) The number of miles of roads constructed, the amount paid therefor and the portion thereof, if any, paid by counties and townships, and also

(d) A full report of the work and operations of the said department, including a detailed statement of all moneys expended for salaries, expenses of all kinds and costs of maintaining said department, together with a list of the names of all officers and employes thereof and the compensation received by each.

The SPEAKER. This being a resolution requesting information from the head of a Department is one for consideration at this time.

Mr. BARNER. Mr. Speaker, I move the resolution be adopted as read.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Matt and Mr. Ulerich and were as follows:

On the Committee on Education, the name of Mr. Gramley should appear, to take the place of Mr. Walnut.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHOWALTER. On page 60 of the Journal, my name appears to have voted for Mr. Leib for Resident Clerk. I cast my vote for Mr. Young. I desire to have it corrected.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the correction will be made.

Mr. GRAMLEY. I wish to make the same correction. I see I am reported as voting for Mr. Leib; I wish to have that changed as voting for Mr. Young.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the correction will be made.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. I notice by certain corrections in the Journal just made today that the total vote given to the present acting Resident Clerk has been reduced by two, and, therefore, being a number below the majority in the Journal, if the roll is correct, no election has occurred for Resident Clerk.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman from Philadelphia will put his question of personal privilege in writing, the Chair will take it under advisement. The gentleman may hand it to the Chair after adjournment.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. I rose to a question of privilege, being Chairman of the Committee upon Committees that made the report, that the vote has not been finished.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 2:20 P. M.) the House adjourned until Monday, January 27. 1913, at 9 o'clock P. M.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, Certain acts and resolutions passed by the several General Assemblies and approved by their Excellencies Governors Stuart and Tener, creating a commission and clothing it with administrative powers, said commission being known as The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission.

Whereas, Limitations have been placed upon the former soldiers of the Civil War who should be invited as guests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania during July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th by including only those who participated in the Battle of Gettysburg and who enlisted and served therein prior to July 4th, 1863.

Whereas, The National Government will provide sanitary tenting quarters and rations for the old soldiers of the Civil War who will be present during the aforesaid period.

Whereas, The exercises upon July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th, upon the Battlefield of Gettysburg, will probably be the most impressive ceremony the world has ever known.

Therefore Be It Resolved (if the House concur), That the Commission of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg be respectfully and earnestly requested to broaden the scope of the provisions made for the attendance as guests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon that historical occasion so as to include all Union Soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil War now living in Pennsylvania, also such men who served in Pennsylvania commands known as Emergency Troops, also all soldiers who served in the Confederate Army now living in Pennsylvania as citizens of this Commonwealth. The Senate adjourned at 10:25 o'clock P. M. until 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, January 28, 1913.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, January 27th, 1913.

The House met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright.

The SPEAKER: The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Wednesday, January 22, 1913.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Wednesday, January 22, 1913, when on motion of Mr. Malie the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER: The gentlemen will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker, the House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania has tonight found itself in a peculiar condition, one that appears by all the researches of all the legislative bodies in our country, so far as we can examine, to be without precedent. It appears that certain corrections that were asked for in the Legislative Journal on Thursday last developed the fact that there had been a mistake, perhaps, but on the face of the Journal it appears that the election of the Resident Clerk of this House, or the election of W. S. Lieb, of Montgomery County, as Resident Clerk of this House, who was declared Resident Clerk of this House on the 20th of January on the fourth ballot, after the corrections were made on last Thursday, is apparently two votes short of an election. Now, while Mr. Lieb and his friends feel that he might stand perhaps upon his constitutional rights, he does not care to hold this office even though there was no objection on the part of his opponents. Every lawyer in this House knows well that if objection be not raised at the proper time that that objection goes unheeded in every court not only in the State of Pennsylvania, but in every State in this Union. Now, notwithstanding that that objection was not raised, and that there was a general feeling, I think I am authorized to say, under the circumstances, that the election was fairly held, and that Mr. Lieb was fairly and honestly elected, that he is too large a man to desire to hold an office under a clouded title, and he has asked me to ask his friends in this House, and I hope the other members of this body will not object, to give unanimous consent to correct the roll on the fourth ballot for Resident Clerk on the 20th of January. I, therefore, Mr. Speaker, ask unanimous consent to correct the vote for Resident Clerk on the fourth ballot on the 20th of January.

CORRECTION OF ROLL.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Delaware has asked unanimous consent that the roll upon the fourth ballot for the office of Resident Clerk on the 20th of January be corrected so as to show that William S. Lieb received only 102 votes and that there was no election on said ballot.

The Chair hears no objection, and the roll is corrected accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. KEEGAN: Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. KEEGAN: Mr. Speaker, on page 60 of the Journal I am recorded as voting for Mr. Allman and also as voting for Mr. Lieb, when in fact I voted for Mr. Allman.

The SPEAKER: The Chair will state to the gentleman that on the official record he is recorded as having voted for Mr. Allman. The Legislative Journal will be corrected accordingly.

The SPEAKER: Unanimous consent having been given to the question of privilege raised by the gentleman from Delaware, the Chair withdraws his decision declaring Mr. William S. Lieb elected Resident Clerk, and directs the clerk to now proceed with the roll call.

Mr. FLYNN: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. FLYNN: Mr. Speaker, do I understand that nominations are now open for this office.

The SPEAKER: Nominations were closed, but could be reopened at the desire of the House.

SUBSTITUTE NOMINATIONS.

Mr. FLYNN: Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to substitute the name of Arthur McKean, of Beaver County, for that of Jerome T. Allman.

Mr. SPEAKER: The gentleman from Elk asks unanimous consent to substitute the name of Arthur McKean for that of Jerome T. Allman. The Chair hears no objections and the substitution will be made as requested.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to say a few words to the members of the House in seconding the nomination of Arthur McKean for this office.

The SPEAKER: The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I desire to second the nomination of my friend and colleague of the last Legislature, Arthur McKean, of Beaver County. And in doing so, I want to state my reasons for supporting the candidacy of Mr. McKean. I am a Progressive and I believe it is important that at this time the Progressives take a definite stand against the domination of this House, or any seeming domination of the House by the organization of which Senator Penrose is the reputed head; and in doing so I do not want for a moment to appear as uttering a word against Mr. Lieb, because I have nothing against him personally in the world, and would do him a favor personally if I could. Now, a year ago in the primaries of last Spring, the machine was repudiated by the Republican voters of this Commonwealth. At the polls in the Fall, the voters and electors of this Commonwealth repudiated that same machine, and this Legislature is, or is supposed to be, a progressive Legislature. I think, therefore, it is important that a fair proportion of Progressives should be named for the principal positions of this House, and it seems to me that anybody claiming to be and holding himself up to the public to be a Progressive should not stop in supporting the candidacy of a Progressive Democrat, when the choice of the House is between a Progressive and a candidate backed by the reactionary influences of the State. It gives me great pleasure to support a Progressive Democrat, who as a member of this House two years ago stood shoulder to shoulder with those who opposed the machine, and in support of progressive measures brought before this House. He is a young lawyer, suited by temperament, by education, by address, and in fact by everything, to be an efficient Resident Clerk of this House, and I ask the Progressives of this House to join with the Democrats in electing him.

Mr. SWIFT: Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to say a few words in support of the candidacy of Mr. McKean.

The SPEAKER: The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. SWIFT: Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it seems to me that the time has come for Progressivism to record itself in favor of all that for which it has stood in the past, and in favor of what it stands for today. In seconding the nomination of Mr. McKean, I know that I second the nomination of a man who stands for every principle embodied in the idea of Progressivism. He stands against that which would be dictated by any man or organization, and stands for that largest freedom which enables a man to be a man. In the past he has stood in this House, as you know, for that independence, which is noble in itself. In his home, and in his county, and elsewhere, he has stood for that which is purest and best and which is farthest from the reactionary idea. He has championed the cause of Progressivism, and has stood for all that it has embodied in its short life, and I am sure that this House cannot go astray by recording itself in favor of Progressivism in standing for the man that has stood for Progressivism, and who will stand for it so long as the Progressive idea is in our minds and hearts. I think that as Progressives, we should want to record ourselves in favor of Progressivism, and we can only do that, I think, at this time, by standing true to the man that stands for it, and if we do this, I am sure that we shall not go astray.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a few remarks at this time.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, desires unanimous consent to make a few remarks at this time. Is there any objection? The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker, of course, whether a man is progressive in his opinions or progressive in his thoughts are matters which he settles with his own conscience. Personally, I don't believe there is a member of this Legislature, either of this branch or the other branch, who does not believe that he is as progressive as his wisdom dictates. It appears to me that the gentleman from Beaver tries to throw out the thought that those who chose to vote for Mr. Lieb are men who are not progressive in their thought. Personally, I consider that going a step too far. I had hoped when I came to this Legislature that the political factional quarrels would be left at home and that we could meet here and decide the various questions that affect this great State without fear, as they presented themselves to our minds. I realize that most any member in this House is capable of getting up and hurling back to each other incident of not only this campaign but of all campaigns in the last twenty years.

Is that the question for the members of this House to consider now, that we are electing a Resident Clerk for this body? I want to say to the gentleman from Beaver that I hold that I am as progressive as he is, and I have served one term in this House with him. I don't boast of my independence; I am a Republican and proud of it. If that word don't stand for good government, then I would like to know what would. Every man in this House believes that that word stands for good government, and if they don't think it, the people have made a mistake in sending them here.

Now, are we going to drag into this election for Resident Clerk the political quarrels and squabbles of our party? I don't think we should. I think that the Republicans of this House should stand for their opinions and their principles; it is not involved in the question of whom you vote for when voting for officials who shall perform duties which are only clerical and nothing more. Therefore, I do hope that every member in this House will vote just as he thinks on this particular question and not be guided with the idea of whether he is a Progressive or a Democrat or a Republican. There is not anything else in this. There is no need for any quarrels in this House during this session. We ought to be men enough to be able to stand up here and meet the issues that present themselves and allow each issue to stand upon its own merits. This particular question should stand upon its own merits. There is no man, I don't believe, in this House who does not know that, had that mistake been discovered on the night that vote was taken, that the next vote would undoubtedly have elected Mr. Lieb Resident Clerk of this House. I want to say to you in all manliness and in all fairness, that if you have that thought, that Mr. Lieb should have the unanimous vote of this House tonight, because no wrong has been done and no fair man can deny it.

Mr. REX. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Rex.

Mr. REX: Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to say a few words at this time.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Rex, desires unanimous consent to say a few words at this time. Is there any objection? The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. REX: Mr. Speaker, I get up to speak as an independent and to appeal to all independents in this House, and I believe they are in the majority, regardless of party lines. In seconding the nomination of Mr. Arthur McKean, I am satisfied that I am seconding the nomination of a man who stands against all reactionaries and all Penroseism and everything that partakes of Penrose-ism. The eyes of the whole State of Pennsylvania are on this House tonight to see how each and every representative here polls his vote. This is the time, at the start of this session, to declare yourselves.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney.

Mr. RONEY: Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a few remarks at this time.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, desires unanimous consent to make a few remarks at this time. Is there any objection? The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. RONEY: Mr. Speaker, I shall be very brief, as I have no desire to inflict a hoarse voice upon the patience of the members of this House. I have heard something tonight of progressivism, and it seems to me that your great exemplar of progressivism has been a man who has considered individual merit rather than restricted party lines. In the consideration of individual merit, if you are to follow in the footsteps of your great heroic figure of progressivism, why don't you consider a man's own individual actions? The man elected Resident Clerk of this House, holding his office by right, steps down and presents to this House a manly character and a desire to be absolutely sure of your support and your honest support, before he assumes the obligations of that office. Why don't you, in recognition of a manly act—why don't you in appreciation of an honest deed, stand up, each and every one, as true progressives, irrespective of factional ideas; irrespective of party lines you arbitrarily draw in the election of a servant of this House. Not any man or boss for Penrose speaks to me through Mr. Lieb's voice. Penrose dictates to me through no voice. I consider my responsibility as a legislator in this House. Tonight, I appreciate a man who honestly steps down and says, "If I was elected by mistake, let us have the vote over again."

Gentlemen, if individual merit is to have its reward in this boasted progressive Legislature, let us one and all manfully honor a deed manfully done. I think there should be but three votes cast against Mr. Leib, and those three votes should represent the consistent opinion of the gentleman who nominated the man against him and the two gentlemen who seconded that nomination, who should stand by their opinions on this floor. Every other member, whether Republican, Progressive or Democrat, I think, should vote for Mr. Leib for resident clerk of this House.

The SPEAKER: The Clerk will call the roll. The Chair would ask that there be perfect order in the House during the calling of the roll, so that mistakes may be avoided.

The vote was taken, as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler.

Mr. SPANGLER: At the former election, I voted four times for Mr. Young, because of the recommendation of the Committee upon Committees, not knowing either candidate personally. I believe, now, that further balloting will be nothing but filibustering, and I believe that Mr. Leib is the choice of this House. I, therefore, desire to cast my ballot for Mr. Leib for resident clerk.

The SPEAKER: The tellers agree in their count, and the vote cast by the members is as follows:

Mr. William S. Leib received ninety-six votes; Mr. Arthur McKean received seventy-three votes; and Mr. William T. Young received thirty-five votes.

From which it appears

That no person having received a majority of the whole number of votes cast in the House of Representatives, and therefore, no choice has been made of any person for resident clerk,

Whereupon

The SPEAKER ordered a sixth ballott.

REASON FOR VOTE.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, I was pledged to the selection of the Committee on Committees' nominees in this House. I have consistently voted for Mr. Young up to the fourteenth ballot. I now feel that continuing vote along this line, since the majority of the Committee on Committees has abanooned its own candidate, will unnecessarily prolong the deadlock and bring a hardship to the House. I, therefore, vote for Mr. W. S. Leib.

The SPEAKER: The tellers agree in their count, and the vote cast by the members is as follows: Mr. William S. Leib received 101 votes; Mr. Arthur McKean received 78 votes; Mr. William P. Young 26 votes.

From which it appears

That no person having received a majority of the whole number of votes cast in the House of Representatives, and therefore, no choice has been made of any person for Resident Clerk.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER ordered a fifteenth ballot.

Mr. NEELY: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Neely.

Mr. NEELY: Being absent during the last roll call, I would like to have my vote recorded for Mr. Leib.

The SPEAKER: Is there any objection? The Chair hears no objection and the vote will be so recorded.

Whereupon,

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN requested a verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER: It appearing by the roll that no candidate has received a majority of the votes, does the gentleman from Beaver insist on the verification of the roll.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN: I withdraw my request.

The SPEAKER: The tellers agree in their count, and the vote cast by the members is as follows:

Mr. William S. Leib received one hundred and two votes; Mr. Arthur McKean received seventy-five votes; and Mr. William T. Young received twenty-seven votes.

From which it appears

That no person having received a majority of the whole number of votes cast in the House of Representatives, and therefore, no choice has been made of any person for resident clerk.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McClintock.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. McCLINTOCK: Mr. Speaker, I have voted consistently in support of the Committee upon Committees, and I feel that I have done justice in doing that, but it has been shown to me, a new member, that the majority of this side of the House, Republicans and Independents, are in favor of Mr. Leib, and I therefore wish to change my vote from Mr. Young to Mr. Leib.

The SPEAKER: The result of the ballot having been announced, the gentleman's request cannot be granted except by unanimous consent.

Mr. McCLINTOCK: I ask unanimous consent to change my vote from Mr. Young to Mr. Leib.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McClintock, desires unanimous consent to change his vote from Mr. Young to Mr. Leib. Is there any objection? The Chair hears no objection and the gentleman is recorded as voting for Mr. Leib, who thus receives a majority.

One moment—in view of the change, the Chair withdraws his declaration on the request for the verification of the vote, Mr. Leib having received a majority, the Chair directs that the roll be verified.

Mr. JACKSON. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Jackson.

Mr. JACKSON: I was not on the floor at the last roll call, and if not too late I wish to be recorded as voting for Mr. McKean.

The SPEAKER: The Chair hears objections, and is compelled to state that the vote cannot be received.

The roll upon being verified was as follows:

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call up at this time Resolution No. 4.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the Resolution?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, in light of the prolonged session we had last night I would like to offer an amendment to that resolution.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Strike out the words "Tuesday, January 28, 1913" and insert "Wednesday, January 29, 1913."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. I will

Mr. SHERN. Will the gentleman give his reasons for the delay?

Mr. HUMES. By reason of the prolonged session last evening this could not be acted upon. I think if this resolution is adopted, in fairness to the members of the House should have some opportunity to consider the personnel of the Committee in order that a man may intelligently vote for the candidates of his choice for this committee.

Mr. SHERN. Do you mean to infer that your party has not had time to confer?

Mr. HUMES. I am not inferring anything, I am simply stating my reasons. This is a place for action, not inference.

Mr. SHERN. Why not proceed with out any conference or caucus. Let us nominate as many as we want and let the highest men win. Let us get away from the caucuses and conferences and let twenty men or fifty men be nominated.

Mr. SHERN. Then I will withdraw my motion and defer to your decision.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE SERVICE IN THE SENATE, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS, BOARDS AND COMMISSISONS.

The Speaker called up Concurrent Resolution No. 1, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the Senate, January 21, 1913.

Whereas, There has recently been considerable discussion in the newspapers and elsewhere regarding the number, duties, efficiency and salaries of the officers, clerks and employes of the Senate, House of Representatives and the several departments, boards and commissions connected with the State government; and

Whereas, It is of the greatest importance that the Senators and Members of the present General Assembly should be informed as to the necessity for, also the qualifications, number and salaries of said officers, clerks and employes, so that if any changes are found necessary they may be authorized during the present session of the Legislature; therefore; be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a commission consisting of four members of the present Senate, one of whom shall be a Democrat, be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and five members of the present House of Representatives, two of whom shall be Democrats, be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and five members of the present House of Representatives, two of whom shall be Democrats, be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to investigate as to the necessity for, efficiency, number and salaries of the officers, clerks and employes of the Senate, House of Representatives and the several departments, boards and commissions connected with the State government, and to make report thereof, and, if necessary, to recommend, not later than March 12, 1913, to the present General Assembly such a bill or bills as may be requisite to improve the service and remedy any defects existing under the present laws.

Such commission shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books and papers; to issue all necessary processes, and to exercise all the powers belonging to a joint committee of the Legislature. Such commission shall elect from its number a chairman, and shall have power to select not more than one clerk and one stenographer the salaries of whom, as well as any other expenses of said commission, shall be provided for in the General Appropriation Bill of 1913.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the Resolution?

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN Mr. Speaker, I move that this Resolution be referred to the Judiciary General Committee.

Mr. HUMES. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I think it is important that this Resolution be referred to a proper committee. There has been printed in the public press a statement that one of the departments under the State government possibly will be investigated. That will have to be done by a resolution. As the resolution will carry an appropriation for the paying of the expenses, it must necessarily be a joint resolution. If we pass this resolution that is now before this House without referring it to a committee, it will be possible to use it as a means of stopping any resolution offered afterwards in the House for a proper investigation of this one particular department. This is of the very highest importance. It is well known that this Legislature will be called to vote upon a resolution permitting the bonding of this State in the sum of fifty millions of dollars for the building of highways and the extension of our road system. Last session, five million dollars were appropriated to that department and if they have been extravagant and careless, then before we go upon record as voting for a resolution giving the right of a constitutional amendment allowing the bonding of this State for fifty million dollars, we should at least have an opportunity of investigating that department. This resolution may be sincere and offered in good faith, but there has been a good deal of criticism of this resolution, and a great deal surrounding the resolution that may not ring of sincerity, and therefore, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I join with the gentleman from Beaver in asking that this resolution be referred to the Judiciary General Committee. We may then investigate this Joint Resolution and hold it over for a while, in order that we may see what other resolutions may come into this House at a later period.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House concurrent resolution Number 2 from the Journal of the Senate.

Which was read by the Clerk as follows:

EXTENDING TIME FOR REPORT OF COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE SURFACE SUPPORT IN ANTHRACITE COAL MINING.

In the Senate. January 21, 1913.

Whereas, The Commission to investigate and report upon surface support in mining Anthracite Coal, created by Joint Resolution, approved the 24th day of March, A. D. 1911, will be unable to make its report to the General Assembly on February 1, 1913, the date specified in the Resolution, because of insufficient time.

And Whereas, This delay has been occasioned by the fact that the Commission has as yet been unable to secure certain maps and other valuable data now in course of preparation, and because of the fact that the testimony of members of expert mining engineers and others is still to be taken by the Commission.

Therefore, Be it Resolved (if the House concur), The Commission be granted an extension of time to make its report to the General Assembly, said report to be made on or before the 15th day of March. A. D. 1913.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the Resolution of the Senate.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Davis.

Mr. DAVIS presented the following motion, which was read by the Clerk:

It is moved that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, being the sponsor of this resolution creating this Commission, I desire to say that this Commission was created two years ago, and we have had at least a half a milion dollars' worth of damages. This is a very vague resolution, in my estimation. I think it requires some investigation. Why this delay? I ask the members to vote for this reference to the Committee.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Hobbs.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I heartily agree with my colleague from Allegheny County, that this should be considered by the Committee at this time. I am not directly interested as much as my colleague in this matter as I reside in a rural community. Yet I know by experience, by traveling over the hazardous territory, that immediate action should be taken in this matter of legislation to protect the lives and property of the people there. Therefore, there is not any excuse why this Commission should have an extension of time whereby it may be possible to prevent any legislation upon this subject during this Session of the Legislature. So, I sincerely hope and urge that this Committee, in conjunction with the gentleman from Lackawanna, who is Chairman of this Committee, bring about something definite as soon as possible.

The motion was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

NEXT MEETING OF SENATE.

In the Senate, January 28, 1913.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns to-day it shall reconvene on Monday evening, February third, at nine o'clock, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it shall reconvene on the same date and hour, February third, at nine o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

The resolution was twice read.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the following amendment:

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend by striking out the words "nine o'clock" in the last line and substituting the words "eight o'clock;" and striking out the words "and hour" in the preceding line.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the habit of meeting at nine o'clock on Monday night simply results in the waste of a very valuable hour for the House at that time and keeps the members out of their beds that much longer. I therefore urge this amendment that the House may meet at eight o'clock instead of nine.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein.

Mr. STEIN. On behalf of the gentleman from Allegheny as well as most of the members from Western Pennsylvania, I would like to ask the gentleman who proposes this amendment to withdraw it, for the reason that it is highly inconvenient for the gentlemen from the Western end of the State to have the hour fixed at eight o'clock. The train that gets here in time for the nine o'clock session leaves Pittsburgh at three-fifty, arriving at Harrisburg in ample time for the nine o'clock session. In order to get here at eight o'clock, we should have to leave at twelve o'clock. I will ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, who proposes this amendment, as a mark favor to the gentlemen from the Western end of the State, not to insist on this amendment.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. THhe gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Goss.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to second the amendment presented by Mr. Scott. I live in Fayette County and I live farther away than the gentleman from Allegheny, and it is a good deal harder for me to get here at eight o'clock than Mr. Stein, but I can make it and be here at eight o'clock and be here in plenty of time. Therefore, I second Mr. Scott's motion.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, about five members who live in the western part of Pennsylvania, two of them are from Westmoreland County. There is a splendid train leaves Pittsburgh at twelve o'clock and it gets down here at six o'clock. We could take that train and we would be very glad to get here and have the session open at eight o'clock and get to bed some time during the fore part of the night.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I live a good deal farther away than the gentleman from Allegheny and must leave at nine o'clock on Monday morning to get here, but we can get here very conveniently at six o'clock.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I am from Cambria, the second district, and I wish to second the sentiments of Mr. Stein. It suits me a great deal better to get the afternoon train that gets you here in time for a nine o'clock session.

On the question of agreeing to the amendment.

A division was taken, 115 votes in the affirmative.

And the question on the amendment was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

NOMINATIONS FOR COMMITTEE ON RULES.

Mr. SHERN offered the following motion, which was read as follows:

That we now go into nominations for members of the House Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I nominate as members for the Standing House Committee on Rules:

Mr. S. B. Scott,
Mr. J. R. Jones,
Mr. Frank Rockwell,
Mr. Daniel Shern,
Mr. E. R. Benson,
Mr. John T. Matt.

Gentlemen, my reasons for offering these names are because we have now a set of rules that have taken considerable effort, and a good many members of the House, myself among them, are not in full sympathy with them. Therefore, I think we should elect a Committee on Rules that is in entire sympathy with the rules we have adopted. I hope the House will vote for the nominations which I have made.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the honor conferred upon me by my colleague from Delaware, but I respectfully decline to be a nominee for that committee.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I as well as my friend, Mr. Shern, appreciate the honor, but decline the nomination.

Mr. STEIN. I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. George W. Allen.

Mr. KEEGAN. Mr. Speaker, in behalf of my colleagues from Fayette County, I nominate Mr. Henry Cochran as a member of this Committee.

Mr. McNICHOL. On behalf of the Philadelphia delegation, I place in nomination the Hon. Sigmund J. Gans.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. Henry Wilson Bergey, of Montgomery County.

Mr. ULMAN. I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. George W. Sassaman, of Franklin County.

Mr LESLIE. I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. Thomas A. Steele, of McKeesport, Allegheny.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place in nomination a member from northeastern Pennsylvania—probably one of the oldest members of this house—the Honorable Frederick C. Ehrhardt, of Lackawanna County.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. Moulthrop, of Clearfield.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. W. W. Ulerich, of Westmoreland.

Mr. BURNETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place in nomination the name of Mr. Charles A. Shaffer, of Columbia.

Mr. W. A. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I nominate Mr. George W. Moses, of Cambria County.

Mr. FRANK GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to nominate Mr. Eugene J. McAleer, of Philadelphia.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman very kindly for his courtesy in nominating me, but I respectfully decline the nomination. There is a man on the floor of this House who always "wants to know the reason why," and I am satisfied that he would always be sure that a rule was good before adopting it (cries of Baldwin! Baldwin!)—and I desire to nominate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Richard J. Baldwin

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to thank the gentleman from Philadelphia and at the same time to decline the honor.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to state that I am not a candidate. I desire to decline the nomination.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place in nomination a man whom I did not vote for for Speaker, but whom I considered best fitted to be on the Committee on Rules, and I therefore nominate Mr. John R. K. Scott of Philadelphia.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I fear gift-bearing Greeks and therefore decline the nomination.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Dauphin for nominating me but I decline the nomination.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place in nomination David S. Kennedy of Allegheny County.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I respectfully decline. I have more work than I can properly attend to now.

Mr. SPILLINGER. Mr. Speaker, I nominate Mr. McClintock of Philadelphia.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I wish to decline that nomination and to thank Mr. Spillinger for his courtesy.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the nominations be now closed.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that we can vote for any of those who have declined.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen may vote for whom they please. The Clerk will read the list of those whose names remain in nomination.

The Clerk then read the names of the nominees as follows:

Messrs. S. B. Scott, Frank H. Rockwell, John R. Jones, E. R. Benson, George W. Allen, Harry Cochran, Sigmund J. Gans, H. W. Bergey, George W. Sassaman, Thomas A. Steele, Frederick C. Ehrhardt, George A. Baldwin, George W. Moses.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the roll and each member will vote for not more than two of the candidates for members of the Committee on Rules. The Resolution provides that the six receiving the highest votes will be elected. Under this resolution it is not necessary for a candidate to receive a majority of the votes cast.

The voting was then proceeded with.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to withdraw my name as a candidate for member of the Committee on Rules.

Mr JOHN R. JONES. Mr Speaker, if you will excuse the change of votes that may be occasioned, I desire my name to be withdrawn as a candidate.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I want to withdraw my name as a candidate.

Mr WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I raise objection to the change of these votes I base my objection upon Rule 50 which provides that "on a call of the Yeas and Nays the Clerk shall read the names of the members; after they have been called no member shall be permitted to change his vote unless he at the time declares that he voted under a mistake of the question."

I would argue from that, that the position the members are now in is similar to the condition they would be in case of a Yea and Nay vote on a bill. They, therefore, cannot change their vote unless they state they were acting under a misapprehension

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the objection is not well founded. This is not a Yea and Nay vote but is a special situation created by this Resolution.

The voting having been completed the roll was verified as follows:

REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH RELATIVE TO PUBLISHING OFFICIAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

Mr. BLAIR offered the following resolution, which was twice read and agreed to:

Whereas, It will be necessary for this General Assembly to make an appropriation for the purpose of defraying the cost of advertising the amendments to the State Constitution,

Therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, that the Secretary of the Commonwealth be, and is hereby directed to furnish this House within five days from this date, a full and complete list of the newspapers and periodicals in which official advertisements have been made of the proposed amendments to the State Constitution now awaiting further action, arranged by counties with information as to the number of times the advertisement has appeared in each of said newspapers and periodicals and the price paid or owing to each newspapers or periodical therefor.

Mr. HUMES called up resolution No. 6, which was twice read, as follows:

READING LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL.

Resolved: That the rules of the House of Representatives be amended by adding and inserting the following rule:—

§ 1-2—The reading of the Journal shall be the first order of business each day, if the Legislative Journal for such Legislative day shall have been printed and placed on the desk of each member; but in no case shall it be read until after each member shall have received a copy of said Legislative Journal

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't call to mind who introduced this resolution, but I would like to say to the House that, as I understand the statutes, it requires the State Printer to have the Legislative Journal on the desks within twenty-four hours after the same has been delivered to him—that is, the manuscript from the official stenographers of the House and the other matter that goes through the desk. I would like the House to appreciate the fact that after a while we will we working up to twelve o'clock at night. The stenographers will then have to go over and transcribe their work. This will mean that the State Printer will probably get the material for the making of the Legislative Journal somewhere between four or seven o'clock the next morning. That would mean that the Legislative Journal under the statute is not required to be put upon the desks until two days afterward.

If this resolution prevails, it means that every other day when we are working until twelve o'clock at night, we cannot work at all, and we will have to rest one day. I ask if that is considered wise? And if that is the opinion of the Committee upon Committees, I doubt whether they are willing for the House to endorse it. But I don't believe any member of this House who has any legislative experience would offer any such resolution without first inquiring into its effect.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, following the line of thought of the gentleman from Delaware, I desire to state that a Committee having been appointed to consider such matters as are embodied in this resolution, I move that this Resolution be referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I want to correct any idea that this resolution originated in the Committee upon Committees; that is not the case.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to refer this resolution to the Committee on Rules.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO USE HOUSE.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as Chairman of the Judiciary General Committee, there are several so-called "mothers" pension bills' that have come to this Committee. It is the sense of the Committee to have a public meeting on that proposed legislation at eight o'clock next Wednesday evening in this room. We wish to get permission of the House. The Committee would ask permission to use the House next Wednesday evening, and I ask unanimous consent to present the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Moved, that the hall of the House be given to the Committee on Judiciary General on Wednesday evening of next week for the purpose of holding an open hearing.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to make inquiry as to whether it is necessary when an amendment is offered to a resolution that the resolution be again laid over for a day to have the amendment printed.

The SPEAKER. The rule does not so provide.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to call up Resolution No. 3, for the purpose of offering an amendment as it may perhaps be the sense of the House to have that amendment read. I ask unanimous consent to call up Resolution No. 3.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, Resolution No. 3 will be read by the Clerk.

Resolution No. 3 was read, as follows:

RESOLUTION NO. 3.

Be it Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the sincere thanks of this body are extended to the Committee on Committees appointed at the session of this House held on the seventh day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, for the painstaking efforts made by the Committee, and for the ardous labors undergone by them in the performance of the duties required of them.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amendment to Resolution No. 3. Yet, notwithstanding the earnest effort apparently made by the Committee, it is the sincere belief of this House that the hoped-for results are best exemplified by comparing its practical effect in the election of a Committee on Rules to the movements of the Cambaras Pelucibus.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I suggest that I don't understand the amendment which has been offered, as to whether it comes in before or immediately after the preamble of the resolution or before the body of the resolution, as it now stands, or in the midst thereof, or at the end, and will submit that the gentleman at least change his amendment so that we may understand the purpose.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I will state to the gentleman from Allegheny that it is simply an addition to the resolution and naturally follows the other reading.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein.

Mr. STEIN. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Certainly.

Mr. STEIN. On behalf of the gentlemen from Allegheny, I would like to know what is it that he proposes to get before this body. Is it something to eat, or is he calling names?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would be glad to answer, but I didn't hear what the gentleman said.

Mr. STEIN. On behalf of my colleagues from Allegheny, I would like to know what do you propose to get to this body? is it something to eat, or is it calling names?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. It is something for the House to digest.

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Strauss.

Mr. STRAUSS. Then I suppose it will first have to be eaten.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Mr. LENKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up the resolution introduced by me yesterday relative to an investigation to be conducted by the Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read as follows:

INVESTIGATION OF ALLEGED VIOLATION OF THE RULES OF THE HOUSE.

Whereas, It is alleged Walter J. Christie, correspondent of the Pittsburgh Gazette Times, is violating the rules of this House, by holding a State Office, viz: Registration Commissioner of Allegheny County, by appointment of Governor Tener, and at the same time occupying a seat in the correspondence gallery, which if true, is a violation of the rules of the House.

Be it therefore Resolved, That the Speaker of this House is empowered to make an investigation of the alleged facts and report his findings to the House within ten days.

Mr. LENKER. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me that that resolution is entirely out of order. All that it asks for is now printed in the rules under rule 64. I do not see any necessity for such a resolution, or using a resolution of that character. That power is given to the Speaker in the new rules as well as it was under the old rules. I think it is foolish for the House to pass a resolution of that character when all that it contains is now in the rules of the House.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to add a word to what has been spoken by my colleague from Delaware, and to ask the House to vote down this resolution, as being untimely and extremely unfair. The resolution asks the Speaker to investigate what? To investigate what the records show, and what everybody knows. It is conceded—at least I have no doubt it is by Mr. Christie,—that for six years, or more, he has been a registration commissioner for the county of Allegheny. As such he is a County employee, and is paid by the County of Allegheny. Now, I might state for the benefit of my colleagues in the House that politically Mr. Christie and I do not serve the same faction, but socially and morally I have the honor to be allied with him in many matters of concern at our home, and I want to say in his behalf, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, that a more courteous and efficient registration commissioner never occupied the position since its creation in the County of Allegheny. Now, as I said, Mr. Christie occupied the same position during the whole of the last session and was also a legislative correspondent here. He occupied the same position during the session of 1909 and I believe during the session of 1907. He was not in any sense of the term a state employee, and under the rules, as laid down in rule 64, he has a perfect right to serve as legislative correspondent because he is paid, I suppose, by his own newspaper, and does not draw one cent of money from the State Treasury . What could have prompted the gentleman to introduce this resolution I do not know, and I have no desire to reflact upon the motive which prompted its introduction, but I want to say to him and to the gentlemen of the House that this resolution seems to be of small concern. If we want an investigation there are many things infinitely more costly and which need remedy, and I think you will show the good sense and temper of the House to vote down this resolution.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker,I would like to inquire as to whether the card that the Rules provide for has been issued to Mr. Christie up to this date.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would state in response to the inquiry of the gentleman from Crawford that so far as the Chair knows, this rule requiring cards to be issued to press corespondents occupying seats in the press galleries has been out of use for at least a number of sessions. The Chair has arranged to have some cards printed. They have not yet been received from the printer, consequently up to this time no cards have been given to any person in this connection.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will please state his question.

Mr. SHERN. As the gentleman from Allegheny has said Mr. Christie holds a position of registration commissioner in the County of Allegheny, before I can properly vote upon this resolution I would like to know from the Speaker whether or not that is an office coming under the State. If it is not an office under the State government then I think this resolution is out of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the office is not an office included in the provisions of the rules relating to holding a position under the department.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, then I raise the point of order that the resolution is out of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order is well taken.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 10, as follows:

A Joint Resolution providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate and report upon the complaints made relating to the violation by mining and manufacturing companies of this State of the law governing the withholding of wages from employees and the maintenance of company stores and providing for the employment of counsel and necessary help making an appropriation for the expenses and giving such commission the necessary powers to make its investigation and providing penalties for contempt of its authority.

Whereas by Section forty-three of "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations" approved April twenty-nine one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four it is provided that "no mining or manufacturing company shall permit to be withheld or authorize or direct the withholding of wages due any of its operatives or employees by reason of the sale or furnishing of goods wares or merchandise of any person to such operatives or employees unless the same be withheld by reason of and in obedience to due process of law" and

Whereas by an act of Assembly approved June nine one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one entitled "An act to prohibit mining and manufacturing corporations from engaging in the business of carrying on [illegible] company stores or general supply stores." It is provided that "no mining or manufacturing company or its officers or stockholders shall engage in or carry on by direct or indirect means any general supply store known as a company store or lease or grant any such privilege to any other person for its use and benefit or permit any such store upon its premises or make any rule and regulation by which the employees of such corporation are required to trade in such store" and

Whereas it has been charged and is generally believed that the law governing such companies is being openly violated in many counties of this State and hundreds of thousands of workmen complain very bitterly of the following conditions

1 That they are compelled to purchase most of their household goods clothing groceries and other needs from the company stores maintained for the benefit of the mining and manufacturing corporations employing them

2 That unless they purchase these goods from the company stores they are given the most undesirable and unprofitable places of work while those workmen trading liberally with the store are preferred for advancement and good positions

3 The mining and manufacturing companies maintain a system of espionage over the workmen to see that all their purchases are made from the company stores and not elsewhere

4 That in many mining settlements the entire village is surrounded by a high fence and no outside person is permitted to go upon the company's premises or to trade with or solicit orders from the workmen

5 That many mining companies do not give the employees the opportunity of working full time but maintain double shifts of employees on part time in order to have the benefit of the trade at the company store of a larger number of families By means of this system the men and their families are kept practically in a state of bondage working to pay for their mere existence

6 That many companies do not pay or advance any wages between the regular bi-weekly pay days and the workmen are compelled to take merchandise which they must resell at a loss of from ten to fifty per cent

7 That in some instances the company itself either directly or indirectly repurchases such merchandise from the employees for cash at a considerable discount

8 That some companies issue merchandise certificates and metal merchandise checks redeemable in merchandise only in the place of paying cash for wages and do not permit the employees to sell such checks to any other person or company

9 That in every instance the men are compelled to spend nearly all of their earnings with the company store and the full amount of such purchases are always deducted out of the pay envelopes

10 That the company stores charge higher prices than the regular market price and compel the men to take inferior and unseasonable goods

11 That this system pays the company enormous profits of over one hundred (100 per centum) per cent annually stifles free competition encourages extravagance by the employees and demoralizes the community where it thrives all of which is contrary to the American principles of equality before the law

And Whereas it is deemed advisable by the Legislature of this Commonwealth to investigate all such matters and complaints so that the facts may be accurately ascertained and the law enforced against all persons or companies who may violate its letter or spirit now

Therefore be it resolved by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met that the Governor shall appoint three citizens of this Commonwealth the Speaker of the House apppoint three members of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate who shall constitute a commission for the purpose of ascertaining the exact facts existing in the mining and manufacturing regions with reference to the withholding of wages due the employees of such mining and manufacturing companies and with reference to the maintaining and operating of company stores or general supply stores in which employees of the mining and manufacturing companies are compelled to trade

REASONS FOR REPEAL OF ACTS.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask the consent of the House to offer the reasons for a bill that was introduced, being a repealer of a divorce bill passed at the last session of the Legislature. I desire to ask the consent of the House to place my reasons for such repealer before the House, and have the reasons spread upon the Journal.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objections. The reasons for the introduction of the bill will be read by the Clerk and spread upon the Journal.

The reasons were then read by the Clerk, as follows:

Representatives John R. K. Scott assigns as his reasons for offering a bill to repeal the Act of 1911, which was an amendment of the Act of 1815, pertaining to the right of trial by jury in actions in divorce, the following:

"After the amendment of 1911 had passed both houses and had been signed by the Governor, it was announced in public press by some members that they had voted for the bill without having full knowledge of its contents. It was also announced in public press that the bill had been offered to facilitate the granting of a divorce to a certain prominent individual. The Act was frequently referred to in public press as the "Mellon" Bill, meaning thereby that it was enacted for the advantage of one person.

"Having offered the bill of 1911 to the House, I did so after consultation with many of my fellows on the defects and the merits of the uniform divorce law, which had been introduced at the same session. The discussion as to the demerits of the uniform divorce law was not alone confined to the members of the House, but was entered into by many of the leading members of the Bar and quite a few of the judges. The law as it was then proposed by the uniform divorce law, would have caused endless litigation in determining the meaning of many of its paragraphs, especially that portion pertaining to divorce based upon grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. It would have compelled all cases to have been heard in open court, with all nauseating and sensational details of the charges. This was considered a serious defect in the proposed legislation, and was condemned by bench and bar. The result of these conferences and discussions ended in draughting of a bill which gave the right to a judge to submit all matters in a divorce case unfit for publication and public hearing to the private hearing of a master. The bill was never enacted for the purpose of depriving any one of trial by jury. The bill has no such provision in it. The highest power given by the bill is, that either side to a divorce proceeding may petition the Court to trial by a master, and in such cases as the court feels that public morals would be corrupted by the hearing and the publishing of the charges, then to have that portion of the case heard by a master and report the same to the court.

"This bill is legislation in the right direction. It is meritorious, and was offered as a meritorious measure, having been draughted not by one alone, but as the result of the thought and endeavor of several members of the Legislature, members of the bar and judges. At no time was any particular individual either thought of or suggested in the enactment of the legislation. I offer the repealer so that members of this House who were members of the last House may give, after full discussion, their mature expression as to the merit of the Act of 1911.

"For my own part, while offering this repealer, it is not my thought to support it. I believe that the Act of 1911 is a meritorious piece of Legislation, and I believe that it has the support of every lawyer who has given it any thought and study.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. Bill No. 10, entitled:

A Joint resolution providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate and report upon the complaints made relating to the violation by mining and manufacturing companies of this State of the law governing the withholding of wages from employes and the maintenance of company stores and providing for the employment of counsel and necessary help making an appropriation for the expenses and giving such commission the necessary powers to make its investigations and providing penalties for contempt of its authority.

And said bill having been read at length the third time considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, with your permission I would like to say a word of explanation concerning the meaning, and the intention of the proposed bill. You can see gentlemen this is a joint resolution, asking for the appointment of a joint commission of three members of the House, three Senators and three citizens at large, by the Governor. This Commission is asked to investigate complaints by various labor organizations and merchants' associations of Western Pennsylvania. The thing complained against is the open and continuous and flagrant violation of the laws of Pennsylvania, regarding the maintenance and operation of combination stores which are prohibited by law. I may say, gentlemen, that the complaint is confined almost exclusively to Western Pennsylvania, where the mining and manufacturing Companies pay almost no attention to the expressed regulation laid down by the law. We also say that this violation has been repeated for probably twenty to thirty years notwithstanding the fact that it was made illegal by express statute regulation.

I have a resolution from the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, in which they say the representatives of approximately 800,000 working men and women have resolved with an appeal to the members of organized labor in every section of the mining and manufacturing district and asked them to lend them assistance, and every assistance they could, to this resolution in order that justice may be done. Also a similar resolution from the Iron Trades—a resolution from Pittsburgh representing 700,000 laboring men and women, asking the gentlemen representing them that this is in the name of organized labor—in the name of both as set forth—they have been allied in the name of fair play for both employer and employee. The bill simply calls for a commission to investigate the complaints that are made. It does not enact anything new; it does not change any law already existing. It simply calls for an open and honest investigation by the State and by this House in order that we may know whether this law is actually being defied or whether or not the complaint is groundless.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, coming from the mining and manufacturing District of Western Pennsylvania, I feel that after having come in contact with a great many men employed in the mills and mines there and having heard, personally, their complaint as to the manner of conducting these company stores I am ready to believe that this measure is a wise one. That conditions are such as would warrant investigation. I have been told time and again both by miners and mill workers that they were compelled to trade with so-called company stores or "pluck-me" stores, and if they didn't do so they would lose their positions. This being the case the bill meets with my approval and I believe that the House at this time should pass this measure and that the conditions should be investigated.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows:

Oh God, we reverently acknowledge Thy guardianship, and loving care. We have gone to our homes and have returned in safety because Thou has kept us, and we make mention of the fact with gratitude and gladness. We thank Thee for the home relationships which Thou hast assigned us, for the ties which bind us to those who are there, and who are thinking of us as we are thinking of them, and we commend them to Thee. Now as we assemble for the work which brings us from our homes we pray for Thy presence and blessing. Our help is in the name of the Lord who made Heaven and earth and we turly believe that He will fulfill the desire of those who fear Him. May it be so with us. Wilt Thou bless Thy servant, the presiding officer of this Assembly, continuing to him the health and strength which he now enjoys, and giving him daily help according to his daily needs, and may all men who deliberate and vote, who shape the legislation and who frame the laws, be earnest and honest men, inspired by high ideals and governed by lofty principles. May no evil thought or purpose or passion pervert any mind or control any heart, but may all seek to know the truth and to do the right. And wilt Thou bless the men who record the proceedings of this Assembly and upon whose fidelity and alertness and skill so much depends, and qualify them for efficient work. And may all men in official relation, not merely in this Commonwealth but in all the Commonwealths of our nation, be true men so that righteousness may prevail through all our nation, and the people be prosperous. We ask this in the name of that sovereign Lord whom we reverently honor and are trying to serve. Amen.

Whereas The Congress of the United States of America has in due form prescribed by law passed the following joint resolution proposing an amendment to section three of Article one of the Constitution of the United States namely

Resolved That a certified copy of the foregoing preamble and of this resolution be forwarded by the Governor to the secretary of State for the United States of America in accordance with the law in such case made and provided

And the said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will try and take but a little time of the House, as I am going to vote against this Resolution which gives or changes one of the fundamental principles of our government, in my judgment, namely, changing the manner of electing the United States Senators. I know, and you know, that there has been for several years a very effective and energetic effort on the part of some of the citizens of this great government of ours advocating this proposition. If I felt convinced of that it was based upon a careful investigation and a thorough knowledge of the reasons why the present system is in vogue, I would be willing to yield my judgment to that of the public, but I feel satisfied that much that has been said and much that has been written upon the subject has been from men who have not studied the underlying principles that led to that manner of electing the United States Senators. The men who framed the Constitution of this Government of ours must have had some reason for not providing for the direct election of United States Senators, which was the method of electing the chief executive of our Government, and also for electing the lower branch of our Government. I feel that this sentiment or feeling against the present method of electing United States Senators comes largely from the few that do not understand that it is a step towards that system of governing republic that has in all history proven a failure. I don't believe that the passing of this Resolution, or the endorsement of this Resolution, by the various states of this Union in sufficient numbers to make it a part of the Constitutional law of our government is particularly dangerous. I believe we can adjust ourselves to those conditions, and under normal conditions there is not the slightest danger in making the change; but the test of our laws comes only when unusual conditions arise. While we are moving along as we are now, it would matter very little whether the United States Senator was elected by the direct vote of the people, or whether he was elected indirectly as it now is. But, in the life of all governments and republics especially there comes crucial periods. We have passed through two very crucial periods in the history of the American people. One of the most crucial periods in our history when we were trying to create a government under the Articles of Confederation. That was found to be an instrument under which a republic such as ours could not live, such as at that time, with its limited population of 4,000,000 of people, it practically came to pass and with that experience and with the experience of all the nations that had ever attempted to build republics. It was evident that sometimes the people suffered from their own folly. Nearly every republic in history went down from the follies of their own people. Those follies were the result of false doctrines that were preached to them by men who perhaps were honest in their belief. A well balanced legislature for a government as large as this should certainly have some checks and balance. If it is to be governed by the sentiment or the feeling of the moment, we will suffer through our own errors and those errors may be so great that the republic may go down under those conditions. Now when those conditions exist generally in the minds of the people, there should be some check somewhere where hasty action could not prevail. The men who framed the constitution of this government knew evidently if they did not have that fear, if they did not have a suspicion that it was unwise to let all of the people act hastily in that matter, they never would have engrafted into the constitution of this government these checks and balances. Now let us see what some of them are. They provided that the executive should be elected by the vote of the people, each and every individual having an equal force and an equal power in that selection of each individual elector. It provided that that elector could not take his seat until the Congress in existence at the time of his election had gone out of existence, and that he would not have to deal with a new Congress until he had been in office about ten months. It provided while a Congressman be elected in November, he should not take his seat until the following December one year hence.

Why didn't they provide that he take his seat almost immediately? They must have had some reason for that. What was the reason? The reason that existed then is more vital now. It was that they knew well that in the turmoil and strife and hatred that arises in campaigns, criminations and recriminations thrown backward and forward, that the elected congressman comes in contact with gentlemen of another party and that the members will probably meet each other in bad temper, and they will have no opportunity to study the needs of the Government if they are engaged in factional quarrels. They knew that when they framed the Constitution. They must have thought of that, They, therefore, provided that about thirteen months should elapse between the time of the election and the time of the taking up of their official duties, and there was no reason for that except that they feared that in the heat of passion(under exciting conditions, they would not carefully and considerately and faithfully handle the legislative propositions that would be presented to them. And you know, all of you, as well as I do, that the suggestion of a second body, or in other words, dividing the legislative members into two bodies was a new proposition, and while all the monarchial countries of old Europe and the rest of the world at that time, and all the statesmen of the world, believed that this republic would be a failure because they had measured the attempt to build republics from what had occurred in previous history, and any man who carefully investigates that question will find just exactly what they found, that one representative body fresh from the people with all the powers and no checks had invariably failed, and gone down through the effects of their own follies. Therefore the question of whether the United States Senators should be elected by the direct vote of the people or whether in some other manner was discussed. Three propositions were carefully considered, among them the question of whether the lower halls of congress should be elected. Just at the moment I do not recall the third, but the suggestion was made, and I do not exactly remember by which member of the constitutional convention that they should not reflect if possible the thought of the moment. It should be elected by the different legislatures of the various states because it solved one of the great questions that was discussed by the framers of the Constitution. One of the most difficult propositions, as you all know. In those debates was to fix exactly who should be entitled to the franchise. Whether it should be measured by a man's wealth, or whether it should be measured by his intelligence, and the question of a man's wealth, or in other words, the question of a man's property qualifications very nearly prevailed until Benjamin Franklin suggested that three hundred dollars would be about the necessary property to qualify a person to be an elector, and it seemed to them that that was a good suggestion, but Franklin foiled it with this proposition, "Then I suppose that if I owned a horse and it was worth three hundred dollars, you would allow me to vote." They said, "Yes." Then he said, "If the horse should die, I could not vote." and they said, "No." Then he said, "Who voted, the horse or did I," and that just solved that proposition right there. But to solve the proposition of educational qualifications this plan was hit upon. The legislative bodies of the various states will certainly demand a man that can read and write, and at least have about the average educational qualifications of the masses, and then the matter was considered as to whether the larger states might not join together and take from the smaller states all of their rights; and the suggestion was made that the smaller states of the Union be allowed equal representation with the larger states in that second legislative body, and then they well knew, as every man knows, that a large legislative body is not as a rule deliberative; nor as easy to be counselled with or talked to as a smaller body of men. They thought they could see in future a great republic which has since materialized, a republic of 90,000,000 of citizens and a house of congressmen of nearly five hundred members, in the lower house of Congress. Had they not devised some plan of having a deliberate body just exactly as they did at that time, it would not have stood there up to the present time, and this they knew too well that men when they are in legislative capacities refused to be guided by their better judgment although in a position to understand a public problmm. I think they felt the voice of the people behind them, though they understood better than their constituency as in the case of Thaddeus Stevens who stood in the halls of this legislative body of the State of Pennsylvania notwithstanding the fact that almost to a man the people of his own county, Franklin County, came here and threatened him with his life. It is reported to me, correctly I think, that they came and stood in the corridors with daggers in their sleeves, and told him that if he ever came back into Franklin County he would do so at the peril of his life. But he understood the proposition better than his people, and he prevailed upon the majority of the members of the body not to repeal the school laws, and when the Legislature adjourned, you know he never went back to Franklin County, but he went to Lancaster County, and know he is a figure in the great galaxy of statesmen who have helped to build up this great government of ours. What do I mean my electing a United States Senator fresh from the thought of the moment, fresh from the people that that amount of independence that every public man should try to have, is to a certain degree interfered with and thwarted. We want our legislative body to be stable to be faithful and to be conservative. We want that body to be able to withstand the cry of a majority when the majority is wrongly led. Now, my friends, I do not want any person to say that I distrust the American people, for I do not. I have as much faith in the judgment of the American people I think, as any man in this hall, but I do know that history has told us, and you see it now, and you saw it in Pittsburgh about a day or two ago, that men become frenzied, lose their reason, and will destroy themselves.

Let that condition become large enough and influential enough to reach from the center to the circumference of this great government of ours, and may not a majority make that mistake? And may that not be so great that it may influence this check that the Fathers of our Government put in for that very identical purpose. I think this: I think that there is a prevailing opinion amongst the masses, that the Constituiion of our State and the Constitution of our National Government has robbed the people of their rights.

I have heard it in conversation, so that I am beginning to believe that this is the reason there are so many for the changing of the Constitution. If the people of this great State only knew that it is the Constitution that protects them from the hasty actions of Legislative bodies and also from corruption that may creep into them. Our national constitution and the Constitutions of every State in the Union is the people's "Magna Charta." It is the Constitution that limits and defines your powers, and it is the Constitution which says you can only be a member of this body so long as you behave yourself. Talk about "recall!" The Constitution has had that ever since it was written. The Constitution defines just how far the executive of this great Government can legally go, and he cannot go any farther. It defines exactly how far the greatest can go, and he can go no farther. If you will read your Constitution—perhaps you all have read it more than I have, but it will be good reading, and it will bear reading a great many times. Read it with the thought that every line and every sentence and every paragraph in it is restricting the powers of the officeholders of this Government, from the Chief Executive down to the legislative body. Are you going to trifle with that without thought? If the people only knew that our Constitution gives them all the rights and preserves to them all their rights absolutely. But the trouble is this: In the western part of this great Government of ours, a very large per cent. of the foreign element exists. Socialism, as you know, comes very largely from that element. It is from that section of this Government of ours, sparsely settled, that don't know the conditions of the thickly populated States or communities from which it comes. They started with these "isms." It began back in the time of the Populist Party. It came back gradually from one "ism" to another, but all tend to destroy the safeguards put in their by the fathers of our country, who approved the Constitution, everyone of them. All this is tending to destroy the very protection which is given them. Why, they are actually in the position of Patrick, who stood on the limb and cut it off. He went down with the limb. They don't know what they are trying to do, or they certainly would not do it. Mr. Speaker, I am going to tell you what Madison's opinion of the Constitution was. I don't like to read to a body like this, as I don't like to take your time, but I feel it is of vital importance:

"The qualifications proposed for a Senator, as distinguished from a Representative, consist in a more advanced age and a longer period of citizenship. Their appointment by the State legislature is recommended by the double advantage of favoring a select appointment, and of giving to the State governments such an agency in the formation of the Federal Government as most secures the authority of the former, forming a convenient link between th two the former, forming a convenient link between the two systems.

Equality of representation in the Senate, the result of a compromise between the opposite pretensions of the large and small States. This being a compound republic, partaking both of the national and federal character, the government ought to be founded on a mixture of the principles of proportional and equal represenation. This equality of representation was a Constitutional recognition of that portion of sovereignty remaining in the individual States, and an instrument for preserving that residuary sovereignty. Another advantage accruing from this ingredient of the Senate is the additional impediment it furnishes against improper acts of legislation. No law can be passed without a concurrence both of a majority of the people and a majority of the States. Excess of law-making is one of the diseases to which republics are most liable.

The Senate doubles the security of the people by requiring the concurrence of two distinct bodies in any schemes of usurpation and perfidy. The necessity of such a safeguard is indicated by the propensity of all single and numerous assemblies to yield to the impulses of sudden and violent passion, and to be led to factious leaders into intemperate and pernicious legislation. To correct this infirmity in legislation, the Senate is made less numerous than the House, and by its mode of selection and its longer tenure of office more independent. It secures a body of men who possess a more profound acquaintance with the objects and principles of legislation and government than can be expected of the other House, composed of men called from private pursuits, and generally continued in office for a short time, and led by no permanent motive to devote the intervals of public occupation to a study of the laws, the affairs and the comprehensive interests of their countrymen.

Such a body as the Senate prevents too great a mutability in the public councils which might arise from a rapid succession of new members. Practically one-half of the Representatives are changed at every election, and from this change of men must proceed a change of measures, (How true to day in the State of Pennsylvania!)

The Senate creates a select body of men with a due sense of national character. While it undergoes an unceasing process of gradual renewal, it does not change all at once, and is, therefore, a stable and permanent body and obtains the respect of foreign governments by maintaining an enlightened, wise and continuous policy, not subject to constant change. Being less numerous and changeable than the House, it results that a sensible degree of the praise and blame of public measures is the portion of each individual Senator. Invested with a durable public trust, they are more considerate of the effect of their measures as viewed by foreign nations and by the States of the Union, than would be a more numerous and changeable body, with a shorter tenure and selected directly by the people.

The Senate creates an additional body in the legislative department with sufficient permanency to provide such measures as require continued attention. It creates an institution which is necessary as a defence to the people against their own temporary errors and delusions."

Did Mr. Madison's views, expressed a hundred years ago, hold true to the conditions that have occurred since? Let us see. We can examine a little history that you and I know something about. We know that the Government of France tried twice to erect a republic, and we know that their efforts twice failed, and we know that in both of their first attempts they created a republic with only one legislative body, and we know that in their third attempt, the men who framed the Constitution of France carefully studied the Constitution of this Government, and they found that we had one of our bodies not elected by the direct vote of the people. But the Government of France was one whole government, or, in other words, one whole republic, if it be a republic. It didn't have the sub-divisions that we have known as States, but they created States. They divided up sections, and the representatives in their lower house were to become members and participate with the mayors of the various towns and cities in those particular districts, and vote for the membership of their Senate. No man who has ever written upon the Government of the French people has ever dealt with the subject with a wider degree of knowledge than Dr. Tocqueville; and he has said that the French Government of today owes its existence to that Senate and not to the former attempts to build republics. This can be laid to the door of the failure of the framers of the earlier French Constitutions to be guided by the wisdom and the provisions of the framers of this republic. Yes, I have heard a voice in my own country, and you have all heard it in yours—that the United States Senate has been weakened because of this system; because they say corruption has crept into the Legislatures of the various States and men don't go into their respective Legislative bodies and act in accordance with their own independent best judgment. Oh, they say, they have been influenced, corruptly influenced, and they have elected men to the United States Senate that didn't represent their people. Perhaps that is true to some extent, but the men who talk that way, must certainly conclude that the people at home are not capable of selecting good men for the Legislative body of their own State. Now, if the people, en masse, in a small subdivision of less than six thousand voters, are not giving enough attention to government affairs to select one man who is fit to represent them in a legislative body, how can the man who holds that opinion think that in a State of eight millions of people they will make a wise selection and that it will not be influenced in the same way. Why, I don't think that there is a member in this House who will not agree with me that if the members who fill the various Legislatures of the States of this Union do not give enough attention to public affairs, how can the people know anything about this great problem of Government and its fundamental principles if they don't even exercise enough thought to select the proper man to represent them in the Legislative body of their State. Why, to my mind the argument that is offered that a United States Senator, elected by the people, will give us a better representation in the Senate, and who will then immediately say that the representative body of the Legislature whom they selected is corrupt and unfit to judge better than they the masses.

I have as intelligent and as honorable a constituency, I think, as any representative in this body, and if they don't exercise good enough judgment to elect a representative from their Second Legislative District of Delaware County, do you tell me, do you hope to make people believe that they can select, when you have enmasse 8,000,000 people, do you think that 8,000,000 people will more carefully and thoughtfully consider the proposition than 207 members in the hall of this House? We are confronted with a remarkable condition. Upon one hand the progressive element tells us that we must reduce the legislative bodies in cities to a commission of eight or ten, and then upon the other hand they come back and say the great masses shall select their United States Senator to represent them, in the most deliberative and best legislative body that has ever existed on the map of the world—every student of American history that has studied the American people has said that the United States Senate is the strongest, the most careful, the most considerate and the wisest legislative body on the map of the globe. There must be a reason. There are no perfect men. The great trouble is that men set up a perfect man, and try to measure us all up to him, and we all fall short. If you want to measure the individual Senators of this great nation of ours by the perfect man, there is not one there. But if there was any one rule that a man ought to be guided by as to whether I am a good mechanic it is to go out and examine my work. I know of no better rule. One hundred and twenty-two years ago, when the last ten amendments were placed—and there would have been none since—well, there was one in 1893 and one in 1898 of minor importance—there would have been no amendments in the building of this enormous government down to the present day had we not wiped out the slavery proposition. The thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments were added to the Constitution of this United States, and were added because of the conditions that arose out of the declaring that there should be no more slavery in this government of ours. The only way I have to measure the practicability of a proposition is to put it into operation. Let it be mechanical or let it be theory. One hundred and twenty-four years ago we started to build a republic. The thought of the hour, and the thought of the moment is that for some reason which pervades the political atmosphere—and I think I know the reason why—that all public men should be distrusted. I have seen the legislature of the State of Pennsylvania—and I can look back thirty years and at the close of each and every session the opposition press has generally called us the most unwise and corrupt of all our predecessors. I remember so well when I went home in 1895, the first time I served as a member in this House, and I read the opposition press. In those days there was only one opposition to the Republican party and only one opposition to the Democratic party; and the Democratic press said that we were the most unwise and profligate legislature that had ever met in the State of Pennsylvania. Why, I know people would swear by the newspaper. If you ask them whether a story is true, they will say: "I know it is true for I have seen it in the newspaper." You have seen them. I have seen them.

The thought that I want to give you is this: The public press of this government of ours, notwithstanding that criticism, notwithstanding those declarations, cannot put a finger on any place on the map of the world where there are a little less than 8,000,000 that will surpass the State of Pennsylvania.

We have upon the statute books of this State laws that would compare with the best brains of the Parliament of the English empire. Now, perhaps I just said that myself, and nobody else ever said so. I realize that I am taking a good deal of your time, but I am dealing with the fundamental principles of this great government of ours, and it is a vital proposition, do not forget it.

In the North American Review of 1908, Emmet O'Neal, a native of Alabama, who studied at the University of Mississippi, and graduated at the University of Alabama, and was admitted to the bar in 1875, in 1893 he was United States Attorney for the Northern District of Alabama, in 1902, he was Democratic Presidential Elector for the State at large, and was also a member of the Constitutional Convention for the State at large—I had my reasons for selecting this, part of which I will read to you, because it was written bp what I consider a very, very able man and a Democrat—and this is what he said:

"There may be isolated cases where members of the legislature have betrayed the interests of the people, but the great mass of the legislatures of the forty-six States of the Union have been picked and chosen men of the communities from which they come, and have been "honest, wise, faithful and just." The statute books of these forty-six commonwealths are without a stain and are replete with wise and beneficent laws under which the States have grown into great and powerful Commonwealths. It was a great statesman, from whose lips words of idle praise never fell, who said: "The statute-books of these Commonwealths can be read by the patriot without a blush. I am not afraid to compare them with the two hundred and fifty parliaments through which for eight hundred years the freedom of England has broadened slowly down from precedent to precedent."

I quote from another great Democratic statesman. John C. Calhoun of South Carolina said this:

"It may be said that the very beau ideal of a perfect Government is the government of the majority acting through a representative body, without check or limitation on its powers; yet, if we may test this theory by reason and experience, we shall find that so far from being perfect, the necessary tendency of all governments based upon the will of an absolute majority, without constitutional check or limitation of power, is to faction, corruption, anarchy and despotism; and this wether the will of the majority be expressed directly through an assembly of the people themeslves or by their representatives."

If a body of men could frame a constitution for a government that would stand for a hundred and twenty-two years with scarcely any change than two insignificant amendments, it is no wonder that the statesmen of the world declare it the greatest instrument every devised by men. Every great statesman has dwelt upon the chacks and balances contained therein, giving to one branch of our government an expression from the people, giving to the executive a direct expression from the people, and then giving to another body a more indirect election so as to remove, as far as possible, one Legislative body from the passions of the hour.

Now just one or two more words and then I am going to stop. There is something that so aptly applies to the hour or the moment. It is from a Democratic United States Senator, delivered in the United tSates Senate on January 31, 1911, and any person who feels like corroborating whta I say can get the Congressional Record of January 31, 1911. I want to preface what he states by ending that the foreign element that has come into this country of ours has mistaken what the word "Liberty" stands for. They have an impression that "Liberty" stands for "license" but it don't. It don't stand for "license" at all. I suppose they read the Constitution of the United States and they find this; and this is the preamble to the Constitution of our national government:

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquality, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.'

"The blessings of Liberty"—a very large portion come from those countries where individual liberty is very limited. Letters are written back to them to come to this country of liberty where every man is equal. It is not so. Every man is not equal. They should have written back, "come to this country where every man's opportunity is equal, and where we can go as we please, go when we please and come when we please—the land of liberty." Now they think that liberty means that they can do just as they please; that the whole highway is theirs and everybody must get out of the way. That is not liberty. That is license; and it is their conception of liberty that has furthered these propositions that have been handed down from the western country, as I said before. The Constitution in every line, as I said, protects us from the so-called politician. No man ever knew a live statesman. Men become statesmen after they are dead. Jefferson Davis, in a speech as I told you, said; now, look at the belief on the public mind;

"I, sir, believe in the intelligence, the virture, the honesty, and patriotism of the American people, and intrusted with this power they will do no wrong. Ours is a brave, courageous, independent citizenship, who will not tolerate political dictation or bossism, and never was this spirit of independence more righteously and powerfully administered than in the recent elections in November.

Mr. Roosevelt, with his great brain and matchless courage, and unquenchable thirst for power and place, having been feted and almost idolized by the crowned heads of the Old Worlds, returned to his native land and was accorded such a reception as seldom falls to the lot of the returning hero, and but for his undying thirst for dictatorship and his unbridled ambition to rule, he might perhaps have gone down in history as one of America's greatest statesmen, and nothing better illustrates the patriotism and loyalty of the American people to the traditions of our fathers and spirit and genius of our institutions than the scatling rebuke that was administered to him not only in his own country, his own bailiwick, his own State, but the entire Nation itself, where the voice of the people was heard and his new natinoalism, which is but the reincarnation of the old spirit of Hamiltonism, received such a stunning blow at the polls that he has been consigned to the political isle of St. Helena, and his doctrines and his once almost superhuman strength, and power have been thproughly discredited before the American people.

Why, sir, he had become more dangerous than Napoleon to the free spirit of the time. In my own State I saw him ride at the head of the multitude, each clamoring almost for the privilege of touching his garment; he was preceded by couriers and outriders bedecked in coats of mail, marching to the blast of the bugle, and with shamed face and just indignation our people heard him presented as the greatest living American whose doctrines shauld receive their indorsement, and in the anguish of my soul I cried, Oh, tempora! Oh, moras! has the spirit of independence fled? Has the teachings of our fathers been forgotten and are we drifting back to the days of the pomp and splendor of Napoleonic times, to forgetfulness of the rights of the American people?"

Would he say that now? He was mistaken, was he not? I think and, in fact, I agree largely with what Mr. Davis said, and I am not near so severe in my criticism of our ex-President. But I want to say to this House that it is my firm belief that that man, in his desires to be one of the greatest men in the history of America, was one of the characters that Lincoln back in 1837 said would come along some day, an ambitious man, a man who thirsted for glory. And so absorbed was he in his desires that he has forgotten the people and preached doctrines that were dangerous.

I think that it is dangerous to undertake to preach to the people and make them believe that they are thoroughly able to understand the problems of a government so great as this great republic is. I think it is a dangerous doctrine to preach. The State of Nevada in the census of 1911 had 42,000 citizens, and had as much voice in the legislative halls or our United States Senate as the great State of New York, with her nine millions of people. And because of that condition existing in the provisions of the National Constitution to-day the rights of the smaller states are as carefully protected as the rights of the larger States. And if you decide that the Senate shall be a representative body, it won't be long until the doctrine will be brought forward that each individual elector should have equal power in selecting the man who should represent that body. When you do that, what will become of the smaller states? What will prevent the two legislative bodies of our National Government, through a coalition, when at the present time ten states in this Union have a population equal to that of the other thirty-eight, ten states, if it is to be a representative body, and each and every elector have an equal voice in the government, will be able to control both legislative bodies of this country of ours. That is what the proposition means. I realize, my friends, that I come too late perhaps to convince this House. I believe that the men who have studied the problem of government have neglected their duties and I do not believe that we would be here to-day if the men who should have given atention to it, and perhaps I should not have said should have, had not neglected to have it made plain to the people what this proposition means to them, the preservation of this Union. Why will we now make a change in a matter that has stood for 124 years, and why are we going to tamper with that very proposition that the greatest statesmen in the world have declared was the anchor rock of this great Republic, of this government.

Mr. E. E. JONES: It is not my purpose to reply in detail to the eloquent address which we have just listened to from the gentleman from Delaware. There are others in the House who are far better able to do this than myself. This is a question which has occupied the attention of the American people for many years, for quite a number of years. The halls of Congress have heard great debates upon it. The press throughout the Union have printed arguments pro and con. Books have been written upon it, and magazine articles have appeared all through this land, and I have no doubt that every member of this House has already decided in his mind as to how he shall vote upon this proposition. I do not dispute that in the early days of this country that the wise provision of our forefathers who drew up the Constitution of the United States did wisely in providing as they did for the election of United States Senators, but I do claim that conditions have changed in these later days, and that under this system the faults of bossism have grown up, and that this is one of the strongest position that the bosses can maintain and by striking out and changing this system we strike at the seat of modern bossism. But in addition to that, Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of the members of the House to the fact that in my opinion every member of this House would be very glad to have divorced from his candidacy the matter of the candidacy of the United States Senator. It should not be mixed up with the candidacy for this legislative body and thereby embarass and confuse the electors who are passing upon the qualifications of a legislator in this House of Representatives. The system which we propose merely provided that the people throughout the State may vote directly for United States Senators instead of voting for Representatives who come here and who here vote for a United States Senator. I have introduced this Resolution, Mr. Speaker, in compliance with my pledge to the Republican platform in this State, and to the Democratic platform in this State, and to the platform as put forth by the State Grange and I believe that the majority of the members of this House as represented by all members, have pledged themselves already to this proposition, and, therefore, I leave the matter with you to vote upon as you have already doubtless arrived at a decision in your own minds.

Mr. LANIUS: Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not wish to go into detail in this matter that is now before the House. I will refrain from going into any argument on the matter, but I wish to say a few facts to the members here. The English government was not as stable under the old form of government as it is at present, which was due to the introduction of the House of Parliament until they had the lower house, the House of Lords, held complete sway and dictated the policies of the country. Since the introduction of the lower house England has the greatest Parliament to-day in the world. Russia has the same form of government, having a Senate and a House not elected by the people at all. The failure of the system in France was due to unrest and Jacobism and other isms and it was not until Lafayette devised the plan of the Code Napoleon that France took her stand among the republics of the world. The gentleman from Delaware asks why we would change a system that had been in vogue for one hundred and twenty-five years. When the Declaration of Independence was written, it was written for the black man just as well as for the white man, but it took this United States seventy-four years before that good man got his share of liberty. When our forefathers kept this man from his justice, were they right, or were they wrong? The were wrong. Every true American patriot rejoiced that Lincoln issued his Emancipation Proclamation and gave to the black people their rights. Now my friends and Mr. Speaker, I wish you to give me just a few moments more. The gentleman from Delaware has said that the people are intelligent enough to vote and choosing a man for themselves, and certainly we are, or why would we be here to-day. Is there a man in the House to-day who will say that the people did not choose intelligently when they sent him here. If they have show intelligence in the selection of the two hundred and seven members who are in this House to-night, I want to call attention to the fact that they can vote just as intelligently district for district for United States Senator. We have representatives from fourty-eight states and we can elect forty-eight more making a total of ninety-six. We select the President of the United States, and we fill our legislative halls and I want to tell you that we are able to vote and select a United States Senator. What are our educational institutions doing. Has this question been carefully considered? Of course it has. The press has given many columns to it. It has been debated and talked about and we are here to-day to give the people what they want, and that is the right to elect a United States Senator by direct vote. And they shall have it. Why should this body be mislead. The people demand to-day that they shall have the right of direct election. It gives to them the responsibility, and that is exactly what they want. I believe in the intelligence of the American people. To-day the American Republic stands out as the greatest republic under the Sun, and who will say that we are not able and intelligent enough here in the State of Pennsylvania to select a man who will represent us in the United States Senate, we could select six, or even a dozen men in this State who are capable and honest. I think that the proposition is the most ridiculous one under the Sun, that the people of this State have not the intelligence to do this. I do not wish to tire this body any longer, but I trust that every true American Patriot, every man who has the confidence of his constituency back of him, and every man who believes he is intelligent enough to represent that constituency, to vote to elect the United States Senator by the direct vote of the people.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN: Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman:

The SPEAKER: Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANIUS: I will.

Mr. BALDWIN: I may perhaps have misunderstood the gentleman from York, but I understood him to say that the framers of the Constitution intended at the time of the framing to treat the black man and white man alike. Is that right.

Mr. LANIUS: That is what I think.

Mr. BALDWIN: Then I will read the Constitution and see what it had in mind, as it referred to that particular matter. From my undestanding the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments changed that condition.

Mr. STEELE: I intend to vote aye on this proposition and I believe that the question resolves itself this evening to the members of the Legislature into just a few points in regard to the election of the United States Senator by the direct vote of the people. The simplicity of this election, the efficiency of this election and the fact that they are answerable to the people. I am not very old and I cannot go back very many years, but I can remember some fifteen or twenty years of the length of time that we have had our Senators from Pennsylvania. To become a United States Senator from Pennsylvania you had to have the endorsement of one Matthew Stanley Quay and Mr. Penrose. Back in New York only a few years ago we had a Senator who was a vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as one of our United States Senators from New York, and the President of the Adams Express Company as the other. Going out west a little further we have the gold inteserts, and in the Northwest, the Vanderbilt interests. Here is the most august body in the world, the United States Senate, and yet these men are owned and controlled body and soul by corporations, individuals and express companies. Can any man in this House tell me how the good people of the State of Pennsylvania, how it is possible for them to obtain justice in this august body? I want to say that our member from Delaware in speaking about James Madison did not mention the fact, and go a little bit further. He said that they must also put a check between the people and the Senate, and he wished the Legislator instituted as a check to the common people. Now a century and a quarter is a good long time back and I must say that things that have happened then will not happen now, and things that happend now did not happen then. They did not have our efficiency in regard to railroads, telephone or in regard to electricity that we have at the present time. If a man were to be elected by the people directly at the time this Constitution was framed, it would be two or three months before he would know that he was a nominee or elector. At the present time in the State of Pennsylvania, if a man is elected by the people, it would take about two hours for the people of the State to know who the representative was to be. In speaking of this question I wish to call attention to the three points, the simplicity, the efficiency and the fact that this man would be directly answerable to the people.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT: The gentleman from Delaware seems to be laboring under the misapprehension that this proposition in seeking to amend the Constitution in one particular point is to break down our fundamental law. Of course it isn't. Not in the slightest degree. The framers of our Constitution had wisdom enough at least to know that the times and circumstances and that some changes in their instrument would be necessary, so they wisely provided for that by certain laws, and we are here in the exercise perhaps of the highest duty that we have to give to our country and we therefore have the honor to have this very important question before us. I believe that at the time the United States Constitution was adopted the method for the selection or the election of the United States Senator was by far the best, but there have been changes going on since that time, one of which makes it easier for the people to assume the functions which they have given to the Legislature. It is now more easy for the people to do so, first on account of the greater education than they had at that time and the greater advantages given by the daily, weekly and monthly press, and on account of the telegraph and telephone so that now it is easy for a man to be of State-wide reputation as a public man as it was in that day for a man to be known over his own county. In the second place, in those old days to a very large degree the State did not have those things which are now known as special interests. When Stephen Girard piled up one million dollars, he was known throughout the nation as the richest man on the fact of the earth, but to-day the millionaires are so plentiful that people would not cross the street to look at one. We have a concentration of wealth at the present time that enables great pressure to be brought to bear by a comparatively small number of men and the result of that had not been perceived by the framers of the Constitution. They did not see that the particular piece of machinery they were constructing would operate exactly as it has, and that it would be possible to be in done in case after case. They made that mistake and the people have since rectified it. Take for instance their method of selecting the President of the United States. They introduced exactly the same plan that we now want for the nomination of United States Senators. They allowed the people to elect the body of electors and the body of electors to make the selection, and the people stood for that for twenty-five years and as soon as they came to see the importance of the position of the presidency, the people took that matter into their own hands, and the electoral college became a mere piece of dead machinery, and the people of the United States thus nominated and elected their own Presidents. Now exactly that same thing is going on at the present time in the matter of the election of the United States Senator, and if they do not do it now, they will be instructed at the polls how the members of the House shall vote. That is the Oregon method and no member of the Oregon Legislature would dare to vote contrary to the instructions of the voters, so we have in that State the House and Senate of one party electing a United States Senator of the opposite party. Therefore, I say it makes little difference whether you pass this or not because when the people of the United States have once decided that they will take the election out of the hands of the legislators, that they will do it and nothing will prevent them. Therefore, I say it is better to bow to the will of the people and do that which we must do whether we will or not.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES: I agree with the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, upon one of the propositions of this amendment, that is that it is a very important question and one which should take the time and study of every member of this House. I spoke in favor of this proposed amendment and not under circumstances entirely different from that under which I spoke on the referendum vote on this question in the session of 1911. I believe that most of the members of this House have come to the conclusion and made up their minds to support this resolution and no amount of talking on one side or the other will change their minds on that question. It is one of the very important matters to be considered. The proportion is not a new one by any means. It was proposed as I understand, in the Constitutional Convention. It was discussed, this very proposition, which is now proposed to be changed. It had been debated by James Wilson, many, many years ago. It has been a subject of debate and discussion in many parliamentary bodies and has been passed upon by the House of Representatives at Washington, and debated upon by the United States Senate. It has been the subject of debate in literary societies and has been given wide notice in the press and magazine for over three- quarters of a century, so that it is no new proposition of political discussion. It has been one of the main subjects of discussion when people have been talking upon public questions. It became known from one end of the State to the other in the course of a few years, and it was thought that representative men who make up the General Assembly of the State should not be authorized to select men to fill this position of United States Senator. They were given this power because they feared and distrusted the people; they feared for their inability to make a proper selection. That there were great men selected under the old system, there can be no question. What has been the result of the system? Has it been conductive to good legislation in the State? The State of Pennsylvania stands out as one conspicuous example of the fact that the prest system led to deadlocks. To-day I read from the public press of January 20, 1913, of deadlocks in the States of West Virginia, Dakota, New Mexico and Illinois—deadlocks on the question of selecting a United States Senator. The vice has been that the legislative body has been made an electoral body and not a legislative body. A legislature should not be an electoral body, except for the purpose of electing its own officers, and for no other purpose. What has been the result. As to my own views, I don't think it is for the General Assembly of Pennsylvania or any other State to select a United States Senator. We know that men have been selected or chosen for the General Assembly of Pennsylvania and in other States solely that they may assist in choosing a United States Senator, and not upon the question of their fitness for any legislative position. Can the people be trusted for this selection? I think so. I didn't hear one argument advanced here tonight that the people of Pennsylvania are not content to select a Governor, yet the Governor is selected from the State at large, and surely if I am fitted as a citizen of this State—as one of the electors of this State—to pass upon the qualifications of a man for Governor of the State, why am I unable to pass upon the qualifications of one or two men, as the case may be, from the State at large, for membership in the United States Senate. I have not heard the proposition advanced here to-night that the people of the State of Pennsylvania, at the last election, made an improper selection of four Congressmen-at-large. They were chosen with the entire electorate of this State—four at one time— and did not the public press set forth their qualifications for that office? And was it not discussed upon the platform upon which they ran? Do you mean to say that the people of Pennsylvania are not competent to pass upon them as officers of the House of Representatives in the National Congress? I believe, Mr. Speaker, and gentleman of the House, that the American people have a capacity for self-government and I don't believe that it is necessary for a choice to be made by a legislative body solely because the people of this State are not competent to select these United States Senators. This Government belongs to the people. The Constitution, concerning which my friend from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, spoke to you and eulogized to such a high extent, is an instrument which derives its power absolutely from the people themselves, and who shall say that the people shall not have authority for changing it and that their wisdom is not well founded at this time, when this selection or manner of selection of United States Senator shall be decided. I have no fear for this warning of the destruction of the Republic by reason of placing greater power in the hands of the people, on account of the character of the people. And when the gentleman recites the old republics of Rome and Greece, he forgets that he is not talking about the American people. The American people, who are supporting a system of public instruction at the expense of the State, and who, year after year and generation after generation, have had public schools in the States where the children are educated in these public schools, and they are also educated and competent to take up a discussion of public problems; they are educated people, and above all, my friends, they are a Christian people, and with such a combination, with such a people that have an education as is imparted by our public schools, and with a Christian education, they should not be any fear of the destruction of this Government or the tearing down of the Constitution because we're going to give them more power in the restoration to them of their rights. The feeling is coming that the United States Senate is not a representative body, and I know that it is the sense of the American people that it should be, and the American people want it to be a representative body. The American people are making a demand for their right to make a correct selection, and not to have an intermediary to make the selection for United States Senator; and that every man in the State Legislature shall confine himself to State legislation and not to the selection of any national legislator. I have, as I have already stated, a full, deep and abiding faith in the American people. In the one hundred and twenty-five years which have elapsed since the framing of the Constitution, any great question which in the course of time has come up in which they have been consulted, they have acted wisely and well. I am willing to subscribe to the political doctrine and faith of Abraham Lincoln, to accept that definition of democracy in which he says that "This is a Government of the people, by the people and for the people." But I don't subscribe to that paraphrase of his definition, that this is a government of the people by the people for a representative part of the people, because that is not a democracy. Lincoln's ideal is the proper form of government. I say to you, my friends, that when I am speaking to you to-night, I know that I am voicing the sentiment of the district which I represent in this House. I know, too, as well as you know, that I am voicing the sentiment of thousands of other persons and voters of the State of Pennsylvania, and it gives me great pleasure to-night to cast my vote in favor of this resolution

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this vote to-night is not alone a vote upon a very important matter, but it is a vote to state to the people of this Commonwealth whether we are a body of good faith. The Republican Party, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, received at the last election a most striking defeat; a hundred and seventy-five thousand majority was the vote that faced the Republican Party in the very stronghold of Republicansm. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House. public men are divided into three classes. One is the public man who senses the wants of the people and then shows them the way to receive that which is beneficial. The second class is the public man who hears the voice of the people, listens and obeys the voice; and the third class is the public man who hears the voice of the people and then uses all means in his power to set out other means and defeat the will and the voice of the people. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that has passed from this day. It no longer exists. It must go down in the march of progress. The same thing, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, applies to political parties. The party who senses the wants of the people and gives that to the people is the party that will ever live in the minds and in the hearts of the people. The party who hears the voice of the people and moulds its doctrines to that voice is the party that will continue on in the good will of the people. But the party that listens to the voice of the people and then uses means to defeat and to divide the people will meet with overwhelming defeat in this State. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the Republican Party is to-night on trial. There are a few men here, and in the majority of the House some of you, who pride themselves on being Republicans. Some of you, who in the past prided yourselves on being Republicans, but have since stepped temporarily out of the ranks of the Republican party, and are here on trial before your constituents. At our Convention, Mr. Speaker, we gave the people of Pennsylvania this solemn pledge: We stand for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, and an amendment to the Constitution to bring his about. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, there is no question before the House to-night—there is no question as to the meaning of this declaration—and it is a question now of whether you keep your faith with the people. The man who now, to-night, betrays his people, thrusts himself into political darkness. I find here in the platform of the Democratic party the following: "We congratulate the country upon the triumph of two reforms demanded in the last national platform, namely the amendment of the Federal Constitution for the raising of an income tax, and amendment providing for popular election of United States Senators, and we call upon the people of all the States to rally to the support of the two propositions and secure their ratification." Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, if the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, claims to speak for the Republican Party in advocating a betrayal of this promise to the people, then there is at least one member of the Republican Party in this House for whom he is not speaking. I consider that the platform that we have all subscribed to and agreed to obey and bound ourselves to should decide this question to-night by a unanimous vote in favor of this resolution.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Blair, Mr. Claycomb.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, I desire to express a word in behalf of this resolution. I have a profound respect for the Constitution and for the checks and balances discussed by our friend from Delaware, but I don't believe, in the consideration of this question, which is a serious question, that we need go back to the classification of checks and balances. I think we need refer rather to the demand of the people to-day by reason of the conditions witnessed in our own proud Commonwealth and in other Commonwealths in the election of United States Senators. The trail of slime has crawled in the United States Senate and it has disgraced other Commonwealths, and so, to-day, the people may not be fanatics, but sane and sober, intelligent and conscientious men who stand before the bar and are asking their constituents to redeem their pledges and in response to the appeal for popular government are asking their representatives here to decide this question. The gentleman from Delaware speaks with profound logic when he quotes from the founders or writers of that immortal document. Notwithstanding that, Washington's contention was that public institutions depend upon the right of the people to make or to order their constitutions of government. I say that that sound and that echo comes down through the corridors of Time and it is here to-night. The call comes down from the wooded mountainside, from the valleys of this great Commonwealth, and we are not asked to act here to-night as schoolboys, not as men in the average literary society, but like men with a mission in our hands, and under obligation upon our hearts, and unless we prove true to that pledge, to that appeal of the people, we must reckon with our constituents. I say, my friends, that I have no doubt as to the good faith of the people of this Commonwealth. I am willing to abide with the eight millions of people in this Keystone State, with its glorified history, with its mighty achievements. I say that we ought to look back—that we ought to trace the stream of history and do what the people have been asking for, and then to do that well. I say I have faith in the people and I believe that the time will come that the truth will come, which will shake this Commonwealth, which will be composed of men as intelligent as ever scaled your Bunker Hill under smoke and bullets, and ran and traced your Gettysburg with human life. That is my faith in the people. I say to you there is an obligation upon our hearts, and that obligation must be discharged. And I say it is our duty to clothe the citizen with power and bring the Government close to the people, and then the full realization of what "Governmen by the people and for the people" means will move onward and be free from the stain that has crimsoned this Commonwealth, from which you and I have come to represent our constituents and to whom we are pledged. We will place the government in the hands of the people, where it belongs.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the remarks of the gentlemen in opposition to the position which I took are along the lines that I have read in literature and speeches that I have heard delivered, and that is to misstate the position I have assumed on this floor to-night. They have said many things in quoting me that I didn't say. I have not said, nor never have said, nor never will say, that the American people have not the right to change their Constitution, and any person who tries to put me in that position misstates me. I simply have tried to discuss whether this was a wise thing to do, and that is all the farther I have gone, and it is all the farther that any citizen ought to go, and it is as far as any citizen ought to go that has at heart the welfare of this nation. I hope I was selected, maybe I was not, to represent in part the second legislative district of Delaware county because they felt that I had the ability to do it better than many others. Many others are better, I know, but they didn't care for the job; it didn't pay enough; it paid them better to stay at home.

If an experience of one hundred and twenty-four years shows that the foundation upon which a government stands has resulted in putting the greatest government in the world on the map, then I think men can differ, and I think the man who differs and who is afraid to say so does not deserve a membership in this body. Generally in Congres a member sings his own swan song, when he knows he is not coming back. It is different in the Legislature of Pennsylvania. Somebody else your swan song. I think it is nice to have somebody to do it, because the member himself rarely ever does it without breaking out in tears.

Nobody has attempted to explain or illustrate the effects of the change. I did not when I was on my feet before because I expected my opposition would explain, as there were so many of them I had hoped that I should not have to do all the talking on this side, but if there is no other member in this body going to vote that way I am, because I believe I am voting right and I believe I know better than the majority of the people of my county, because I have studied the subject more, and I am not saying it boastfully or with any egotism either. I want to say to every member on the floor of this House, if he is not above the average, I do not know what kind of constituency he has at home. I believe you are, every one of you, and I believe instead of allowing the voice of the masses to sway you in great problems of government, it is your duty to lead them and show them, if you do not agree with them, and if you fail to do that you ought not to be here.

Let us see the practical working of this proposition. I know the evils that exist under it and you know them. They are not worthy of men; every member on the floor knows that. But what we want to know is whether this change will exterminate or at least better the conditions and remove some of the evils that exist under the present system. Unfortunately for the man who stands on this side of the subject he has one hundred and twenty-four years of a system to pick holes in, it is very easy to critizise the house that somebody builded, but nobody ever builded a perfect house except the man who never builded any and you cannot critizise his because it is always perfect. But unfortunately for those who stand on this side of the question I have only a glimmer of its workings. Those who have stood on the other side of the question have invariably referred to the fact that the wealthy have an opportunity under this system to become a United States Senator. There is no man that has had any experience in politics but what knows the larger the constituency, the more indirectly the operation of the elective franchise, the greater the numbers, the greater the opportunity for the wealthy. It is a law as immutable as the law of gravity. I have seen it all my life. I want to say that under your direct primary law in the State of Pennsylvania to-day there is a greater opportunity for the wealthy to grasp the offices than there ever was under the delegate system. Has this experiment been tried in any state of this Union? Have I any evidence to offer you? Yes, in Wisconsin. Senator Stevenson admitted under examination, that he spent $106,000. His three opponents, in the agregate, spent more than a like amount. The nearest candidate against him admitted that he spent $66,000; the next, about $36,000, I think it was; and the other a little less; and, strange to say, the vote showed just exactly that proportion; the $100,000 man won, the $60,000 man stood second, the $40,000 man third, and the $30,000 man stood fourth. Do you suppose that if money and personal interest could have affected a body like this that it cannot affect the masses. Why you know it will. You know it as well as I know it, and why stand here on the floor and not admit it. Take the caliber of the men who have gone into the United States Senate under this system; take the caliber of the men from the State of New Jersey. I do not like to individualize. You have a proposition that has only been in operation a very short time, the other having been in operation for one hundred and twenty-four years. I can pick as many evils in this which has only been in operation for a period of eight or ten years, and any man that reads carefully will see that the tendency is that wealth has more power when distributed in the great mass of our people, than if you tryto use it in a more intelligent and select body of men. The law of the United States Senate has been since the first investigation and examination of membership in that body that you could not go behind the legislative body. And the law of the United States Senate is, and probably always will be, that you do not have to prove that the individual senator participated in any way—in fact you cannot prove to the Senate that the individual senator who obtained his seat by corruption may have been totally ignorant of the fact that it existed, and yet the law laid down in that body is that all we have to do is to prove that corrupion existed and the individual cannot take his seat Put that proposition into operation and all you will have to do under that law is to prove that corruption existed in any one election district in the whole State of Pennsylvania, and your United States Senator cannot take his seat. Do you know that I believe that after this proposition is in operation and working a short time, where it is the law that if I can prove corruption in any one single election district, I do not know whether you will have a United States Senate. There has not been a State-wide election in the State of Pennsylvania—and you know it and I know it—that there has not been corruption in some one election precinct; and unless the United States Senate changes the law and the rule that has been there all the time, and which has unseated men, you may have no Senate. You know what the United States Senate said about Lorimer, when they unseated him, that there was no evidence that Mr. Lorimer participated in any way or even had a knowledge of the corruption, but they unseated him. Under this proposition of yours, all that is necessary is to show that in one election precinct corruption existed and the United States Senator cannot take his seat.

Now I have heard them say that in this day of electricity, in this day of telephone, and the telegraph and the automobile—they failed to mention the flying machine, but they no doubt had it in mind—that because of those things it was necessary and wise—I will not say necessary, but wise—to change the manner of electing the United States Senator. In my mind that is the very reason they should not change it, because I can step to the 'phone and say "Buy five more, auction," and that means five thousand dollars additional that can go into that election precinct. I know you are going to pass laws that will stop men from spending money in politics, but the world has been trying to do that ever since we had orginazed government. We have not done it yet. I want to say if you stop the use of money in politics I believe I would vote for this resolution, but you know you cannot. I know from experience that the influence of wealth never will be taken out of American politics, you can pass all the laws you want; you can curtail it and you can punish, but there is a vast difference between passing a law to punish a man and passing a law to stop the crime

That is the practical side of the proposition you will be confronted with when you put this law into operation. It is true. You know it and I know it.

Referring to a few more points that were made along practical lines—the literature of to-day—I want to say to you that I believe that this so-called dissatisfied condition of the American people is due to literature. And what kind of literature? Unfortunately most of use like to read sensational news. Unfortunately when a man can make a thousand dollars by writing an article for a magazine, that is of an unusual character, and that speaks of crime against the government, such as a corrupt mayor in San Francisco (holding bill file in hand) "By Ida Tarbell" on the back of a magazine in letters very different in color from this—"Corruption in San Francisco—A. Rouff arrested—councilmen."—Oh, I will buy that magazine. There has been a premium because of this reading republic—there has been a premium, a high premium, for the man who can picture best the ills of our government; and they are not many when you come to think of this great republic of our, but they are constantly held before the public. A man who does his duty, does it honestly, and the article in the magazine is printed, you say: "Oh, I don't want to buy that; that is what he ought to do anyhow." And this literature of to-day is to my mind poisoning the minds of our people. I mean there is so much of that kind of literature, every offence against the government, every offence against the liberties and the rights of the people are dwelt upon. They are published and republished, iterated and reiterated until the public, no wonder, has an idea that the whole official public structure is corrupt.

I don't want to take all the time of the House, and I know that this resolution is going to be defeated, and I know, because my friend from Philadelphia told me, that I cannot come back if I fail to listen to the voice of the people. But gentlemen let me say this last parting word to you: There is not a man in this room that will live forty years that will not find that your proposition is a step backwards. Oh, they boast of progress. They think they are progressive, I think they are going backwards. I think I stand for progress. They assert that I am a reactionary. That is their business. It may be the opinion of others, but I don't think so. I think I am standing for progress and I can prove it, and they cannot prove the contrary. I can prove that for which I stand has builded the greatest government on the map of the world. What can they prove their theory stood for. They know that I did not mention Rome or Athens, but I did mention France, and what I said about France is true, and that is modern. I want to say here that if you keep on tinkering with that Constitution, get the initiative, and referendum and recall of judges, and direct election of the Supreme Court—these are all along the same line, and the same thought,—you will have written on the pages of American history a dark age. There is one on the history of Europe. I will not live to see it. We can survive a number of those things, but just weep on adding to it along that line. Oh, to stand up and tell the beauties and the wonders and the wisdom of the people! It is the same old story; tickling the masses under the chin for the plaudits of the masses. The only man I think that ought to feel proud of what he does is the man who tries to lead the people and not the man who has his ear to the ground to follow.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NAYS—3.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 44, as follows:

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

We rejoice in the sacred and the precious things which have come to us out of the past, the great safeguards of our liberty and the immunities and dignities and social and civil rights. We rejoice in the blood of Thee, our Father, which is flowing in our veins. And with their principles animating our minds and controlling our hearts, we would regard it as our highest duty and privilege to cherish these treasures which have been committed unto us unimpaired to those who shall follow after us. To this end may we reverence our consciousness. May we cherish the teaching of that work which is sacred and may we reverence that before God all be to Thy grace and the fountain and source of every blessing. We thank Thee for this beautiful winter morning. And now, as we address ourselves to the duties of this day, we pray for that presence and blessing and gracious help through Jesus Christ our Lord. TIME FOR FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Erie, Mr. Kitts.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for unanimous consent to call up Concurrent Resolution No. 7.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution.

The resolution was twice read, as follows:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That this General Assembly shall adjourn sine die on Tuesday, April fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. KITTS. It seems to me that when the Session draws to a close, it is the usual thing that so many bills are brought up that could have been introduced at an earlier date, that the work of the Committees is naturally congested and the House has not the proper time nor the opportunity in debate on third reading to give them the necessary attention, and during the thirty days in which the Governor has to give attention to bills that have been passed, after the close of the Legislature, his attention is necessarily hurried over such a variety of legislation that no ordinary person could possibly give them the attention they require. From the agitation that has been sweeping the State in the last few years, it is apparent that various bills calling for reform legislation will be presented in this Session of the Legislature, many of which have already been presented, and I feel that this House should not be hurried, and it seems that if we stated a definite day on which we were to adjourn, we could work up to that end and save the Commonwealth some expense. Investigations have been asked for to look into the expense of the running of the Legislature.

I might add that if it is the sense of the House that this time should be extended to another date that meets with the unanimous consent of the House, I shall be very glad to entertain such amendment. I wish to add that this resolution was not presented as coming from any political faction or any political agency or any political party, but I simply introduced it on my own behalf. I offer it as a non-partisan resolution for the consideration of the House as a whole.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I am gratified to know that the gentleman from Erie realizes the agitation that is sweeping over the State at this time, but it strikes me, if the desire of the gentleman is only to limit the time of the House, that it could well have been taken care of by a resolution covering that subject, and it was not necessary for the gentleman to cover in this resolution the time for adjournment of the House to accomplish his avowed or declared purpose. It is evident that there is some purpose other than the desire to prevent the introduction of bills back of this resolution. I believe that the people of this State have elected this Legislature for the purpose of securing for themselves some legislation that will relieve the troubles and difficulties by which they are now afflicted. They are expecting legislation from this body; they are expecting us to consider intelligently bills that are presented to this House and are expecting this Legislature to enact very many important bills and to pass on legislative matters, and it strikes me that we had better consider, or that we dare not at this time assume that we can meet all of these questions and act upon them intelligently within the time provided for in this resolution. I think we all agree that if we can reach an adjournment even by April first, we will be very thankful for it. The quicker we adjourn, the better it suits us all, and if we have performed our duty, the quicker we adjourn, the quicker we will have brought relief. The people of this State are demanding at this time that this legislation shall be acted upon, but it is foolish at this time to undertake to assume that we can do all that work within the time provided for by this resolution. I don't believe that any member in this House is opposed to adjourning on April fifteenth if the work can be finished. We have not gone far enough at this time to undertake to set a date, and we cannot see far enough in advance to know definitely whether or not we are ready to adjourn on the date fixed by this resolution. In a month from now, we will be able to see what we have accomplished, and it will do just as much good to act upon a resolution of this kind then as at this time, and the suggestion is made that we can extend the time subsequently. If we find that the business matters coming before the House make it impossible for us to reach adjournment on the day fixed. And I warn you gentlemen, that this is a concurrent resolution. We have no assurance that a resolution extending the time of adjournment will be concurred in by the other branch of this Assembly. I think we had better not take the responsibility and run the risk of being able to extend this session by a subsequent concurrent resolution. The House should not be hasty at this early date to fix a time for adjournment. We have accomplished little or nothing in the month that we have been here, and I hope that this resolution will be voted down, not because we are opposed to an early adjournment, but because the action would be premature if taken at this time.

M. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Beaver, Mr. George A. Baldwin.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment to the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was twice read, as follows:

Strike out the words "adjourn sine die" and substitute the words "take a recess for thirty days."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have my reason for offering this amendment. It may be that this House can transact its business by the fifteenth of April, and perhaps not, but if it is the temper of the House to fix definitely the day upon which you desire to adjourn. Now this Legislature is passing certain legislation. The Governor, in his annual message, recommended some of this legislation and on some of it he has not committed himself. He gives us his word that he will sign bills providing public utility measures and other legislation that is mentioned on which he has not committed himself. For instance, direct presidential primaries, direct nomination and election of State officers, direct nomination of United States Senators; on these matters he has not committed himself, and he might or might not sign them. If you think it proper to fix this date for a recess after you adjourn to thirty days, there are plenty of bills that the people of this State have been demanding but which are not signed by the Governor.

As I have said, on certain legislation which the Governor has recommended, the veto power is in the hands of the Chief Executive, but there are some laws which are recommended on which he has not committed himself. We, gentlemen, ought to place ourselves into the position of being able to make it possible to put these measures into law without any reference to date.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't want to interject myself into every debate, but the Constitution provides that there shall be no adjournment of the Legislature and I can put no other construction on this proposed amendment.

POINT OF ORDER.

I rise to a point of order to the effect that the amendment to this resolution is out of order.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is not well taken, for the reason that the amendment provides for a recess and not for an adjournment.

Mr. SHERN moved that the amendment, together with the resolution, be referred to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the reference of the resolution and amendment to the Committee on Rules?

It was agreed to.

BILLS RECOMMITTED.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to offer a motion to recommit at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott, asks unanimous consent to recommit a bill at this time. Is there any objection. The Chair hears none.

The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read as folows:

Move to recommit House Bill 97, file folio 91, entitled "An Act regulating the cold storage of food and providing penalties for violation of this act," on page 4 of to-day's calendar, to the Committee on Health and Sanitation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I offer this motion at this time because of the fact that two cold storage bills have been sent to the Committee on Judiciary Special and both bills seem to be drafted by practically the same author, and the committee reported out both bills, and they have now passed first reading. It is the desire of the committee on Judicary Special to recommit these bills to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation. The Committee on Public Health and Sanitation have a public meeting this afternoon for the purpose of hearing those who desire to be heard on this subject, and it is their intention to submit a bill embodying the points agreed upon. The gentleman who is the Chairman of the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation has invited a sub-committee of the Committee on Judiciary Special to attend his committee and assist in working out this proposition. It is therefor the desire of the Judiciary Special committee that these bills be sent to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

On the question recurring,

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to oer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Move to recommit House Bill No. 1, file folio 55, entitled "An Act regulating the cold storage of food and providing penalties for the violation of this act," page 2 of to-day's calendar, to the Committee on Health and Sanitation.

SPEAKER ALTER IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to consider this motion at this time? The Chair hears no objection.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

Whereas, The Commission to investigate and report upon surface support in mining Anthracite Coal, created by Joint Resolution, approved the 24th day of March, A. D. 1911, will be unable to make its report to the General Assembly on February 1, 1913, the date specified in the Resolution, because of insufficient time.

And Whereas, This delay has been occasioned by the fact that the Commission has as yet been unable to secure certain maps and other valuable data now in course of preparation, and because of the fact that the testimony of a member of expert mining engineers and others is still to be taken by the Commission.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend by striking out "February 15th, 1913" and inserting in lieu thereof "March 1st, 1913."

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to corect what is evidently an error on the part of the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Kuhns. The bill appears to read like this: That every male sentenced to imprisonment for thirty days shall do certain work. That would appear to make it read that a person should do this work even after he has been discharged, and I would like to offer and an amendment to the bill after the words, "thirty days" by adding, "has still a balance of the sentence to serve," and I ask the unanimous consent of the House to insert this amendment at this time to the first section.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objections. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was then read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section one, line 5, by adding after the words, "thirty days," the words "still has a balance of a sentence to serve."

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the section as amended be read for the information of the House.

The section as amended was then read by the Clerk.

POINT OF INFORMATION.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of information. From this section I would infer that where a prisoner is sentenced for a term of thirty days only, he cannot be put out on road work. It seems to me this is wrong as a majority of the men who are sent to jail are sent there for a period of less than thirty days, it does not exceed that.

The SPEAKER. I will have to turn the question over to the member who has the bill in charge.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. That is just exactly what the section means. I have received reports from different sections of the country where we have these different strikes and I am informed that laborers are thrown in jail for but a few days at a time without any cause whatever, and it is to save them that I have changed that section one so that if such were the case that such workmen would be thrust into jail under any conditions they would not be taken out an worked and that is why I changed this section.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

May the same mind be in us which was also in Christ Jesus. May we have His spirit and imitate His life and follow in His footsteps. SENATE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate as follows:

TIME OF NEXT MEETING OF SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AFTER WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT.

In the Senate, February 5, 1913.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns to-day it shall reconvene on Monday evening, February 10th, at 9 o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it shall reconvene on Monday evening, February 10th, at 8 o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

The Resolution was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION COMMISSION.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I call up resolution No. 11.

The SPEAKER. The Resolution will be read by the Clerk

The Resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Whereas, There was created by joint resolution approved the fourteenth day of June, 1911, a Commission to provide for the participation of the State of Pennsylvania in the Panama-pacific International Exposition to be held in San Francisco, California, in 1915, and

Whereas, By said resolution the sum of $50,000 was appropriated to defray the expenses of said Commission;

Therefore be it

Resolved, That said Commission be and it is hereby directed to furnish to the House of Representatives within five days, a full, complete and itemized statement of all expenditures made by said Commission out of the appropriation made to it; and also a statement containing the name of each and every person, whether a member of said Commission or not, who accompanied said Commission on its trip to San Francisco California; and also furnish this House with full information as to the purpose of said trip to San Francisco, and as to its actual business transacted while there.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not call to mind just who introduced that resolution, but I want to say to the House that I do not think that there would have been a particle of trouble. You would have gotten all the information in that resolution by simply going to the proper parties and asking them for it. If the author of that resolution has tried to get that information without a resolution, why then it is proper for this House to pass this resolution; but in the absence of any one saying that the parties who took part in this visit to the western slope, in accordance with what the bill provided and practically telling them they must do so, it seems to me there is no necessity for a resolution of that kind until some evidence is brought into the House that the parties who expended this money, or who had charge of these funds, refused to give the House the information or any other proper person who desired the information. In the absence of any evidence that they have refused, I do not think the House need pass this resolution. Really, on its face it appears to be a reflection. If there is any member in this House who says that in the expenditure of this money the officials have tried to cover it up and keep it from the public or keep it from the House, then this resolution ought to be passed; but in the absence of that, where is the necessity of it? Is it not a reflection, or suspicion, or indication, that there is something, or has been something wrong? In the absence of any information along that line, do you think it is the right kind of a resolution to pass? I do not think it is.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, there does seem to be a reflection when you read the papers, and it is only fair not only to the Commission, but to the House, and just as fair to the taxpayers, to know how this money has been expended. On my part, there is no reflection, but this Commission was only a custodian of fifty thousand dollars, to which the taxpayers have a right to know as to how it was expended. The papers have been full of criticism of this very fact, and if you have an itemized account, as I have asked for, there cannot possibly be any reflection on the Commision, if we get the statement, and I move its adoption.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not mean to infer that the public should not know all about it. I simply mean to call the House's attention to the fact that this resolution certainly must indicate, if we pass it, that we cannot get this information without the resolution and it would so go out before the public. That is not fair, in my mind, unless someone rises here to say that such information is withheld from this House and from the public.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, as a personal privilege, may I may be permitted, to interrogate the gentleman who introduced this resolution?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bedford permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Bedford if he made application to the proper authorities of the State for the information he desires in the resolution?

Mr. MATT. Personally, I have not.

Mr. STEIN. Has any person on your behalf.

Mr. MATT. No.

Mr. STEIN. I would like to ask, following the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, if the gentleman from Bedford thinks he could not get this information if he asked for a statement.

Mr. MATT. An itemized statement?

Mr. STEIN. Everything called for in the resolution.

Mr. MATT. I could not say. I have not made any request.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

The SPEAKER declared the Nays seem to have it.

Whereupon a division was called for, 89 voting in the affirmative, and 49 in the negative.

And the question was determined in the affirmative.

RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I move that Resolution No. 10 be referred to the Committee on Judiiary General.

Mr. MATT. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate, which were laid on the table.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia. Mr. John R. K. Scott.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the author of this bill state what title is to be quited by this act.

Mr. REX. The Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Rex.

Mr. REX. Mr. Speaker, from the information that I have, it is necessary that a bill of this kind pass so that the Wilberforce people may secure a clear title in transferring this property, which has just been done.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOT. Is there any litigation pending.

Mr. REX. None whatever.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 11, entitled:

An Act to provide for an additional law judge of the several courts of the Forty-seventh judicial district

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Seaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Moses.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, in presenting this bill to the House, we have had to do so from the fact that an additional law judge is absolutely necessary in Cambria County, which is the Forty-seventh district. We think it is the desire of the tax-payers of Cambria County that this bill should pass. Our calendars are blocked with work. Our judge is as good as any judge in the State, but he cannot keep up with the work. It is absolutely impossible for one man to keep up with the work, and every court he holds he has to bring another judge to help him out. There is no politics or anything of that kind connected with this bill. It is simply a case of necessity. Our population is now one hundred and eighty thousand. In 1910 it was one hundred and sixty-six thousand, so that there is an average increase of from six to eight thousand a year. As I have said, we have a population today of over one hundred and eighty thousand, We had a population of one hundred and five thousand in 1900, and at that time that there was a bill presented here for an additional judge, which was lost sight of in some way. Since that time our County has grown at an average rate of from six to eight thousand a year, and there is a necessity for an additional law judge. There is nothing at all that is political or of any political significance in this matter; it is simply a bill for which there is an absolute necessity. This is the third time this matter has been presented to this House, and we want it to go through this time. Fortunately, we have a member of the bar from Cambria County here, Mr. Gray, who will be glad to inform the House of the necessity of this bill.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Joseph Gray.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, we have a great deal of court business in our county, and as has already been said by my colleague, we have a population of one hundred and seventy-five to one hundred and eighty thousand, and we have the city of Johnstown in our County, which is the principal city out our way and a great business center, and in that County we have a great deal of business, and we have only one common pleas judge in our County, and he is kept very busy. I know of a case, although I am not interested in the case personally, but I know of a case that was argued in January 1912, in which there were eight hundred pages of transcribed testimony, a case involving fifty thousand dollars; and, Mr. Speaker, I understand that that case has not been touched because of the great pressure of work which our presiding judge is compelled to do. In September, the last term, there was not a civil case tried by our judge, on account of the heavy criminal cases. There were only thirty-eight civil cases tried in 1912 in our County, and that is the cause of the business being thrown back, and that was done then with the assistance of three judges, Judge Reed, of Jefferson, Judge Bounton and Judge Baldridge, who assisted our presiding judge, Judge Stevenson. The civil and criminal lists are both growing heavier all the time. This demand for an additional law judge of Cambria County does not come along through the members of the bar. There is a general demand for it. I don't know how the general population or the entire people of the community would vote and I don't speak for them. I have an extract from an editorial in the Johnstown Democrat of January 24, 1913. It is headed:

FOR A SECOND JUDGE.

Mr. Moses seems to have sensed public opinion in this county fairly in bringing in a bill at Harrisburg providing for an additional law judgt for Cambria. It is generally felt that the creation of this new office would serve an excellent purpose.

It is claimed by lawyers that the court is more or less clogged with litigation and it is known that judges must be imported at every term to assist in clearing the dockets. It is urged that this condition alone amply justifies the creation of the new office for which the Moses bill provides.

There is some opposition to this bill in Harrisburg, but I wish to call the House's attention to an editorial from the Johnstown Tribune of January 24th, an evening paper which is a Republican paper, or rather a Progressive paper:

DIFFERENT NOW.

It is understood a decided and emphatic expression of disapproval of the measures providing for an additional law Judge for Cambria County has been filed, sub rosa, at Harrisburg. The objection comes from the body of men who call themselves "the organization" and have attached themselves, for various purposes, to the Republican party.

Reasonable and unprejudiced persons will be prepared to accept the certificate of Judge Stephens, Messrs. William P. Reese, John H. Stephens, William Davis, Bruce H. Campbell, and 29 other members of the Cambria County bar who solemnly averred, away back in 1901, that there was imperative need for an additional law Judge in Cambria County.

The Judge, and his associates at the bar, have never disavowed or repudiated the representations made to the General Assembly in 1901. On the contrary, there has been a renewal of the claims set forth. At the instance of the Judge and fellow-members of the Cambria County bar Ex-Senator Wertz presented and pressed to passage an act providing for an additional law Judge.

With this record staring us in the face, who dares go to Harrisburg and attempt to prevent the enactment of the Moses bill into a law? What miscreant would dare give the lie to the plain, square statements made by entirely disinterested lawyers back in 1901?

The argument that "things are different now" will not do. What heartless wretch, what designing "friend," would impede the passage of a bill designed to relieve an overworked Judge of a portion of his responsibilities?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Yes sir.

Mr. ALLEN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Cambria what the condition of their civil docket is at this time in Cambria County.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. I think, Mr. Speaker, that our docket is pretty well filled up at the present time.

Mr. ALLEN. I fail to comprehend the answer, or to understand what the gentleman means by "pretty well filled up." How far behind is the court?

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. I don't know how far behind it is. I know of cases that were argued in January, 1912, and that is over a year ago.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, as a suggestion to the answer made by the gentleman from Cambria to the last question, I would say that may come from dereliction of duty on the part of the judge, and that tells us nothing of the condition of the calendar. In relation to this bill, it appears to me that there has been a limit to the information. I wish to refer to the fourth section of the bill. As I understand it, in 1913, there will be a municipal election in the State of Pennsylvania. At that time, should this bill pass, nominations will have been made for judges to appear on the ticket as additional law judges, and then there would be allotted to the County of Cambria what is desired. but the people of that County might be likely to want to recommend a candidate for that high office, and it would then be to the people to place a candidate in nomination for additional law judge, and they would select a man of their choice. In the first place, if this bill does pass and become a law, it then becomes the duty of the Governor of the Commonwealth to appoint some one for the position of additional law judge of Cambria County, who shall at once assume his duties. I don't know the purpose of this proposed bill, any more than has been suggested that a judge is needed, but I do know that with the authority that this bill carries with it, that some particular individual in the County of Cambria is going to receive the benefits of the appointment at the hands of the Governor, therefore increasing his chances at the primaries held a month later. For that reason I am opposed to this bill. In the next place, inasmuch as the judges of this Commonwealth are paid out of the funds of the Commonwealth and this bill comes up for an additional judge, it seems to me that the bill orignally should have been referred to the Judiciary Local Committee for such investigation as would permit that Committee to say whether a judge is needed in this particular County or in other Counties in this Commonwealth. I think the purpose of the Judiciary General Committee in passing upon this bill was or should have been to see that the bill was in proper form. I am not convinced, from what has been said in relation to the condition in Cambria County, that this legislative body, without going further in the matter, should allow this bill to pass and thereby inflict upon the Commonwealth an additional law judge without knowing whether or not he is needed, and in consequence of the fourth section of this bill, as it stands, I shall vote against the bill.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. I think the usual practice in the enactment of laws for additional law judges is that some provision shall be made for the appointment of a judge from the time the law takes effect until the next general election. I cannot understand the gentleman's opposition to the measure, when he says it will inflict an additional law judge, with additional funds and gives this as a reason why he is opposed to the appointment of an additional law judge in the State. I think possibly the people of Cambria County know whether they need an additional law judge or not. I think in courtesy to Cambria County, with its population of from one hundred and seventy-five thousand to one hundred and eighty thousand, it should be recognized, and that this legislative body ought to take notice of their wishes. I cannot, I repeat, understand the attitude of the gentleman from Allegheny who will oppose this bill for Cambria County, when we have possibly one of the biggest and most rapidly growing populations in the western part of the State. I think if our people demand it, and if the attorneys—and I here state positively that the best attorneys of Cambria County are on record as desiring an additional law judge, and if this additional law judge is needed, for what reason should we not take the necessary funds from the State or the County or from anywhere else if we need this service to carry on our business.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, as this bill has been criticised, and as I believe that many members of the House are in doubt about it and don't have full information, I would make a motion that the further consideration of the bill be postponed, in order to give the gentleman from Cambria County an opportunity to give us full and detailed information, and after he has done that, that this House may then, if it thinks proper, take action upon it. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of House Bill number eleven be postponed for the present.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, if I am in order, I would like to ask the members of this House to vote down the motion for postponement, and at the same time, in order not to occupy too much of the attention of the House, I will ask them to vote for this bill. It has been very thoroughly discussed by the Judiciary General Committee, and the Committee consists of thirty members, all of whom are reputable lawyers, and the Committee gave the bill thorough consideration. The Committee had before it all the necessary information. By way of comparison and in answer to my colleague from Allegheny, I would say that our own county of Allegheny, with a population of one million or over, has twelve common pleas judges, three orphans court judges and a county court composed of five judges. You can readily see that the ratio for the population is at least twice as much as for Cambria County. There has been a request in this House for the past ten years for the appointment of an additional law judge in Cambria County, and the people of the County thoroughly know whether justice is being expeditiously handled or not. It seems to me that we should heed their request. I, therefore, ask the House not to postpone this bill, but to vote down the motion to postpone and to vote in favor of the passage of this bill, with the belief that the wishes of the people of Cambria County should be recognized.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman who seconded my motion will withdraw the second, I will withdraw my motion to postpone this bill.

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—4.

Miller, Mitchell, Morrow, Post,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 185, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section one article eight of the Constitution of Pennsylvania

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof that section one of article eight which reads as follows

"Section 1 Every male citizen twenty-one years of age possessing the following qualifications shall be entitled to vote at all elections subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the general assembly may enact

"First He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month

"Second He shall have resided in the state one year (or having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the State he shall have removed therefrom and returned then six months) immediately preceding the election

"Third He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election

"Fourth If twenty-two years of age and upwards he shall have paid within two years a State or county tax which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election" be amended so that the same shall read as follows

"Section 1 Every citizen male or female of twenty-one years of age possessing the following qualifications shall be entitled to vote at all elections subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the general assembly may enact

"First He or she shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month

"Second He or she shall have resided in the State one year (or having previously been a qualified elector or native-born citizen of the State he or she shall have removed therefrom and returned then six months) immediately preceding the election

"Third He or she shall have resided in the election district where he or she shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election

"Fourth If twenty-two years of age and upward he or she shall have paid within two years a state or county tax which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election

"Fifth Wherever the words 'he' 'his' 'him' and 'himself' occur in any section of article VIII of this Constitution the same shall be construed as if written respectively 'he or she' 'his or her' 'him or her' and 'himself or herself' "

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, and fellow members of the House of Representatives, I just want to say a thing or two in explanation of this resolution. This is the first move to put the equal suffrage question before the people of this great State of Pennsylvania in a position where it can be fairly considered, digested and discussed. If this General Assembly passes this resolution at this time, and two year from now the General Assembly of 1915 passes the same resolution, then it will come up in the Fall election of 1915 to a vote of the people. It is simply and merely a referendum, putting this question back to the people, who are so much interested in it, for them to decide. It is very much in the public eye and has been discussed generally all over the United States. It is so much in the public eye that nine States of our great Union now have equal suffrage on all elections; twenty more states have equal suffrage on many questions. It is so much in the public eye that a number of the great political parties have adopted planks in their several platforms to the support of submitting this to the people and letting them decide upon it. For instance, the Republican party platform at Harrisburg on May 1st, 1912, adopted a resolution along that line, the democratic party platform at Harrisburg, May 7, 1912, along that line; the National Progressive party along that line in Chicago, on August 7th, 1912; and some of the minor parties, like the Keystone, the Socialist and the Prohibition party have all adopted resolutions along this line. It is so much in the public eye that his Excellency, the Governor of this State, saw fit in his message to this General Assembly to recommend that this Legislature put this matter in a form where it could be considered by the people, and considered as soon as possible. I would like to see a general expression along this line, and it seems to me it is only fair that you put this up to the vote of the people. It is so much in the public eye that only last week our great sister Commonwealth on the North, New York, passed a similar constitutional amendment, and in the House of Representatives of New York State it passed with 123 yeas and 7 nays, and in the Senate it passed by 46 yeas to one nay. I would like to see this House of Representatives do in this State one better, and not a single vote be against it.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, speaking from the point of duty which is sometimes a very embarrassing point, in explanation of my ballot in the House, I wish to state that in supporting this measure, I am supporting the voice and call of the people, and the particular plank of the platform of the party which elected me. I earnestly desire that the members of this House consider that they are not voting for woman surage. You are voting for the voice of the people to decide whether or not we want woman suffrage, and in the name of the ladies of this Commonwealth I ask you to give this measure due consideration.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I know you are tired of hearing me, but I am not going to talk very long. I am sorry that I cannot acceed to the wishes of the gentlemen on the other side that we go New York State one better in voting for this resolution. Sir, the gentlemen say, refer it to the people, and I want to ask the gentlemen if they would refer everything to the people? They have talked about this being a widely discussed issue. It was in the platform, but when the gentleman came to mention the planks in the national platforms he could only mention the Progressives, and he could not mention the Republican and Democratic. They did not think enough of the measure to refer to it. It is true that the Republican State platform has the plank in it. It is also true that the Democratic State Platform has the plank in; but fortunately for myself when I wrote, according to the rules of the Democratic platform, accepting or rejecting the platform, I reserved my decision on the woman suffrage question for further study. I have given it the further study as best I could, and I have decided that I do not want to refer it to the people. To the gentlemen who demand that we refer it to the people I ask them would they refer the question of socialism to the people? That has been more widely discussed than the woman suffrage question. If we were voting on the socialistic doctrine to abolish private property and capital would the gentlemen of this House vote to refer those things to the people? No; certainly they would not vote to refer them to the people. I want to point out to the other gentlemen one or two of the arguments of the people who want this passed, for to-day I was importuned by some of the ladies who desire this measure to pass, and when I had given them what I had thought were good reasons, at least they were to me good reasons, for opposing this rationalism I was told by one of those sweet and gentle ladies that I was ignorant. I suppose that was the right answer for the reason that it does not need further question, and it brought to my mind a book I read lately. In a book by the Hon. Ex-Controller of New York City Coler he spoke of a certain German teacher, a great man, a great rationalist and ethical culturist, a man trained in the best schools according to the belief of himself and of his father. He was a brilliant son of a worthy father. He was given the best education that the rationalists of his day could give him, and when he had grown to manhood they upheld him as a model, a paragon of a man, a man of great intellect, capacity, attainment and weight. He was a deep thinker and dug down into the sources of life, and he discovered that there was something else in life besides rationalism and realism and ethical culture. He discovered in his investigation that there was something in life which had been left out of the realist's theory and that something was the appreciation of man, the perfect grandure of the Babe of Bethlehem, and as he thought of these matters the rationalists and ethical culturists spoke very disparingly of him, as anybody can see by looking at the book, a book which I recommend to any member of this House to stimulate his thinking apparatus. When this was put up to these people they said this was something unanswerable, and they used the words that I refrain from using. They let it go at that. They could not answer it, for they considered the man was mentally deficient. And so it is here, if a man puts a proposition to the people, and argues for it, they say he is ignorant and let it go at that. It does not need to be answered. I have nothing against the sweet, gentle ladies.

But, sir, another argument is being put to us, as the gentleman from Cambria has said, where we have the highest points in the Allegheny mountains, and we think we soar just as high as anybody. The gentleman says there is not a sensible woman in the country who wants woman suffrage; but he says "I am going to vote for it, and let it be referred to the people." I am sorry for the gentleman from Cambria. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of this House, this body as I understand, as I have been given to understand the dissallusion, or allusion or whatever you call it, is a legislative body, and not merely a representative body. But we are here to do some things for the betterment of the State; we are here to enact good legislation. I hope that disallusion shall not be dispelled. If we saddle everything back on the people what good are we. If everything is to be referred to the people, what is the use of having a legislative body in this State. Let all the gentlemen think of that. If every measure that comes up before this House must be referred to the people, why then we better abolish the legislative department of this State government. That is the way it looks to me. Men are afraid of newspaper criticism. There are a great many men in the State who sit in this legislative body and assert that the papers do not effect them and control them. I think that way deep down in their hearts there is a horrible fear of the Philadelphia North American. I think that is a plain statement, and they are afraid to vote against this measure. They don't say that the men want it, because when the gentleman said that New York State had lately passed it, he did not say that the people of Ohio just lately condemned the resolution or condemned the movement. I hope that this body will not prove as spinless as a milk and water body. I hope that the gentlemen will show that they have something besides the fear of public opinion in them. I for one hope that this resolution will be voted down. I will vote the same as I would vote on any other resolution which I did not think was for the betterment of the people.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I want this House to know that all of the members from Cambria County do not think as this gentleman does. I realize the fact that our friend from Cambria is a little young in years, but he will learn from experience. We are on the affirmative side, regardless of the fact that our friend from Ebensburg is on the negative. I believe that this question or any other question should be referred to the people, and I think we are perfectly safe in letting it go to the people.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it seems to me that you are using a very cowardly argument. Are you afraid to let it go back to your constituents? It is of just as much importance as the matter on which you voted the other day, to refer the election of the United States Senators to the people. This thing belongs to the people, and there should not be one vote against it in this House. And any gentleman in this hall who is opposed to this measure I want to tell you gentlemen he is afraid to record his vote and go back to his people, for in 1915 you will see his place taken in this House. I believe in giving the people that which they demand. I intend to support this measure, and by voting for it I give my constituents the right to say whether or not they will give the women this right. I am not giving it myself. And I hope that every member in this House will give his constituents that right. Why mention New York? We do not have to go to New York for guidance. It is better to be hanged in the state of Pennsylvania, than to die a natural death in the state of New York. And I hope that the members of this House will not only go New York one better, but four better. Why not stand for your Keystone state?

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am a representative from the same district as Mr. Wiltbank. I think that Mr. Wiltbank has sung my swan song.

Mr. REX. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I wish to state that in my election I made no reservations and was elected on a platform that is favorable to this measure. Therefore, it is going to give me great pleasure to vote for it, and I hope that every member of the House who has not made reservations, will do the same. I want to correct the statement of the gentleman from Cambria in regard to saying that we might just as well leave Socialism to the people, as this woman's suffrage movement. I think I state it correctly when I say that we do not submit Socialism to the suffrage of the people at every election. I trust that this measure will pass, and it will be submitted to the people to say whether or not we shall have equal suffrage in this state.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I shall oppose this resolution. I shall vote against it for the reason that I am not yet convinced that a majority of the people desire to pass upon this particular question. When I was a candidate for this seat, or rather for the nomination for this seat, at the primary election, I received a communication from an organization supporting equal suffrage. I responded to that organization and stated that I agreed with an organization known as the Anti-Equal Suffrage Organiaztion. I also agree with the statement that what this country needs is an increase in the quality of the votes and not an increase in the quantity, and I believe that if we give equal suffrage in Pennsylvania that we simply increase the quantity and not the quality of votes. So I am on record as being opposed to this measure. I have received no request from my constituents to support this measure. Not even the nine per cent. which this movement represents in my district have requested me to support a measure of this kind. And so I will vote against it for the reason that I do not believe that the people at this time should pass upon the question.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is not my desire to take up much of the time of this House. I desire to reply to the gentleman from Cambria County. The question of female suffrage is not a question of party or a question of politics. It is simply a matter of right. I contend there is no gentleman in this House this morning who can give one good reason why he should place himself above the qualities of woman, except that which is created in his own mind. The women of Pennsylvania only ask us to permit them to submit this question to the people and I can see no reason why this question should not be submitted to the people. That is all they are asking. We are not giving them the right to vote. The people are supposed to give them that right. One half of the members of this House are Progressives and as a Progressive, I think that the most progressive measure that would be passed at this session would be to give the women the right to submit this question to a vote of the people.

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I come from the same district as my colleague. I come from the tenth Allegheny district. I came here with the intention of supporting this resolution. I stated to the people of my district before the nomination, that if I were nominated and elected, I would come to this House and support womans' suffrage. I believe the women are justified in asking for this right. I think it is an important matter to this state. I do not agree with my colleague that in adding the vote of the women to the voters of this state that you will not increase the quality of the vote. I believe that you will add quality. In the state of Pennsylvania today we have many thousands of teachers in our schools, and if we are willing that our boys and girls should be put under their care, should be taught by them,why should we not give them the right of suffrage. I notice in the progressive platform that the Progressive party has pledged itself to secure equal suffrage to man and woman alike. That is in the Chicago platform, the Progressive platform. You will rememmber that in 1860 the great Emancipator, Abraham Lincoln, carried the state of Pennsylvania. You will remember that it has stood solid for the Republican party until the Progressive party came up with their platform, read by that great Progressive, Theodore Roosevelt, for woman's suffrage, that tore this state of Pennsylvania from the Republican ranks and placed it in the Progressive column, due I believe, to the intention of giving the women the right to vote. I trust that this House will submit to the people this question, that they may decide it for themselves.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I too, like the gentleman from Cambria, may be young in years and young in experience, and as time goes on both my years and experience will increase; but in the meantime I propose to do my duties under my oath of office, as I see them. The general trend of argument here seems to be that this is not a question for us to pass upon, that it should be submitted to the people absolutely regardless of our own opinion or judgment. Now gentleman, if that is the measure of our responsibility, then the provisions of the Constitution looking to the procedure of amendments, are meaningless words. I believe that when my constituents sent me here they sent me here because they believed in my judgment. And I believe it is my duty to exercise my judgment. Now gentlemen, if in my view or in the view of any member here any proposed constitutional amendment is contrary to the interest of the people of this Commonwealth, I firmly believe it is their duty to vote against it in this House, as it would be their duty to vote against it at the polls. I am of the opinion that when a man proposes to submit to the public any constitutional amendment, he merely does it because it is an easy way out of the duties on an important question. I am opposed to this measure. I believe, like the gentleman from Allegheny County, that we are but increasing the number of votes without improving the quality. This is an important question, and I doubt very much whether this Commonwealth would gain anything by granting this privilege. If as it is argued, the granting to the ladies of the right to vote would better municipal affairs and clean up our elections, and bring about a general millenium, then give it to them. If you gentlemen think that women are capable of exercising the same discretion that men do, then allow them this privilege, but if they are unable to do that, then conditions will not be improved. If you are of the opinion that they are more capable than the men, then why not step down and give over the entire charge of the government to them. Not one of you men here has reached that stage where he is willing to step out and give the ladies entire charge. There is no one here who will say that the ladies will not be more ameniable to the interest of self interests. There have been men big enough and grand enough to step down and work and vote against a measure contrary to their own interests for the sake of the common good. I defy you to show me one woman who would at any time vote for a measure when the livlihood of her children is concerned. I honor her for it, but that is sentiment and emotion. Are we going to bring that into our elections? There is no one who will contend that the wife of a public man or a man in a public office, or holding office under a corrupt government, would vote to overthrow the government, when her livlihood and that of the children is derived from it. The question answers itself. In Colorado for about twenty years they have had full suffrage. According to Judge Lindsay, in a book written about three years ago—and Judge Lindsay is an advocate of woman's suffrage, and the book is written by one of their advocates—according to Judge Lindsay the conditions that exist today are worse than ever prevailed in our state or that ever prevailed in the state of New York in the palmy days of the ring rule, and yet women have been voting there for fifteen years. Why not have the conditions improved there? As a matter of fact Judge Lindsay was preaching all that was good and all that women are supposed to stand for. At least two women, one a member of the House and the other a member of the Senate, stumped the state against Lindsay. It is claimed that women would be less corrupt in public affairs than men. Judge Lindsay cleaned up Denver, but the women did not do it. Will they help us clean up here in Pennsylvania? I have faith in man. The man is the person to run the public affairs, and the woman to run the home. Man is represented in his home by his wife. A woman is represented in public affairs and in the government by the husband, father or children. There is nothing in this argument of taxation without representation being unjust, because she is represented. We will double and more than double our number of votes without improving the conditions. Shall we bring about this condition? I say no.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. I. GORDON FORSTER. I will.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. As I understand the gentleman, he said that Lindsay cleaned up Denver. Am I correct in that?

Mr. I. GORDON FORSTER. Right.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Lindsay said that the women did it. Is that not right?

Mr. I. GORDON FORSTER. Judge Lindsay took up his work some fifteen years after the women had been voting, and taking part in municipal affairs in Denver. It took a man to clean up Denver. It is true that it was done with the help of the women, but it took a man to clean up that town.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do not intend to take up very much of your time. This matter is of great importance, and it is nation wide. We are not required to go to Colorado or any other Commonwealth of this nation to ascertain what the sentiment is along this line. It is a progressive doctrine, and as our friend from Philadelphia stated, that he has faith in man, I want to say to him and to you that I have faith in woman. This is not a question as to whom we have faith in. It is a question as to giving the people their rights. And when you come to intelligence and refinement and capability no man has the right to say that our sisters are not equal to us. If this matter could be referred to all of the people of this state it would be decided right, but unfortunately it is going to be referred to but one part of the people. Now as a member of an organization which represents the rural people of this Commonwealth, in which the ladies have equal rights, I want to say that it is my experience that they discovered to a certainty that they are capable of action. This organization is the Grange, in which they have equal rights and privileges, and from what I have seen of them there, I hope that this resolution will carry, and that the vote for it will be unanimous.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the House the other evening seemed to think it was not necessary to have any checks and balances in this Government. I think, and have thought for some time, that if the ladies had the right of franchise, that they would not exercise it to the extent that the men would after a little bit of experience, but I am satisfied about this, that at any crucial period in the history of our country, you can depend upon it where the women will be. Let any great question bearing on peace or war arise, a question involving a proposition of war, for instance, when men are carried off their feet in anger and passion; where will you find in any community a lot of women who will do that? I am going to vote for this resolution, because I believe the people are going to take out one of the greatest checks that steadies the Government, and when the great test of Government comes when we are confronted with great questions such as maintained previous to the Civil War, the steadying influence of the female mind will perhaps avert those great dangers and counteract the danger which threatens by allowing the people to vote directly for United States Senators.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Spangler.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, the modern tendency of legislation seems to be to shirk our responsibilities as legislators. The Constitution strictly provides that "Any amendment or amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in the Senate or House of Representatives, and, if the same be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each House—" In other words, the responsibility is here placed upon us to determine in the first instance whether or not there is any demand or whether there is any call for this proposition, for the submitting thereof to the people. It seems to me, before we decide to submit this matter to the people, we should answer these three questions: Is there a reasonable demand for it? Will it benefit the State? Do the women of our great Commonwealth want it? Now, as to the first question, is there a reasonable demand throughout the State of Pennsylvania for the ballot for women, or is it merely the demand of a small coterie of women—a few women who are now restless and who desire a change? In my county, and I represent about fifty thousand people, I have not received a single letter or a single communication bearing on this matter.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. You were overlooked.

Mr. SPANGLER (continued). Mr. Speaker, in the State of Colorado, where the matter has been thoroughly tried out, it has not met with the success that was anticipated. I therefore feel, under the conditions, with what knowledge we have, that unless there is a strong demand for woman suffrage, we should wait until we hear further in this respect.

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Semmens.

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members:

Messrs. Adams, Alworth, Carter, James A. Dunn, Frank Gray, Hobbs, Isler, Irwin, Lenker, Lowers, Malie, Moore, Moses, Neely, North, O'Neill, Piper, Sassaman, Shern, Spillinger, Whitman, W. H. Wilson, Wiltbank.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question be put?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Whereupon Mr. Williams and Mr. Dickinson requested a verification of the roll, upon the completion of which the Speaker announced the vote as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. ALLEN. I desire to explain why I vote as I do. I vote as I do because I am in favor of the bill.

Mr. KEEGAN. My sympathies are with the anti-suffragettes and therefore oppose the bill giving the privilege of the ballot to women. I do not believe the present bill is the right or equitable way to meet or settle this question. The legislature does not have the power to grant by virtue of its own right, the right of suffrage to women.

A request has been made that an opportunity be given to ascertain the opinion of the people by a popular vote. One plan is to place it before the people in the form of a constitutional amendment. The other is to permit the women to settle the question for themselves. Believing the latter is the most equitable way to settle the matter, I will vote against the present bill. I will, however, vote for a measure that will allow the women to determine the question: "To vote or not to vote."

I feel the question is one that should be decided by a feminine vote, as it would be eminently fair to both suffragettes and the antis and therefore remove man as a factor in determining the question.

I believe a majority of the legislators have no desire to shoulder the responsibility of deciding the matter, but prefer to be guided by a feminine vote that a majority of the women of this Commonwealth want the ballot or do not want it. If they want it surely they will support a measure to show their desire.

The will of the women of Pennsylvania should be ascertained and what they say they will. It is hardly probable that a body of men dare say they wont.

Mr. ULMAN. I desire to vote no, because I have not been requested to do otherwise by my constituents, and therefore take the right to use my own judgment in voting no.

BILLS POSTPONED.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 82, entitled:

An Act authorizing and regulating the employment on public highways of male prisoners in county jails and prisons and fixing penalties for violation of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I move that consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. DONNALLY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 132, entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act providing for the better management of the jail or county prisons in the several counties of this Commonwealth having over one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants each by erecting in such counties a board to be known by the name and style of Inspectors of the Jail or County Prison with authority to appoint a warden of such prison and by vesting in said board and the officers appointed by it the safekeeping discipline and employment of prisoners and the government and management of said jails or county prisons" approved the twenty-seventh day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 88, entitled:

An Act to amend the first section of an act entitled "An act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditor in said counties" approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-five as amended by the act entitled "An act to amend sections one and sixteen of an act entitled 'An act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditors in said county' approved June twenty-seventh one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five so as to make it apply to all counties containing one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) inhabitants and authorizing the Governor to fill vacancies" approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and one by providing for the office of controller in all counties having over one hundred thousand (100,000) inhabitants

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MORROW. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, line 31, after the word "auditor" add or "or auditors;" line 37, after the word "auditor" add "or auditors."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 51, entitled:

An Act to repeal sections eight nine ten eleven twelve thirteen fourteen fifteen sixteen and seventeen of an act approved the twenty-sixth day of February one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three entitled "An act authorizing the laying out of a State road from Ayr township in Fulton County to Warren township in Franklin County" relating to the collection of taxes in Franklin County"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RUNK. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I feel that I should make a little explanation of this short bill. In Franklin County we have been suffering because we were governed by an act passed in 1853. We have about fifty tax collectors that collect the taxes in the little County of Franklin where we have only fourteen townships and four boroughs. What we want you to do is to repeal this act in order that we may come under the general law providing for the collection of taxes in Pennsylvania. It is not an act that will affect any one of you but it will aid us greatly.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, February 6th, 1913.

The House met at ten o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

CHAPLAIN'S PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

Our Father, it is by Thy kindness and favor that we have been brought through the successive days and nights of this legislative week, and that we are in the enjoyment of that health and vigor so essential to our work. We thank Thee for the nature of the work which is assigned us, so peculiarly important and interesting, so affecting the welfare of this great Commonwealth and so vitally relating to the health and hope and happiness of the people of this Commonwealth. It is our earnest desire to pass upon the questions submitted to us for consideration soberly, advisedly, discreetly and in the fear of the Lord. May we not be governed by prejudice or passion or by selfish motives and may we utter no decisions which do not strictly accord with our conscientious convictions. Now if it be Thy will that we should take a respite from this public work and return to our homes, we pray that through Thy gracious kindness we may find our friends there well, and that we may be returned safely and in strength at the appointed time to take up again our work. We ask all of this in the name and for the sake of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

LEGISLATIVE PRINTING.

The SPEAKER. Mr. SCHUCK, who is a practical printer and manager of a printing establishment has taken the time to make a personal investigation of the State Printing Department, and has submitted to the Speaker a very brief report, which the Chair asks permission to submit to the House.

The report was then read as follows:

House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, February 5, 1913.

Honorable George E. Alter, Speaker, House of Representatives, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

My Dear Sir:—In response to your personal request for a visit to the State Printing Establishment and an investigation of possible causes of delay in handling the printed matter of the House with respect to facilities and the time of delivery, I wish to submit the following:

After a visit to the State Printery and consultation with the Chief Clerk, Resident Clerk, Assistant Clerk and Sergeant-at-Arms of the House, there appear at least three points where marked improvement may be made.

1. Proof-reading and editing copy, double force required.
2. Official reporters and stenographers, one more of each being needed.
3. More copy should go to the printer in "takes," or sections instead of complete form for the session.

Under the State contract for printing the State reads all proof. I found but two proof-readers and two copy-holders on duty. The task is too great for them, however experienced and efficient. At least one more of each and perhaps two should be employed for the session. I would recommend that these be employed at the suggestion of the State printer or foreman in order that experienced men or women be secured. Proof-reading is a trained occupation, ex-printers making the best men.

Copy for the Legislative Journal should be edited more carefully for the reason that the operators on the type setting machines find errors which they have not the authority to correct and know destroy the meaning, so stop to ask questions and get permission to make necessary changes. This work should be done before the copy goes to the machine, perhaps by an experienced extra proof-reader. It may be the official reporters and stenographers are over-crowded with work. I believe the law authorizes the employment of four each of these men, while but three are now engaged at the work.

The greatest need for early copy in "takes" appears to be for the pink calendar. Under the new rules of the House bills introduced must first go to the transcribing room and from there to the printer instead of direct from the Resident Clerk as before. However, the Assistant clerk who has these in charge has accepted the suggestion to send this copy to the printer in "takes" instead of in complete form.

I find the plant well equipped with modern machinery. Twelve type-setting machines are now in use day and night with 24 operators on two turns. Three more of these machines are ordered and will be installed shortly. Eight or ten cylinder presses, half of which are rapid and self-feeding and other up-to-date power machinery are included in the equipment.

It was reported that no commercial work was being handled by the plant and all department printing for the State is being withheld for the present as most of this work is up-to-date.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) C. L. SCHUCK.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH IN RESPONSE TO THE RESOLUTION OF THE HOUSE ASKING FOR INFORMATION.

The CHAIR laid before the House the report of the Secretary of the Commonwealth given in response to a Resolution adopted January 29, 1913.

The Clerk proceeded to the reading of the report, when on motion of Mr. Allen, the further reading was dispensed with and the report ordered to be spread upon the pages of the Journal.

Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, February 4, 1913.

To the Honorable The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—In compliance with the request contained in a Resolution of the House of Representatives, adopted under date of January 29, 1913, I have the honor to herewith transmit a list of all the newspapers which were authorized to publish the proposed Amendments to the State Constitution during the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve; together with the advertising charge of each newspaper, except in eighteen instances wherein the advertising bills have not yet been properly filed in this department.

The advertising bills rendered were, in each instance, accompanied by an affidavit setting forth that the proposed amendments were published thirteen times, and that the Commonwealth was not charged at any higher rate than that charged any individual advertiser, for an equal or less number of insertions of work of an equal or less magnitude.

Settlement of the advertising bills is made by the Auditor-General, who in the past, has made very material reductions in the amounts charged. For that reason, it is respectively suggested that the total amount of the advertising charges, as shown in the accompanying list, does not fairly indicate the amount to be appropriated for the final settlement of the same.

I would also respectively recommend that the General Assembly limit the publication of advertisements of this character to two newspapers in each county.

Very Respectively yours,
ROBERT McAFEE
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the Philadelphia Telegraph, in yesterday's issue, speaks of a bill introduced by myself. I will read just what it says:

"Hundreds of Roman Catholic Schools, orphan asylums, hospitals, seminaries, churches and convents, which are exempted from taxes, will become liable to taxation if a bill presented in the House by Richard J. Baldwin, of Delaware County, becomes law."

Evidently, the writer of the article thought that it was something new that was to be read into the laws of the State of Pennsylvania.

I will read you what has been the law since 1901, and this is an exact repetition of what is contained in the bill that was then introduced. The Act of May, 1901, is as follows:

"And provided that all property, real and personal, in actual use and occupation, for the purposes aforesaid, shall be subject to taxation unless the person or persons, association or corporation, in so using and occupying the same shall be seized of the legal or equitable title in the realty and the possessor of the personal property."

I am aware of the fact that newspaper men are not nearly so liable to error as members of this House, but they do make mistakes. I have no criticism to make however, and the only reason why I raise this question of personal privilege is that I don't want the House, having this bill in front of it, to have a wrong impression regarding it.

I hope each member of the House, when the Committee reports favorably on this bill, will be advised and not prejudiced against it by information. Of course I cannot counteract what may have gone out to the public; that will have to stand for itself.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Ulerich.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, whenever a question of wide public interest is up for passage in this House, it is important that every member record himself on one side or the other, and when not so recorded the public should have some idea why he did not so record himself. Yesterday there was a question up for final passage, of not only State-wide but nation-wide interest, and I failed to record myself. Therefore, if it is in order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to state to the House why I didn't record myself and how I would have recorded myself had I been here. I was sick yesterday and unable to be out of bed and that is the reason I didn't record myself. Had I been here, I would have voted in the affirmative, in favor of the proposition for woman's suffrage.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's future is protected.

LEAVES OF ABSENCES.

The SPEAKER asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Rockwell for the day.

The SPEAKER asked and obtained leave of absence for several members of the Committee on Appropriations who are paying an official visit to Mt. Alto.

Mr. STEIN asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Keeport for the day.

Mr. POST asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Brownlee and Mr. Latshaw for the day.

Mr. JOHN R. JONES asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Williams for the day.

Mr. RIEBEL asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Watson for the day.

DIRECTING THE COMMISSION APPOINTED TO SELECT A SITE AND BUILD A HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE UNDER HOMEOPATHIC MANAGEMENT TO RENDERING AN ACCOUNTING AND REQUESTING HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR TO FURNISH A COPY OF THE REPORT OF THE EXAMINATION MADE BY THE STATE EXPERT.

Mr. BLELOCH offered the following resolution, which was twice read and ordered to lie over under the rules:

Whereas, The General Assembly, Session of 1901, by an Act approved July 18, 1901 (P. L. 737), created a commission to select a site and erect a State Hospital for the Insane under Homeopathic management, to be called the Homeopathic State Hospital for the Insane.

And Whereas, There has theretofore been appropriated for this purpose the total sum of ($1,881,750);

And Whereas, The General Assembly in 1911 by an Act approved May 10, 1911 (P. L. 205) dissolved the original commission and directed the appointment of a new one to complete the work;

And Whereas, Considerable scandal attached to the institution, which is located at Rittersville, Lehigh Co., Pa. by reason of the alleged fraudalent juggling of contracts to such an extent that the name of "Rittersville Hospital" has become a synonym for corruption in State contracts;

And Whereas, Lindley Johnson, an expert employed by the State to make an examination of the work, made a report thereon to the Governor in the spring of 1911, advising a legislative investigation, "in view of the condition found when investigating the work done";

And Whereas, If fraud has been committed it is necessary that action thereon be immediately taken to come within the statute;

Now Therefore Be it Resolved, That the original commission and its successor, be and it is hereby required to furnish forthwith to this House full, complete and detailed information as follows:—

(a) Detailed and itemized account of all its receipts and expenditures, with the date of payments, the names or persons, firms or corporations to whom the same were made and the purpose thereof.

(b) A complete set of the plans and specifications originally adopted with a detailed statement of the nature, extent and character of any alterations made therein.

(c) A statement of contracts let thereunder and copies of the schedule of unit prices giving dates, amounts, parties with whom made and all additions made thereto, commissions, and deductions therefrom and substitutions thereunder, with the dates, nature and reason for such additions, omissions, deductions or substitutions and the cost thereof and allowances therefor.

(d) The original or copies of all contracts and orders under authority of which the changes, alterations, omissions, deductions, substitutions were made.

And Be It Further Resolved, That his Excellency, the Governor be requested to transmit to this House the original or a complete copy of the report made by Lindley Johnson, C. E. as above recited, with any exhibits that may be thereto attached.

TO FIXING THE TIME LIMIT FOR INTRODUCING BILLS.

Mr. ULMAN offered the following resolution, which was twice read and ordered to lie over under the rules:

Whereas, There have already been introduced in this General Assembly more bills than can be well considered, unless the present session be unduly prolonged; and

Whereas, If the introduction of bills continues at the present rate, this Assembly will necessarily have to continue in session for many months in order to give each bill proper investigation; and

Whereas, It would be better for this Commonwealth that the General Assembly cease making laws in such volume and turn its attention to repealing much of the unwise, superfluous, contradictory and unscientific legislation now on the statute books; therefor

Be it Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the introduction of all bills cease on the fifteenth day of February, in order to afford the members and committees more time to consider thoroughly and impartially all the bills introduced up to such date.

AUTHORIZING THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE LABOR TROUBLES AT BRADDOCK AND RANKIN IN THE COUNTY OF ALLEGHENY.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lowers.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up concurrent resolution No. 13.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas, It is alleged that the American Steel and Wire Company, a branch of the United States Steel Corporation, having plants at Braddock and Rankin in Allegheny county, have refused to come to an agreement with certain of their employes who are now on a strike; and

Whereas, Said company has hired armed guards whose actions have incited the gravest disorder in said boroughs resulting in a riot wherein one man was killed and may injured; and

Whereas, The continuance of this disorder may lead to grave consequences and great danger to the citizens of this Commonwealth; therefor be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That a commission be appointed to investigate the labor troubles now existing in Braddock and Rankin in Allegheny county between the American Steel and Wire Company, a branch of the United States Steel Corporation, and certain of their employes. The commission shall consist of three members of the Senate, two of whom shall be members of the Republican Party and one of the Democratic Party, to be appointed by the President pro tempore and three members of the House of Representatives, two of whom shall be of the Republican Party and one of the Democratic Party, to be appointed by the Speaker. It shall be the duty of said commission to organize immediately after their appointment and proceed to investigate thoroughly the said labor troubles and report in writing to this General Assembly on or before the fifteenth day of March of this year stating the causes of such trouble so far as ascertainable and making such suggestions as they deem proper tending to ameliorate conditions now existing in said plants. The commission shall serve without compensation but shall be allowed such expenses as shall be actually and necessarily incurred in the performance of the duties herein imposed. The commission shall have authority to enter any premises or enclosures and to require the production and testimony of any witnesses they may deem necessary, and may compel the production of such books and papers as they may require in conducting said investigation

That the sum of one thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated for the payment of the necessary expenses of the commission and shall be paid out of the State Treasury upon vouchers signed by the chairman of the said commission.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the Resolution?

It was agreed to.

PRINTING REPORT OF THE HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, yesterday there was a motion passed by the House to have the report of the Highway Commissioner published in current number of the Legislative Record. Because of the congested condition of the affairs of the State Printer, it seems that there may be some difficulty in promptly getting the Record out, if that motion is not changed. For that reason, I desire to offer the following motion.

The motion was twice read by the Clerk, as follows:

That the report of the Highway Commissioner presented to the House yesterday, instead of being printed in the Journal as directed by the House, be printed in pamphlet form for the use of the members, the requisition to be issued for 1,000 copies, the same to be furnished to the members within one week.

The SPEAKER. Will the House agree to the motion.

It was agreed to.

BILLS RECOMMITTED.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I move that Bill No. 260, entitled:

An Act making valid the bonds or other obligations issued prior to the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirteen by counties, cities, boroughs, townships, school districts and other municipalities or incorporated districts not in excess of two per centum of the assessed valuation of taxable property in the respective county, city, borough, township, school district or incorporated district in all cases where there has been a failure to file in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the proper county the statement required by the act, entitled "An Act to amend section two of an act, entitled 'An Act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities to provide for the redemption of the same and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof,' approved the twentieth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four abolishing the restriction that the tax levy to pay municipal indebtedness shall be equal to eight per centum of the amount of such increased debt and providing for the method of assessing and levying a tax for the payment of the principal and interest when the bonds become due and the form of statement to be filed," approved the thirteenth day of April one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven and designating the time when said statement must be filed.

on page four of today's calendar be recommitted to the Judiciary Special Committee.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 116, as follows:

An Act permitting any wholesale or retail licensed liquor dealer or bottler to keep such licensed place of business open during the pendency of any application for transfer of license.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act whenever any licensed retail or wholesale dealer in vinous spirituous or malt liquors or any admixture thereof or any bottler of such liquors shall apply to the court of quarter sessions of the proper county for a transfer of such license such dealer or bottler shall be permitted to keep the licensed premises open for business during the pendency of the application for transfer and it shall not be lawful for said court by rule or standing order to require the applicant for transfer of such license to keep said licensed place of business closed during the pendency of the application for transfer

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 88, as follows:

An Act to amend the first section of an act, entitled "An Act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditor in said counties," approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-five, as amended by the act, entitled "An Act to amend sections one and sixteen of an act, entitled 'An Act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditors in said county,' approved June twenty-seventh one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, so as to make it apply to all counties containing one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) inhabitants and authorizing the Governor to fill vacancies," approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred one by providing for the office of controller in all counties having over one hundred thousand (100,000) inhabitants.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That section one of an act, entitled "An Act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditor in said counties," approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-five as amended by an act, entitled "An Act to amend sections one and sixteen of an act, entitled 'An Act creating the office of county controller in counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) inhabitants and over prescribing his duties and abolishing the office of county auditor in said county,' approved June twenty-seventh one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five so as to make it apply to all counties containing one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) inhabitants and authorizing the Governor to fill vacancies," approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred one, which as amended reads as follows:

"Section 1. That the qualified voters of each of the counties of this Commonwealth containing one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants as shown by the last preceding decennial census or any decennial census thereafter shall elect on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five and triennially thereafter in place of county auditor one citizen of each of said counties to serve as controller of said county for the term of three years or until his successor shall be qualified if he so long shall behave himself well" is amended so as to read:

Section 1 The office of county controller is hereby established and the office of county auditor or auditors abolished in each county of this Commonwealth which shall contain by an Federal census one hundred thousand inhabitants or over. At the municipal election in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen the qualified electors of each such county not now having a controller shall elect one citizen of such county to serve as controller in place of county auditor or auditors until the first Monday of January one thousand nine hundred and sixteen. At the municipal election in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and quadriennially thereafter the qualified electors of each county entitled to a controller shall elect one citizen of such county who shall serve as controller for the term of four years from the first Monday of January thereafter following or until his successor shall be qualified if he so long shall behave himself well.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend or do not care to make any speech on the bill, but I will tell the House just what the provisions of this bill are. At the present time the counties of over one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants have a controller instead of county auditors. The difference between a controller's duty and the duties of a county auditor's are these; a controller passes immediately at the time that the commissioners are considering and advising among themselves a proposition to spend public money. Under the auditor system they are not under check until the auditors come to look over their accounts one year afterward. Under such a condition where the county commissioners have contracted some debt immediately after the beginning of the year, if there is a question raised by the county auditors, all of the circumstances surrounding the expenditure and the making of the contract of course, have been forgotten and are not fresh in the mind of the auditing committee, so as to correct any mistakes and protect the county in any way. With the county controller you have the immediate attention of a second body to protect your county's affairs. The system of all counties not over 150,000 inhabitants had existed for I don't know how many years. Every person knows that it is very hard to go over an account twelve months old and have all the incidents connected with it. I think all large business corporations would consider it almost impossible to get along with somebody to audit their accounts at the close of the year. That is what the bill provides. It affects only such counties as have a population of not over 150,000 and not less than 100,000. Representatives of counties of over 150,000 inhabitants and representatives of counties with less than 100,000 inhabitants need not consider this bill from a personal standpoint as it does not affect their counties. I do not mean by that you should not consider the matter, but I want you to be enabled to vote upon it intelligently. It is only for the relief of such counties as have a population between one hundred and one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent at this time to amend the title of the bill.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have considered that matter by looking at the title, it simply recites the old law, and I do not think that it needs any change. I will, however, look further into the matter if this bill passes the House, and see that it has attention before it reaches the Senate if necessary, but as I understand it it does not need amending to conform to the bill plural.

The SPEAKER. Unanimous consent is not granted.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware County if this bill will affect counties where they have county controllers existing at the present time?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, unquestionably no. I thought I had made that point clear. Wherever you have a county with a population of 150,000 or more in the State of Pennsylvania, this bill does not affect them, and wherever you have a population of less than 100,000 this bill does not affect them.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House bill No. 63, as follows:

An Act relating to the furnishing of natural or artificial gas, water or electricity by persons, companies and corporations other than municipalities to be paid for by the consumers by meter measure prohibiting over-charges therefor and providing penalties for the violations of the same.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That every person, company or corporation now engaged or hereafter engaging in the business of furnishing natural or artificial gas, water or electricity for any purpose to be used and paid for by consumers by meter measure shall furnish to each and every consumer a meter properly tested when requested by the consumer and in good order and shall arrange such meters so that the consumer can at any time see the meter dial and ascertain readily how much natural or artificial gas, water or electricity he is consuming and how much he is liable to pay for.

Section 2. It shall be unlawful for any person, company or corporation engaged or hereafter engaging in furnishing natural or artificial gas, water or electricity to consumers to be paid for by meter measure to charge or receive from any consumer pay for more natural or artificial gas, water or electricity than the meter furnished by such person, company or corporation shall indicate has been used by such consumer at the time to which payment is made and received.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any person, company or corporation engaged or hereafter engaging in furnishing natural or artificial gas, water or electricity to consumers to be paid for by meter measure to charge or receive from any consumer for the use of said meter any greater sum than the actual cost of the installation of the same.

Section 4. Any person, company or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum of not less than ten dollars and not more than one hundred dollars for each offense.

Section 5. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to affect municipalities engaged or hereafter engaging in the business of furnishing natural or artificial gas, water or electricity to consumers.

Section 6. This act shall take effect the thirteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it occurs to me that this kind of a bill is peculiarly proper for a public utilities commission which we expect to have. If the bill is pressed to passage now I shall unquestionably vote against it for that reason.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say in reply to the gentleman from Philadelphia that there is no draft of a public service commission bill that includes this little feature provided for in this bill. My whole object in this bill is merely to eliminate the minimum charge. The question of whether or not a meter shall be installed is left to the public service commission. This fixes the rental charge at the actual cost of installation. At the present, as you know, many companies charge a small sum, say of one dollar per month, and this makes twelve dollars a year, in ten or twenty years, one hundred and twenty or two hundred and forty dollars, for the use of that little insignificant device that costs ten or twelve dollars. This merely puts the consumer on the one side of the meter and the producer on the other side and makes the bet even. If you are on a flat rate you take the chance of using the more, and the producer takes the chance of your using less of his product. This bill would only make fair play when it is installed. It does not force a meter upon anybody It does not compel the producer to furnish a meter, just when meters are in use. I will say that I have examined the public service bills and they do not include this little feature. I would like the members to vote on this bill because it is not local in its appliance. It is fair and general. I have only found the suggestion made to me in extremely unusual and out of the ordinary cases where any difference or any hardship had arisen, extremely unusual cases.

Mr. BERNHEIZEL. Mr. Speaker, from a recent conversation with the gentleman from Westmoreland I am sure that my home town presents an exception, and as I propose to vote no on the bill I will state that exception. We have numerous manufacturing industries there, most or at least many of which have their own water supply. It is recognized that this water supply is inadequate in case of fire, and in order to secure lower insurance rates they ask the local water company, which is a private corporation, to make connections for fire service. These connections are four and six inch mains. A four inch detector meter costs $300 and a six inch meter costs $450.00. It is a business proposition of cost. By the installation of this private water service their insurance rates are lowered from $500 to $1,000 to $1,500. I am quite sure that our local water company is not going to carry this fixed charge of perhaps five, six or seven thousand dollars for the installation of these meters, unless somebody pays the bill. They install the meters, and they must retain some person to read them every month and they must incur the expense of readings and service charges. I fear very much that our water companies are not in the eleemosinary business, and that the man who actually consumes the water will have to pay for the fire protection afforded those industries which now have meters installed. There is no answer to say, let the water company have a fixed charge for the service, for the reason that no service is contemplated except in case of fire, and that may not occur for twenty years; and furthermore, as a matter of fact, I know that our water company has tried that, and they have found that the corporations borrow water when their own service becomes inefficient. Therefore it resolves itself into a case of the local water company either denying these corporations the meter service or the water service, or making the actual consumer pay the bill. Again, our town is served by private corporations furnishing both gas and electricity and all of the smaller houses are provided with gas, and all of the better class houses with both gas and electricity. Electricity is used and the gas service maintained in case of emergency. Now if a gas company must carry a fixed charge of ten, twelve or fifteen thousand dollars to have installed in every private residence a gas meter in fifty per cent. of the cases no charge will be made because no gas will be used. If the electric light service does not fail, they will not have occasion to use the gas meter. If that is the case, that gas company, I am sure, will raise the rates on the actual consumer of gas. I cannot see how you can figure it any other way. No corporation for furnishing gas, electricity or water is in business for the benefit of the public. I cannot see but what this bill in both instances is gong to result in increasing the rate to the actual consumer, and therefore I am bound to vote against it.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, in order to give the members an opportunity to understand the merits of this bill I would move you that we postpone further action on it for the present.

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

O God, we are exorted in Thy name to offer prayer and supplication and giving of thanks for all men and especially for those who are in authority, that we may live careful and peaceful lives in all honesty and godliness. We are told that this is acceptable and worthy in the sight of God, our Saviour, who wills that all men shall be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth. In response to this exhortation we mention to Thee all kings and emperors, all princes and potentates, all presidents and governors, all judges and legislators, upon whom so largely depends the safety and prosperity and the peace of nations and states and governments. We come for all those who occupy responsible places, asking that Thou wouldst quicken them, by your grace, and guide them, richly with Thy spirit, and make them wise men and good men and faithful men so that our God shall be honored and the people shall be saved, and Thy name shall have the praise of it forever more. Baldwin, R. J.,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 253, entitled:

An Act regulating the manner of conducting any election at which the question of holding a constitution convention

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 73, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Trustees of the Homeopathic State Hospital for the Insane to cover deficiency in maintenance and equipment of said hospital.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Miller, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. Certainly.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Will you kindly inform the House as to the location of the hospital referred to in this bill?

Mr. MILLER. It is located at what is known as Rittersville, about three miles from Allentown.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Will you explain the bill to the House?

Mr. MILLER. About two years ago there was a new commission appointed for the Rittersville Hospital. Previous to that, for about ten years, the old commission was working to construct the Hospital for the Insane at Rittersville, and the Governor made a change and appointed a Committee which consisted of the very best men to be found in Lehigh County, and these men undertook the completion of the work. The work was completed in remarkably short time. In fact, I dare say the last Legislature had thought the work would not be completed before the present Session and therefore they overlooked the important fact of providing for a maintenance appropriation. I understand that this is the usual thing to do in the starting up of a hospital, to have this maintenance appropriation made. The hospital at Fairview had an appropriation—I don't know the exact amount—but somewhere from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars. This hospital at Rittersville was completed and ready for inmates last summer. An expert superintendent was chosen and a steward, one of the best to be secured, and everything was in readiness, but for some reason or other they could not open the hospital, and that simple reason was, that there was no money to provide for the necessary stores, or to pay for the maintenance and other necessities. There was a demand from certain sources for the opening of the hospital. People throughout the State were asking why the Trustees did not open the institution, and finally the Trustees took it upon themselves to open the institution and incur these contracts and expenses necessary to start the institution, the salaries, stores, supplies, groceries and one thing or another, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars, and from credits which consisted of certain items received from the State Treasurer's office and other counties, drew the amount down to sixty-six thousand dollars. I might also say that in this item there were several other items included which it was necessary to include in these expenditures, because the old commission, in building the hospital, had overlooked certain requirements in the covering of pipes and radiators which the Factory Inspector required after the hospital was completed. Then there was the insurance on the hospital. They insured the buildings at $1,500,000.00 and the cost of that amounted to over $8,000.00 They got a very low rate, that is, twenty-eight cents for every thousand, and paying fifty-six cents for the three years. Now this commission has done everything that the State can possibly ask it to do. It has done everything toward the opening of the hospital in time, to open its doors ready for patients. I want to say that since the third of October, since the hospital has been opened, patients have been coming in there at the rate of fifty per week, until the thirty-first of January, there was a total of eight hundred and twenty patients received. Ten have been discharged, so that there is now a population at the Rittersville Hospital aggregating somewhere between 810 and 830 persons. As I said in the outset, there was nothing there to pay the grocery bills or salaries. There are items of maintenance remaining unpaid as far back as November, and the December items have not been paid. The salaries up to February 1st have been paid, but from February on have remained unpaid. The present Trustees cannot pay the salaries or maintain the inmates that they have there. The Trustees are not asking anything but justice, simply that which has been done heretofore. In providing for maintenance appropriations, it was neglected in this instance, and they are asking for it at this time. I will say that the State Board of Charities visited the institution and recommended $80,000.00 for the maintenance appropriation. When this bill was introduced several weeks ago, there was a special committee appointed by the Appropriation Committee which committee visited the institution and was surprised to see what the State possesses and what work is being done there. If any member of that Committee i asked concerning this, he will bear me out in this statement. All the Trustees are asking for this evening is simply justice, simply asking the State to pay the necessary bills and keep the inmates in food and clothing.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. North.

Mr. NORTH. When this bill came before the Appropriation Committee for their consideration, there was some doubt as to the amount desired. The Chairman of that Committee appointed a sub-committee to investigate, and that committee reported that the amounts required which were absolutely necessary, and for that reason were so reported in the bill, which was sixty-six thousand and some dollars for maintenance and some three or four thousand dollars for necessary expenses. There was no provision for maintenance when the bill was passed two years ago. For that reason, I hope the members will favor this bill.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 104, as follows:

An Act amending section one hundred and two of an act, entitled "An Act relating to the elections of this Commonwealth approved the second day of July, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine," by providing punishment for certain offenses committed by election officers and clerks and amending section one hundred and three of said act by increasing the penalties therein provided.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. John Robert Jones.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I have been asked a number of questions with reference to the effect of these election bills which have been placed on the calendar for third reading tonight. For the information of the House, I wish to state that these four bills are bills which have been drafted by the Executive and Legislative Committee of the Republican Party. You will recall that there was a convention held in Harrisburg during the Summer, at which there was created a Legislative Committee, which was empowered to draft certain legislation to carry into execution the pledges of their platform. Among these pledges, you will find this bill, among these four bills, relating to specific amendments to the existing law. If you will read it, you will find that it fixes a minimum and a maximum penalty and increases the fines and penalties in accordance with the decree of the offence. The one I have reference to is Bill 104, which amends section 102 and section 103 of the Act of 1839, July second, which relates to the law fixing the penalties for willful frauds in elections. There is no need for me to go into any further explanation, except that these election offences are serious offences. It is a crime against the entire State, as well as the election district in which the fraud is committed, and the object is to make the punishment commensurable with the crime.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to introduce the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 2, line 19, after the word "imprisonment," strike out the words "for a period not less than one year."

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, may I make a statement in regard to the purpose of the amendment? I wish to state that the purpose of the amendment is to strike out the minimum of imprisonment. (Calls of no no!) My observation and experience has been that minimums in criminal law don't work out as they have been intended. The young man or the person is brought before the court and the evidence is very strong that he has committed a crime. There are circumstances surrounding the case, however, that in the opinion of reasonable people he is not guilty, but after all this, there being a minimum penalty, the court has no redress; he must inflict a penalty. The consequence is that the infringement of the law is winked at by declaring the defendant "not guilty", while the court might feel that he deserved some penalty or some punishment. As a matter of fact he would not punish him at all, as he could not unless he puts him in prison for one whole year for this offense, while perhaps ninety days imprisonment would be ample and sufficient. The result would be, if we put into this statute a penalty of one year—it is a pretty heavy penalty—if we put it in as much as that the result will be that the effect intended by the law will be thwarted by winking at the proposition and by saying that the defendant is not guilty. Such will be the effect as it comes before the jury, and the jury knows that he has committed some offense against the law, yet the penalty is so much more severe than the offense deserves, the jury would bring in a verdict of "not guilty." It is for that reason, according to my observation, that the criminal law should have no minimum written into it. I do think, if any person pay any attention to this or has paid any attention to this, they will certainly agree that we ought to strike out the minimum clause, and you will bring about a great deal better results than you will by making the penalty so great that the jury hesitates to inflict the penalty upon the defendant.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to the arguments of the gentleman from Delaware in relation to the winking of juries at the innocence of defendants. If a minimum penalty be fixed by statute. I wish to call attention to the fact that it takes the winks of twelve jurors to wink at that law. If there is no minimum, it takes the wink of one judge to wink at that law and he becomes the judge and the jury in a case of that kind. If this be an offence sufficient to be punishable with imprisonment, I believe in this case, as I believe in every other case, that there ought to be a minimum fixed by law so that no court can go farther than that, and a parole law would be applicable to a case of that kind, and I am sure that if the court, in sentencing one who had been found guilty, would sentence him as he believes he deserves it, and after he has served sufficiently long, that upon proper presentation of the case to the court, that the court could exercise its pleasure and its authority and parole the defendant, if he thought the reasons were sufficient. I think that that amendment should not be embodied in the bill, but that the bill should stand as it is drawn.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Howard.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to an increase of the penalty, but I have an objection to what is said by a gentleman on this floor in regard to the original bill providing a penalty of imprisonment and fine. Now, the reform legislation is going to imprison a man on conviction, for not less than one year, when before it was three months. If you will read the section on page 199, you will notice that the penalty then provided was for three months' in prison, in addition to a fine. No judge or jury could get by that three months. Now, we are asked to raise the imprisonment to one year. I don't think that it is any reform to make it one year.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would call the House's attention to this fact: While the gentleman from Allegheny suggested that the court may wink at the law, the fact must be recalled that he is but one juror among the thirteen, where he believes the penalty was entirely too great and would probably vote for a verdict of not guilty, and it would result just as I said when I was on my feet before. I am just as much in favor of punishing crime as any member present, and I know from experience and from conditions in my own county, where jurors have come out and said, "The penalty was so great, I was not going to inflict it on that person. If the penalty had been more moderate, I would have voted for conviction." This is my own actual experience. You must either vote for a year or acquit, and if one juror in the twelve feel that he would like to vote for acquittal on account of the severity of the sentence, that would free him. I am arguing for the enforcement of this law, and not against it. I think that the one year penalty would defeat the purpose of the law rather than furnish punishment or conviction.

Mr. JOHN R. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Howard, was evidently speaking under a misapprehension when he made reference to my explanation of this bill. I was speaking with reference to all bills relating to elections that are on the third reading calendar tonight. The point now is that you are increasing the penalty; you are making a minimum and a maximum in the same where none such existed; and, as you will find in the amended section two here, in section 102 you have increased the minimum and also the maximum.

In answer to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, I would say that under the law the jury has nothing to do with the penalty. The only question involved with the jury is whether under the evidence and the explanation of the law by the court the prisoner or defendant is guilty. With the penalty the jury has nothing whatsoever to do.

Now let us think for a moment whether or not the penalty provided here is too high for the nature of the crime. Now what is the crime in section 102? As amended it is "Any election officer or clerk who shall e guilty of any willful fraud in the conduct of his duties at an election or who shall make a false return of the votes cast at such eltction" and so on. It deals with what is known as ballot box stuffing, crimes that are deliberate, willful and premeditated. The crime is not against an individual, and is no such crime as would be related to theft, wherein the one from whom nothing is stolen is the only one affected; but if the crime be committed at a State election it is a crime against the entire State, and not affecting but a single individual. And I repeat what I said in the first instance that it is a crime in the nature of treason, and it is a great crime, a willful, deliberate, premeditated, ballot box stuffing and when you consider the nature of the crime it is not too severe a punishment and I hope that this amendment will be voted down.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I agree with Mr. Jones, of Schuylkill, and if I had my say about it I would increase the minimum, rather than reduce it. The object of this amendment is to place a warning before the voters of this Commonwealth to be more careful in violating our election laws; and I would also, in addition to increasing the minimum penalty, have the voter disfranchised for a number of years.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do not think that the supporters of this bill, as it now stands, would find any comfort in the thought that the person convicted and sentenced under this act, may avail himself of the parole act. I think with this mandatory minimum the court would be absolutely powerless to parole a convicted defendant, and I think the House might consider just for a moment the tendency of legislatures in regard to criminal punishment. The legislature of 1909, in establishing a parole act, provided that the minimum should be not more than one fourth the maximum, which resulted in such an undesirable condition in criminal affairs that the legislature of 1911, allowed the court to fix both the minimum and the maximum. Now you consider for a moment that if a man looking through the window pane of a bake shop should lift the latch and take a roll or bun under the act of 1909 the Court would be obliged to assess against the man a maximum of ten years, and the minimum being obligatory, one-fourth or two and one-half years, which I think you will agree would be a ridiculous punishment. I think in election laws, as in all laws, we should not fix a rigid minimum. I think the punishment should suit the offense. Where you have a man who deliberately and willfully violates the law of the land in regard to elections. I say soak him and soak him good and hard; but if you have simply a technical violation of the law, do not fix on that man the yoke of a rigid minumum or maximum. I think you should fix the maximum good and high so that the punishment may suit the offence, but let us keep in touch with the penalogical notions that the punishment should be elastic, and make the punishment suit the offence and the offender. I think we should not for a moment consider that the courts would not be acting according to the best public opinion in the punishment of election crimes. I think we may safely assume that in Pennsylvania election criminals will receive their just punishments. But don't let us go back on the advanced notions of penalogy. Let us make a high maximum and then punish the man who commits election crimes as he deserves.

On the question recurring,

Will the House go into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the amendment?

A division was called for, 75 voting in the affirmative and 91 in the negative, and the question was decided in the negative.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House bill No. 122, entitled:

An Act amending one hundred and twenty of an act entitled "An act relating to the elections of this Commonwealth" approved the second day of July Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine as amended by Act of Assembly approved the twelfth day of July Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was then read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend on page one, line 5 by adding letter "S" to the word "election."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House bill No. 123, entitled:

An Act amending sections fifty and fifty-one of an act entitled "An act to consolidate revise and amend the Penal Laws of this Commonwealth" approved the thirty-first day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, under the law, if you ask a man to vote for you and promise to get an appointment for him, and he receives any remuneration for working for you, providing he promises to vote for you at the election and acts as your emissary for the dissemination of information, that man is liable to a fine and imprisonment if he is found guilty. Under this amendment to the law, he would have to undergo an imprisonment of not less than one year and not exceeding three years and he would have to pay a fine not exceeding $500.00. All of you, as I, are in favor of punishing a man who takes a bribe or who is corrupt at election time. Now, Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, there was a bill offered here the other day prohibiting treating, the treating to intoxicating liquors of one man by another, and the penalty in that bill was placed at not less than $'500.00 nor more than $5,000.00. Think of a penalty of $5,000.00 if a man bought a drink for another man. That penalty alone was enough to kill the bill, and the bill was afterwards amended. You can kill any bill amending the penal laws by making the penalty in it severe enough. I would not vote for a conviction if I were on a jury, I would not vote for a conviction if there was a penalty of 5,000.00 where a man bought a drink for another man. I simply wanted to call the attention of the House to this bill.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, with the consent of the House I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cameron.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. I will.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I would like to ask the gentleman whether the proposed change in the law has created any new crime?

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. I am not an attorney, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I will repeat my question: I will ask the gentleman whether or not the bill of which I am the sponsor has created any new offense?

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. I simply said or meant that it increased the penalty. I think it does, that is the way it reads in my sheet, but as to the legal phraseology, I do not know.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I asked that question for the reason that the gentleman in his remarks to the House indicated that the proposed law created more offenses and more crimes. It was drawn up in accordance with the Fiftieth and Fifty-first sections of an act approved the thirty-first day of March, 1860, known as the "Crimes Act." This was done in order, in my judgment and the judgment of the committee, to make the punishment fit the crime. I do not want to take up your time in discussing this thing. The gentleman from Delaware offered an amendment to the other bills which had reference to the minimum penalty, and not the maximum penalty. The theory of Criminal Law is exactly the same in the bills as debated and discussed and passed upon in the first bill. Beyond that I have nothing to say unless there is some question raised by the gentleman from Cameron.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, since this Legislature has been in session we have shown great Progressivism. Some of us have seen a new light, but I believe there is one in a nearby room who emigrated from the shores of Germany some sixty years ago and who has been for forty years a reformer. He is now the present Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, and I move the House now take a recess for fifteen minutes to listen to the Hon. Rudolph Blankenburg, of Philadelphia.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

RECESS.

Whereupon, (at 9:40 P. M.) the House took a recess for fifteen minutes.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE RUDOLPH BLANKENBERG MAYOR OF PHILADELPHIA.

During recess, the Hon. Rudolph Blankenburg addressed the House as follows:

Mr. SPEAKER and Members of the House of Representatives.

While I at the present time occupy the Speaker's place, I am not a speaker, and I am not going to make a speech. I only desire to say that I am more than pleased. I am delighted to have the privilege of standing before you this evening. I know a great many of the members of the House. I believe I have been in nearly every county in the State on one kind of an errand or another,—sometimes it was the other. Philadelphia is represented by myself as chief magistrate of the good old Quaker City. We are a part of the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We do not think, as some may believe, or have been told, that Philadelphia is better than any other part of the State. Philadelphia is only one part of this great Commonwealth. We want legislation for our city, and I am going to try and make a good impression on you tonight by being very modest. It has always been my habit to be as modest as I possibly can, but there are some things, especially one thing to which I would call the attention of every member of this distinguished House, and that is, that Philadelphia may be made one of the greatest seaports, not only in this country, but in the whole world. If Philadelphia is made such a seaport, it will rebound to the credit and benefit not only of the City where I live, but it will help the whole Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The City of Hamburg is ninety miles distant from the Ocean. By the persistent efforts of that little Commonwealth, Hamburg today has the largest steamship line of any city in the world, larger than the Cunard, White Star and the French Lines put together. We in Philadelphia are one hundred and fifty miles from the Ocean. We have the magnificent river, the Delaware, and if we can be helped by you, I say to you to night we can make Philadelphia the equal of Hamburg. I want to call your attention to the City of Boston. They have appropriated nine millions of dollars for the benefit of the harbor of Boston—the State of Massachusetts being but one-fifth the size of Pennsylvania and the City of Boston but one-half the size of Philadelphia, the State of Pennsylvania manufacturing double the quantity of goods that Massachusetts does. Now, gentlemen, let us pull together, and leave politics entirely out of sight. I am not a politician, I am simply here as a plain citizen of this great Commonwealth, and I would ask you, gentlemen of the House of Representatives of this great State of William Penn, to give us that aid, to do for Philadelphia what Massachusetts has done for Boston. It will redound to the benefit and help of everybody living in our great Commonwealth.

There are several other things I might talk about, but I do not care to make a speech. In all probability a number of us will appear before some of your committees. There are a number of things we would like to discuss with you, but I want to say to you tonight that in all fairness and earnestness we will not demand a single thing that we do not believe to be absolutely right. I want to say to you further that the antogonism that has been created from time to time between the great cities and between the country districts must be and will be wiped out all together. We are one great Commonwealth. What is good for Philadelphia is good for Pittsburgh, good for Harrisburg, good for Tioga County, Crawford County, Wayne County or any other county of the State. I would love to have you act regardless of all political affiliations for the good of the great Commonwealth which we all love so dearly. I thank you, gentlemen.

AFTER RECESS.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 131, as follows:

An Act amending section one hundred and nineteen of an act entitled "An act relating to the elections of this Commonwealth" approved the second day of July Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine as amended by Act of Assembly approved the fourteenth day of July Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Joseph Gray.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, Mr. J. R. Jones.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. John Robert Jones, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Yes, sir.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask a question, whether this is a bill the same as the others increasing the penalty for the offences of election officers?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. It is. It specifies the nature of the crime; it does not specify the offence; that is specified as a misdemeanor.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Two of these bills I have voted against because I didn't believe in fixing a minimum penalty. I think the gentlemen are right who voted to leave the minimum to the judge. The gentleman from Schuylkill has stated to the House, generally, that in passing on the guilt or innocence of a defendant, that the jury has nothing to do with the penalty. I say they have a great deal to do with the penalty; if they recommend to the judge that the mercy of the court be given, as they do in many cases, certainly they have a great deal to do with the penalty, because the judge always hears that request. If you fix the minimum by statute, it takes it entirely away from the discretion of the court, and he must impose a penalty as provided by the law, no matter what his inclination may be, whether that penalty is commensurate punishment for the crime or not, and we all know that crimes differ. Those who have acquaintance with court procedure know that some men are charged with crime and are guilty and deserve a heavy penalty; and there are other men who are charged with some offence and deserve a light penalty. That is a familiar form with court procedure, and we all know it. Furthermore, this thing of imposing great penalties is not good practice. Every person knows that heavy court penalties cause violations of the law. The greatest of English Chancellors, Sir Thomas Moore, raised his voice against extreme penalties. I think that man should guide us, and we might follow his voice and be careful in the imposition of heavy penalties. I shall take a great deal of pleasure in voting against this bill.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, where a man should vote where he has no right to vote, it is a deliberate offence and a crime and I think that a violation of the election laws of this character should have a penalty of five years and that it is not too severe a maximum. So, in this particular bill the maximum which was five years under the Act of 1897 is now reduced to three years. I would like to call the attention of the House to that fact in this bill, so that I may be understood when I vote against these bills as voting with the thought in mind that I am doing what I think is best. I feel on the question of election laws, as I feel on every other question involving suffrage in this country, that the crime cannot have too severe a penalty. I have been in this country long enough, and my people have been in this country so long that no man remembers when they came. They have thought along these lines always, that it would be best for the people of the Commonwealth, and I feel that when I vote against this election laws that I vote for a reason, that I would like to have the elections in this Commonwealth and in this country carried on just as honestly as possible.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to say a word to corect any misapprehension. I understand from the arguments of the opponents of these measures that the great objection was to the creation of a maximum prison sentence, and I take it that there is an increase of the penalty, because when we say to a court, "You shall have the power not to go beyond a certain maximum or minimum" and then it is possible that you might let them have a penalty of even ten days. Therefore, when a bill fixes the maximum and the minimum, we believe it to be a step forward. It is true this one reduces the maximum. That is in accordance with the opinions of the drafters of the bill. Whether or not this particular offence merits the particular punishment is a question for consideration.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with.

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House bill No. 34, entitled:

An Act providing for the safety of persons from fire or panic in certain buildings other than cities of the first and second classes requiring proper exits, fire-extinguishers and other preventives of fire, and regulating the number and width of aisles according to the seating capacity and width of auditorium and galleries.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That in all theatres, opera houses or other buildings where stage scenery, moving pictures or other apparatus is used other than in cities of the first or second class there shall be provided one or more direct exterior doorways from the stage and for dressing-rooms under the stage a direct exterior doorway shall be provided and all said doorways shall be not less than three feet in width and the passageways to and from the same shall be unobstructed and properly lighted. Neither on or about the stage, auditorium or galleries shall any inflammable or explosive oil be used for lighting purposes and all lights on or about the stage and electric wires and appliances for electric switches shall be safety guarded. All drop-curtains and sky-borders shall be of non-combustible substance. There shall also be provided for each side of the stage not less than two fire-extinguishers and one cask of not less than forty-two gallons' capacity which shall be kept full of water and two buckets for each cask, buckets and casks to be painted red and kept in readiness for immediate use. All auditoriums and galleries of said buildings as described in this section shall be provided with aisles as follows:

Where the rows in width of such auditorium and galleries contain six seats or less there shall be one centre aisle three feet wide with three seats or less on either side.

Where the rows in width of such auditorium and galleries contain eight seats or less there shall be one centre aisle four feet wide with four seats or less on either side. Where such rows contain more than eight but less than twelve seats there shall be one four foot centre aisle with six seats or less on either side and a two-foot aisle along each side wall.

Where such rows contain twenty seats or more there shall be a four-foot centre aisle and a four-foot aisle along each side wall or at least one additional four-foot aisle for every ten seats above twenty.

All such aisles shall provide a continuous unobstructed passageway to the main exits and to the exits leading to the fire-escapes and the words "Exit to Fire-escapes" in large legible illuminated letters shall be posted and kept pested before each fire-escape exit and all exits shall open outward and shall be kept unlocked and ready for instant use from the opening of said buildings to the close of each and every entertainment therein

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as read?

Mr. FRANK GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to this section.

The amendment was read by the Clerk, as follows:

Line 31, after the word "be," strike out the word "one" and insert "two."

After the word "foot" in the same line, strike out the word "centre" and add the letter "s" to "aisle."

In line 32, strike out all after the word "side."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section, as amended, was then agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read and agreed to, as follows:

Section 2. It shall be the duty of the Chief Factory Inspector to enforce the provisions of this act.

The third section of the bill was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 3. All acts or parts of acts general, local or special inconsistent herewith are repealed.

The title was read and agreed to as follows:

An act providing for the safety of persons from fire or panic in certain buildings other than in cities of the first and second classes requiring proper exits fire-extinguishers and other preventatives of fire and regulating the number and width of aisles according to the seating capacity and width of auditorium and galleries

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. GIBSON: Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER: The gentleman from Lycoming, Mr. Gibson.

Mr. GIBSON: Mr. Speaker, I hope the members of the House will look at this bill pretty carefully before it passes. It provides for regulating moving picture shows, in cities of the first, second and third classes. It provides that they must have aisles so and so wide. My attention was called to this bill last week, and I made it a point to step into several moving picture shows here on Market Street, and in each instance, including one down here on Market Street where there were nine seats, there were three seats against the wall and then an aisle and then three or four seats and then an aisle and so on, and it is a question about whether this recommendation will bear out. I don't believe that it can be solved in this way. If it should be passed in this House, I don't believe it is possible to enforce it, because the only provision that is made is that it shall be the duty of the Chief Factory Inspector to enforce these provisions. I therefore move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. FRANK GRAY: Mr. Speaker, this bill is practically the same as the one that passed this House two years ago. Under the present law, it is reported in the Senate that the bill as amended is unconstitutional—that is what they called it over there. The bill of 1909 provides for all kinds of amusement places, to the effect that there shall be three or four good aisles. If you know anything about aisles, you know that where there are factories having three four-foot aisles, it takes off twelve feet. Consequently, I have tried to make this bill so that it don't have to be left entirely to the factory inspector to tell a man that he can violate the law if he so decides. Then I have drawn it so that the person can make his blue prints and lay out his seats and don't have to go to the factory inspector at all. (Mr. Gray read a portion of the bill.)

On the question,

BILL POSTPONED.

Will the House agree to the motion to postpone the bill for the present?

A division was called for, 86 voting in the affirmative and 66 in the negative, and the question was decided in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. SPEISER: Mr. Speaker, there seems to be some controversy on the part of my colleagues, as to the exact intent of this bill, just what it is to provide for. I think it would be in order at this time, Mr. Speaker, that the introducer of this bill be called upon to explain, particularly that section that has to do with spend-thrift trusts. There is a great amount of talk going on between the legal members of this House on the subject and I think the gentleman from Philadelphia might enlighten us on this particular point.

Mr. SHERN: Mr. Speaker, if my friend would seek the advice of some older member he would know that the proper time to interrogate the sponsor of this bill would be when it is on the third reading, and not on second reading. But nevertheless, gentlemen, I have no hesitancy in explaining this bill. This is a very serious and important matter and no matter for joking.

Under the present law where a testator executes a will bequeathing to his son or daughter a certain amount of money in trust, to be free from any entanglements, or free from any debts or engagements which the son or daughter may enter into, the income of what is known as a spend-thrift trust cannot be attached. In Lockhart's appeal 202, Pa. S. R., it was decided by the Supreme Court of this State that the income of a spend-thrift trust could not be attached for the support of the wife or child. In that case there was a crippled child. The husband filed the jurisdiction of the court of Philadelphia, and went to Canada, and the income of his spend-thrift trust was attached and the Supreme Court decided that the income of a spend-thrift trust could not be attached. This act is for the purpose of getting over the decision of the Supreme Court so that destitute wives and children can attach the income from spend-thrift trusts for their support.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O, Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth. Thou hast set Thy glory above the Heavens. Thou art glorious with holiness, working with praise, doing wonders. We recognize Thy hand in the stirring events which are going on about us. Thou art working Thy will and doing Thy pleasure in ways which are to us mysterious and wonderful. Thou art using men as Thine agents, even though they are working unconsciously with Thee. Thou art in the tumults and confusion which are startling and impressing us, the wars and revolutions, and all the great tragedies of life. Thou art in the resistless pressure of the world's work. Thou art in the quiet and orderly movements of homes and schools and churches. Thou art in the rush of the streets and in the work which is being done in stores and shops, and courts and offices, and forests and fields. Thou art voicing Thyself in the daily press which molds our opinions. Thou art recording Thy pleasure in Legislation Assemblies. We recognize all this, O., God, and bow before Thee as a wonderworking God. We would work in harmony with Thee, and therefore humble ourselves to Thee, that Thou mayst take us and use us and enable us to do efficient and faithful work, and Thy name shall have the praise of it, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

A Concurrent Resolution proposing an amendment to article eight, section fourteen of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1 Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (if the Senate concur) that the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

Amend section fourteen of article eight of said Constitution, which reads as follows:

Section 14 District election boards shall consist of a judge and two inspectors, who shall be chosen annually by the citizens. CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Mr. LESLIE offered the following resolution, which was twice read and laid over for printing.

Concurrent Resolution providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate the charges against the Western Pennsylvania Training School, located at Morganza, Washington County, Pennsylvania.

Whereas, Recently in the public prints grave charges have appeared alleging wanton abuse of the inmates of the Western Pennsylvania Training School located at Morganza, Washington County, Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, The charges, if true, are of such nature as demand a speedy reform in the method of administering such institution and

Whereas, It would be unwise to ignore the charges, inasmuch as they are alleged in great volume and in detail; therefore

Be It Resolved (if the Senate concur) That a commission be appointed to investigate all charges that have recently been made in public prints and elsewhere against the management of the Western Pennsylvania Training School, located at Morganza, Washington County, Pennsylvania. This commission shall consist of three members of the Senate, to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore thereof, and of three members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker thereof. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed expenses actually and necessarily incurred by them or any of them in the performance of the duties imposed hereby upon them. Said commission is authorized to make a thorough examination of the methods of administration and treatment of the inmates used in said institution, and are authorized to examine such witnesses as may be produced before them, and to subpoena such other witnesses whose testimony they desire. They shall also have the authority to require the production of such books, papers and other matters as in their judgment will conduce to a thorough investigation of the matter in hand. This commission shall organize immediately after their appointment by the election of a chairman, and shall promptly proceed upon the performances of the duties herein imposed. They shall report in writing to the General Assembly on or before the first day of April of this year, making in such report such recommendations as in their judgment are necessary. The expenses made necessary by this commission shall be appropriated in the general appropriation bill.

REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER.

Mr. MILLER offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Whereas, The State Highway Commissioner is directed by law to issue license tags for motor vehicles upon payment of certain fixed fees and said tags are forwarded prepaid to the person applying for same, and

Whereas, Said tags, weighting approximately three pounds each, are sent by express at an average cost of forty (40) cents each, and

Whereas, Said tags could be sent by Parcels Post at an average cost of fourteen (14) cents each, thereby saving to the State twenty-six (26) cents on an average on each tag, and

Whereas, The number of tags sent out annually exceed sixty (60) thousand, and the State would save approximately fifteen thousand ($15,000) dollars annually were this change made, and although the Parcels Post has been in operation since January 1, 1913, so far as known, no tag has thus far been sent by this means;

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the State Highway Commissioner furnish to the House of Representatives any reason which prevents this change in the shipment of said Auto-License tags.

GRANTING USE OF THE HALL OF THE HOUSE TO DR. J. T. ROTHROCK.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE SERVICE IN THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I wish at this time to call up Concurrent Resolution No. 1, as reported from Committee.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Whereas, There has recently been considerable discussion in the newspapers and elsewhere regarding the number, duties, efficiency and salaries of the officers, clerks and employes of the Senate, House of Representatives and the several departments, boards and commissions connected with the State government; and

Whereas, It is of the greatest importance that the Senators and Members of the present General Assembly should be informed as to the necessity for, also the qualifications, number and salaries of said officers, clerks and employes, so that if any changes are found necessary they may be authorized during the present session of the Legislature; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a commission consisting of four members of the present Senate, one of whom shall be a Democrat, be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and five members of the present House of Representatives, two of whom shall be Democrats, be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to investigate as to the necessity for, efficiency, number and salaries of the officers, clerks and employes of the Senate and House of Representatives and to make report thereof, and, if necessary, to recommend, not later than March 12, 1913, to the present General Assembly such a bill or bills as may be requisite to improve the service and remedy any defects existing under the present laws.

Such commission shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books and papers; to issue all necessary processes, and to exercise all the powers belonging to a joint committee of the Legislature. Such commission shall elect from its number a chairman, and

The Chief Clerk of the Senate shall assign one of the regularly elected clerks to committees to said commission as its clerk.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution as amended.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 153, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An act to tax traction-engines and providing that the same shall be assessed by the several assessors of the counties of this Commonwealth in the same manner as other articles of personal estate liable for taxation are assessed" on page 4 of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to hear from the sponsor of this bill what the purpose of it is.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, at the session of 1911, an act was passed assessing traction engines. The act read they should be assessed for all purposes. The intention was it should be a tax raised for local purposes. Since then there is a State tax collected on these engines. Counties where the traction engines are used do not receive any benefit only as they receive it from the general school fund or road fund, and the traction engines are possibly only used for agricultural purposes for four to six weeks in the year. I do not see that it is fair that they should be burdened by this tax, any more than that thereshould be a State tax on a binder or mowing machine, or anything else of that character. If this act had been carried out as the intent was, to levy a local tax for local purposes, we would not ask to have it repealed; but as there is a State tax levied, and that only, for that reason we ask to have the act repealed.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Sullivan.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Sullivan permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REESER. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if this repealer carries, when this act is repealed, if the local authorities will have power to tax these engines?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I think not, because this bill that is presented now is to repeal this act entirely.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman by asking him if there is any other bill in preparation to provide for the taxation of traction engines.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I think there will be; that is the intention.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, then I suggest to the gentleman from Sullivan that this bill be left on the postponed calendar until the substitute has been prepared so that these traction engines shall not go untaxed.

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill should be repealed. The Auditor General's office in their red tax blank have put in an item of traction engines. There is nothing in that bill which provides that traction engines should pay a state tax. The fact of the matter is that there is nothing that provides for a state tax, it is very vague and indefinite. The road supervisors and county commissioners do not know what to do on the subject, some doing one thing and some another. We have no objection to having the traction engine taxed for road purposes or for any other purposes, but this bill is so vague and indefinite that no one knows what shall be taxed or how it shall be assessed. I know this from experience. If the gentleman will have a bill introduced whereby traction engines shall be assessed for road purposes everybody will be satisfied. This bill has no provision whatever to levy a tax and therefor I think this bill should be repealed.

Mr. GIBSON. The demand for this bill came largely from rural townships where the traction engines have broken down a great many bridges and the purpose of the bill was to provide a tax for these local communities. The bill is not perfectly clear, and there has been pointed out a whole lot of doubt as to what it means, and I think the thing to do is to repeal this bill. It has been stated here that very likely another bill will be presented, and there is no reason why this bill should not be repealed.

Mr. ROCKWELL. In response to a very urgent demand two years ago, I introduced this bill, because the traction engines were going over the roads and damaging them and breaking down sluices and the people of these communities thought it no more than right to tax them to help defray this expense. The purpose of the bill was to make them taxable for local purposes, for counties, boroughs, cities and townships, but the Attorney-General has so construed it that it is a State tax. It does not meet with the purposes for which it was introduced, and as the original sponsor of the bill, I have no objection to the act being repealed. I propose to prepare a new bill to meet the purposes for which this act was originally introduced and passed.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House bill No. 6, entitled:

An Act for the further regulation and restraint of the sale of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors and admixtures thereof by those having a wholesale license from any of the several courts of quarter sessions of this Commonwealth

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pas finally?

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I had hoped that when this bill would come up for final passage that I would have the facts relative thereto so assembled and so formulated in my own mind that I would be able to present them to this House without the use of any manuscript. But this bill has been a good deal like the material with which it deals, it has been traveling pretty rapidly, so I am going to ask the indulgence of this House, Mr. Speaker, while I read the notes that I dictated to the stenographer this morning, and I hope that I shall have the attention of the House, because this bill, in my judgment, and in the judgment of those who live in my community, is one of the most important bills that will be up for passage in this House.

Mr. SPEAKER and Gentlemen of the House, I wish to take as little time of this body as inconsistent with an adequate discussion of the merits of this bill.

The material with which this measure deals is not such as to inspire one with pride, patriotism or pleasure in its discussion.

Rather does it tend to make him hang his head in shame knowing as he does, that it is only because of the revenue it produces or the taxes it pays that it is tolerated at all, in many of its phases.

The liquor business as I see it, and there are others who think differently is a sworded one at its very best. There is nothing in it in its most favored aspects that remind one of an eleemeosinary institution. It helps no one not even those directly engaged in the business. In its worse forms the liquor business is an unmixed evil. It is what General Sherman said "war is."

It is because of the evils of the liquor business in its worst aspects, that this measure is withdrawn. It is because the wholesale liquor business in many parts of the Commonwealth has become so enamored of diffidends that it is willing to sacrifice home, happiness and even life itself, that its coffers may be filled.

This is a harsh statement to make, but it is not outside the facts as many of you gentlemen know and which I hope to prove to you in what I have to say.

If all the members of this House lived in certain parts of Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh, or in the coal producing territory of this Commonwealth there would be no necessity for my making the statements about which I am about to make. The men from these portions of the State, know if they have made any effort at all, to inform themselves, that the wholesale liquor business as it is conducted in many parts of this State is a disgrace and a gigantic menace to any civilized community. I doubt if you men, who live in rural communities, outside of the great industrial centers of this great Commonwealth have any adequate conception of what the wholesale liquor trade, doing practically and unrestrained retail business, is doing to destroy the homes, the lives of the adults, and the physical and intellectual endowment of the children of the great army of aliens continuously landing upon our shores.

I am not here to deliver to you gentlemen a temperance lecture.

Lecturing is not my business, neither do I wish to discuss with you the significantly proven evil effects of indulgence in alcoholic liquors. You can get that from your family physicians, or you eight year old boy when he comes home from school in the evening.

All I want to do is to give you a few concrete examples of the unrestrained wholesale liquor business and the evils connected therewith. I am going to take my own community, the one about which I know most and the one with which I am quite familiar, for I have lived in it for more than a quarter of a century.

My town is Latrobe, a municipality of more than ten thousand inhabitants in it are twelve licensed hotels, most of them I want to say, much above the average in the carefulness to which they adhere to the provisions of the Brooks law. There are also numerous clubs in my town where one can get all the drink necessary to quench his thirst and more possibly than is good for him. Added to these we have two large brewery plants and a distillery, you will note that my own town is not excessively dry.

Latrobe is in the midst of one of the largest bituminous coal regions of the State and possibly of the world. Within a radius of a few miles are numerous coal operations employing thousands of men mostly foreigners. In this territory there are also quite a number of licensed houses, thus adding to the moisture of the territory I am describing.

I hold no brief for the licensed saloons of my town and surrounding community, for if it were up to me they would shortly go out of business, for their bars as I see it do only harm to our people, nevertheless it is my judgment that these licensed houses in the aggregate do one tenth of the harm to the communiy especially the poor unfortunate as does the unresrained trade of our two breweries and one distillery.

Let me describe this trade in as brief manner as possible. I hold in my hand a letter which is given to each person soliciting business for one of the breweries of my town.

Dear Sir:—You are hereby notified that I have employed you as a solicitor for this company for the purpose of securing orders for its product, and enclose herewith some blank orders, which are to be used by you in each case, explaining fully to the customer, whose order is solicited. In approaching a customer for the purpose of securing his order, if he understands English read this order to him in that language, if not, have it explained through an interpreter, so that he fairly understands what he is signing. We wish you to understand that you have no power to agree to sell the product of this brewery at all, but only the power to secure orders for its product, for which you must get the money, when the order is received, and then transmit the order and the money at once to this brewery, after you have investigated as to the signers age and habits, and you have signed the certificate that is on the order, that he is of full age and of temperate habits, if this is the fact and unless this is the fact return the order to the signer.

And the letter goes on and deals with the arrangement for the shipment and things of that sort.

You will note that this liquor is to be sold only to those of legal age and temperate habits. Let us see how much beer it takes to supply these people of temperate habits. Within the past two weeks I asked a reliable citizen of our town to ascertain for me how many teams the two breweries of my town employed to deliver their product on the two days of special delivery, Wednesdays and Saturdays, to the surrounding mining towns. He reported that one brewery employed twenty-five teams, some of them four horse teams, and that the other brewery employed twenty teams.

Think of it, in the judgment of the breweries it requires forty-five teams, two days out of each week to deliver the booze necessary to satisfy the appetite of the miners of temperate habits of our community, and my community is a type of all the communities in the bituminous coal-region and perhaps in the anthracite region as well.

I am not sure that this unrestrained liquor trade is even as bad in the mining community surrounding my town as it is in some other portions of my county. Last Friday I was talking to the General Superintendent of one of the largest coal companies of our county and one of the very largest in the state and he gave me this remarkable instance, of a liquor delivery made to a customer working for his company, a man of course of temperate habits. He said that to this man's house was delivered at one time, fifteen half barrels of beer, fifteen gallons of whiskey and several cases of other dope, the name of which he did not know. Those of you who have a constructive imagination can picture the condition of that household together with the neighboring households after having consumed the contents of that shipment. The worse carousals in the worse licensed bar of our county would be a pink tea compared to that.

What are the visible results of this unrestrained trade outside of its evil effects to those who drink the product. I have in my hand the trial list of the Westmoreland counties criminal court for the term beginning February 3, 1913, for this term there are one hundred and four cases listed. I called up our district attorney and asked him what per cent. of these cases came from mining territories outside of municipal supervision, he stated that he thought 80 per cent. I asked him what per cent. of the crimes listed were due to drink. He stated that about 60 per cent. were directly due, and directly and indirectly about 80 per cent.

Those statements tell their own story, I need not take the time of you intelligent men to tell you why our county and state are so high in the language of the Big Book a wayfaring man though a fool can figure that out.

Last week I wrote twenty letters to as many coal superintendents of the First legislative district which I have in part the honor to represent.

I enclosed in each letter a copy of this bill, many of the twenty have answered and each answer contains a strong endorsement of this bill. They have the best reasons for being in its favor.

They tell me that when pay-day comes on Saturday, not fifty per cent. of their men are back at work on Monday and Tuesday of the next week. By Wednesday more are back and by Thursday most of the men are working again. They tell me that during the time the men are off on their bi-monthly vacations their out-put in coal and coke decreases in direct ratio to the absence of their men.

They tell men that ninety per cent. of the crime and devilment committed about the works is due to the unrestrained distribution of intoxicants such as I have endeavored to describe to you. Last but not least I want to call your attention to another feature of this trade.

There standing in that great painting in front of you is the heroic figure of Thadeus Stevens. He is represented as pleading in the General Assembly of this State, the causes of popular education, he is not pleading the cause of the rich. He is pleading the cause of the rich and poor alike. He is pleading for a school system that will give the poor man's child an equal opportunity with the rich man's child to acquire the rudiments of an education. In the face of tremendous odds and opposition Thaddeus Stevens won and gave to this State its system of free public schools. His pleading for equal advantages meant equal advantages for the little Italian in our little mining town, the little Bohemian and the little Pole just as much as it meant equal advantages for our little American.

We have greatly improved upon the system that Thaddeus Stevens gave us; we have done our part in placing the school room and the teacher almost at the door of every Pennsylvania miner.

We have given his child the same opportunity that has been given your child and mine.

Let us see what the brewery and the distillery do to counteract this opportunity. They load up their wagons with beer and bad whiskey and deliver it in large quantities to the homes of these foreigners.

The fathers drink it, the mothers drink it, and the children drink it. It hurts the parents but it hurts infinitely more, it dwarfs their bodies, their minds and creates such a state of physical and mental debility that they are considered in no condition at all to take advantage, in any large measure at all of the opportunities the schools afford, they are continually retarded.

There is not a man in this presence who does not know this is true.

Gentlemen of the House, if there is a man here who can look upon the historic figure with the conception in his mind of his duty to the children of this state that evidently was in the mind of Thaddeus Stevens when he was pleading for the youth of this Commonwealth and then vote to continue the evils which this bill proposes to correct, then his ideas of patriotism and duty to the homes and the children of this state are not mine. I plead of you to support this measure.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I rise at this time in opposition to this bill. Coming from a district as I do, where we have close on to twelve thousand assessed voters, and knowing that I voice their sentiments, I believe that a number of you will agree with me that this bill should not pass. I believe, in my district—and while I am not positive of the total number, but we have over three thousand homes, I think, the majority of which are working men, who toil every day for their living, there is not one of those homes who would call me non-patriotic for speaking against this bill. They believe in patriotism; they believe in freedom, and their freedom is the right to have one source in their homes for their particular pleasure; something in the line of liquor. I don't only speak for my particular district, but I speak for organized labor throughout the State of Pennsylvania. I believe that everyone of you will find in your mail box or on your desk here today some intimation that organized labor is represented here today. In this city in the Commonwealth Building, representing a hundred thousand toilers throughout this State, there is on record today as being opposed to the passage of this law that fact, not only because they believe the worker should be entitled to what he wants in his own home, but for other reasons. You will realize, as Mr. Ulerich has said, the number of team men who have to deliver this stuff to the people. What are we going to do with those poor teamsters? Every man of them, if this bill should become a law, would be thrown entirely out of that employment. I stand today fighting in this House and will fight at all times for labor throughout this State, and I am going to stand today in opposition to this bill because I know that labor wants to have freedom and their rights just the same as any other class of people.

Mr. ELLSWORTH G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Ellsworth G. M. Kuhns.

Mr. ELLSWORTH G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I wish to say a few words before the roll is called and you go on record on this bill. I have had a little experience in the retail liquor business. I don't know whether I carry the sign and I don't know whether you see it or not, but I was for fifteen years in that business. The brewers and distillers are using the retailer, and no man of fairness will question that, but I wish to call your attention to the first section, to show you whether or not Mr. Ulerich is gaining the point in saying here "that all brewers, distillers, rectifiers, bottlers or anyone engaged in the wholesale business, who is granted a license by the different courts in this Commonwealth" is restricted. Now, since our friend comes from a bituminous coal district, suppose this bill No. 6 happens to become a law. How is he going to restrict brewers on the other side of the State line? Are not those miners getting the same kind of booze, or even more? Can they not get greater loads on the steam cars than they could put on two-horse wagons? If we give him the point he is after, will not this be the fact, or are we simply restricting our own neighbors and giving liberties to those outside of the boundaries of the State of Pennsylvania? I wish, gentlemen, that you would examine this bill very closely before you vote on it. Consider it carefully and exercise your very best judgment before deciding.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Ulerich, permit himself to be interrogated by the gentleman from Allegheny?

Mr. ULERICH. I shall be very glad to permit myself to be interrogated, but I am not sure that I will be able to answer all of the questions a lawyer might present to me.

Mr. STEIN. I wish to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland to please tell the House whether it is not the law that solicitation or peddling is prohibited by the rules of Westmoreland County courts and in other districts.

Mr. ULERICH. I don't think so, or we certainly would have some cases of the kind referred to for doing all the things that have been stated.

Mr. STEIN. Does not the Quarter Session Court in your county by a fixed rule prohibit the solicitation of beer orders?

Mr. ULERICH. No, sir

Mr. STEIN. Please look at your rules and you will find that they do. I ask further whether or not your bill limits the solicitation to wholesalers, bottlers and brewers only?

Mr. ULERICH. I would say so, probably, in reading over the bill.

Mr. STEIN. The principal purpose of this bill, as it is drawn now, stands to prohibit these men from collecting in their empty receptacles.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, may I go into detail in that respect?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny has the floor.

Mr. STEIN. I will leave it to the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland Mr. Ulerich.

Mr. ULERICH. This bill was drawn up after consultation with a number of cial operators in the county of Westmoreland and other counties in Western Pennsylvania, together with some of the very best legal talent available, even so far as a judge upon the bench. Now, I am not a lawyer, and don't pretend to say whether this is in accordance with the Constitution of the United States. My friend from Delaware has all of the Constitution in this end of the House, but I presume that this bill covers the evils which will be eradicated by the passage of it.

Mr. STEIN. Have you finished?

Mr. ULERICH. I have.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I wish to be thoroughly fair and consistent with the gentleman from Westmoreland and with all my other colleagues in this House, and in doing so I think I am perfectly right in asking every gentleman to oppose this bill because, first, I am a lawyer as the gentleman has indicated, and I want to say to him and to all the members of this House, that every Court in this Commonwealth, by a standing rule, now prohibits absolutely the solicitation of any order from any consumer within the meaning of this act. I want to say to you gentlemen that that restriction is enforced with a great deal more severity in the hands of a local judge than you could ever expect to get in a bill such as this; the only additional feature provided in this bill is what? The bill says, line 13, that no wholesale dealer or brewer shall collect any empty vessels after the liquor has been consumed. Now, looking at that thing fairly and squarely and honorably, what have we? Any wholesaler, merchant, bottler, or brewer who sells his case of beer, we will say, for a dollar, delivers to you twenty-four pints contained in a woden case. The selling price is about a dollar, or a dollar and five or a dollar and ten. The actual cost of the twenty-four bottles is between seventy-five and a dollar. Now, gentlemen, ask yourselves in all fairness, if the dealer cannot re-collect all these bottles and why he cannot gather up these empty bottles, and why impose this confiscatory tax upon his business? My friend has made a very long speech, a very eloquent and pathetic plea in favor of the bill, in the interests of the child as against this business, and it affects his heart and brings tears to his eyes when he thinks of the great loads of beer that pass through his town. I can say that, while his arguments are often applicable, but his address is wrong, because he does not speak to restrain the sale of liquor, but he simply speaks to confiscate the vessels and cases in which the liquor is delivered, without any corresponding good to any person, and imposing such burden as is absolutely unfair and illegal. My friend says that liquor is the great evil of the Commonwealth. I say to the gentleman as I frequently say to many others, that you will find liquor something like politics, that it is hated most by those who know the least about it, and that there is no harm in moderate doses, neither is there going to be any harm in the moderate use of liquor. This week the coal operators consulted the best legal talent they could get, and they thought that they ought to have this law. I make the contention with my friend from Westmoreland, Mr. Ulerich, about the coal operators' position. I want the gentleman to give them his reasons. I say, as was said by the Saviour on the Mount, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone." But if you want equality in your community, why don't you give the poor coal miner a square deal.

The very coal operators who want to make the coal miner temperate, the very coal operator who wants to confisciate the bottle or receptacle which contains the liquor is the self same coal operator who operates a company store in violation of the law. It is the self same coal operator who practically cheats the coal miner out of half of his pay envelope and does it in open violation of the law. I say to my friend from Westmoreland County, if these men, if these coal operators are so anxious to spend their money to consult legal counsel in making laws, let them spend a little of it in finding out what the law is in their own district; and if your coal miner does not come back to you on Monday it is no wonder, because you pay him in tin money such as I have here and don't give him any chance, and he must take out his pay in merchandise, and when pay day comes, which is every once in four weeks, if he takes a day off he takes it off at his own cost; and every chance that the coal operator gets he is putting it on him and he is paying for his merchandise at a cost that makes a profit of one hundred and sixty per cent to the merchant or company store, and yet my friend from Westmoreland says that "the coal operators from my district demand that these men do not return these receptacles."

I want to ask you one question further. With the average eighth of beer, the barrel costs one dollar or seventy-five cents at least, and I am told it even costs one dollar and a quarter in some localities. The beer it contains sells at one dollar, twelve and one-half cents of which is government tax. What is wrong with the brewer in sending out for the barrel after the contents are consumed? Whom will it benefit, if you prevent the brewer or bottler from sending after his receptacle, and who will it help if the receptacle, instead of being reused for its commercial purpose, is allowed to go to waste. I want to say to my friend that this particular parcel of legislation has no merit or reason whatever back of it. It is simply foisted on the House because of the narrow desire on the part of well meaning people living in the district which my friend represents who are so narrow in their prejudices that they cannot see any other side to the question. I ask every member of the House to look at this bill in a fair and impartial manner and from that light let us conclude, as we certainly have the right to, that this bill will not accomplish any good, and that it will protect nobody but put expense upon the wholesaler and bottler. As my friend, Mr. Kuhn, has said, it will destroy our own industry and put the privilege into the hands of our neighbors across the line. If this is wise legislation the sooner we conclude our labors the better off the State will be. I therefore ask my friends in the House to vote against this bill by a sharp and decisive vote that we may have an end of this kind of legislation.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Alegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, with pleasure.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has the power of inflection better than I have, but I would like to ask him if he saw any tears down at this end of the House?

Mr. STEIN. What were you wiping your eyes and brow for, Mr. Ulerich? I thounght it was tears.

Mr. ULERICH. They were not tears I would have the gentleman understand. As far as I know myself I am not of the soft sister kind.

Mr. STEIN. Perhaps they were political tears. I could not see so well.

Mr. ULERICH. They may be the kind you have in Allegheny.

I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny this question. Do you know the judges of Westmoreland County?

Mr. STEIN. I do.

Mr. ULERICH. Have you got a high regard for their integrity and their ability as judges?

Mr. STEIN. I certainly do.

Mr. ULERICH. Why is it then that if what you say is true, that the present law provides for or is against the soliciting of liquor in the mining towns, why is it that a letter of this kind is allowed to be sent out to the solicitor, and why are the orders permitted, the blank orders that the solicitors take? I have it from a solicitor himself that he gets $250 a month for soliciting orders in the territory which I describe. Now then if the judges of Westmoreland County know their job, what sort of people do you think they are if they allow that sort of thing to go on?

Mr. STEIN. I would say that you will first have to show me that those letters were not gotten out by enemies of the brewers or interests concerned, and you will first have to show me that they are sincere.

Mr. ULERICH. They were gotten from the brewers themselves.

Mr. STEIN. I want to say to the gentleman that if he will submit those letters to the Courts I am satisfied that Judge McConnell and Judge Doty will promptly bring those men to time and a great deal stronger and more strictly than any law of this Commonwealth.

Mr. ULERICH. We have been up against that sort of thing in Westmoreland County for quite a while and we have not gotten any further ahead than now.

Mr. STEIN. And while you are making complaints to the courts please tell them of the coal operators here stealing one-half of the pay envelopes of the coal miners.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I want to remind the gentleman from Allegheny that he has presented the "pluck-me-store" resolution to this House for which I have voted and for which I will vote again, because he is absolutely right so far as company stores are concerned. If there is any man in this House who loves the miner or laboring man—because I have had to labor all my life—I am that man just as much as the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, this is more attention than I have had paid to me for a long time except by my wife, I certainly will permit the gentleman to interrogate me.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, the real question I think is, does this bill stop soliciting or does it allow the brewer or bottler from another State to come in and solicit orders if we prevent our local people from soliciting.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, the real object of this bill is to prevent the brewer from receiving an order away from his brewery, and taking the product that that order calls for to the man that orders it. That is the business in short.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, what I want to know is whether it prohibits a brewer from another State from coming in and soliciting?

Mr. ULERICH. I would state to the gentleman from Cameron that I am not a lawyer and cannot answer that question.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that a ray of light is necessary on this particular question. I might continue and say that having seen some light in the morning newspaper I will contribute it to the members of the House. There are some matters in the State that come under the Interstate laws of the United States. That is to say, that matter, which has been given up by the State to the national representatives. Now for years those people who believed that the localities themselves ought to have a right to regulate their own liquor conditions have besieged the national legislature, or a long time to get Congress to pass a bill to regulate interstate commerce, so that it would allow each district and each state to regulate the matter of liquor to suit their own people. I am happy to say that I saw in the morning paper that the United States Senate has finally passed such a bill which the House has passed and that it is now on its way for the President's signature, which will allow each State to regulate its liquor business; and if we pass this bill it will require little legislation, very little additional legislation to absolutely correct the only evil the gentleman has suggested, the bringing in of liquor from other States.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, by reason of some interest in the moral lecture given in relation to the liquor traffic I want to say just a few words relative to the merits of the bill, although I have no interest in the bill either as a producer, as a wholesaler, bottler, retailer, or even a consumer. Further than that, I may add that neither am I on the pay roll of any of the organizations aimed at in this bill. It has been suggested in relation to what seems to me to be a very vital part of the bill, that Congress has taken this matter in hand. That is very true so far as dry territory is concerned, as I understand the provisions of the bill which has recently passed Congress. In other words, a State like the State of Kansas liquor will be debarred entirely from that State and cannot be shipped into the State from outside sources. So far as the State of Pennsylvania is concerned, and in the great State of Westmoreland County which is not dry territory any outside institution would be allowed to ship its goods in there tomorrow after this bill is put into operation, just the same as in the past. As I read this bill the entire drive is made at local institutions, and I failed for the life of me when I read this bill to make up my mind whether it was a bill drawn in the interests of a cooperage establishment, or some bottling manufacturer, because these are the only two things that it seems to me that it does benefit.

Reading the bill:

"That it shall be unlawful for any brewer, distiller, rectifier, bottler, or compounder, jobber, dealer, or any other person, company or corporation, licensed by any of the several courts of quarter sessions of this Commonwealth" —nothing outside of this Commonweolth—"to sell vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors and admixtures thereof at wholesale to hereafter sell any such liquors to a consumer or consumers at any place other than at the place named in his or its application for license, or to employ any one to solicit anywhere in this Commonwealth from consumers orders for or to peddle among or deliver to them any such liquors, or to reserve and collect from them empty vessels after the liquor has been consumed therefrom at any place or places in this Commonwealth other than that named in his or its application."

Now, as I read the purpose of the bill into the bill it simply comes to this: It has been suggested by the gentleman from Allegheny that the law already provides and the rules of the courts provide throughout this Commonwealth that there shall be no peddling. This has been provided for for years. The only purpose then reached by this bill is this; other than is now protected by the law. That the brewer, bottler, distiller, wholesaler or jobber cannot go out and collect back again his empties. Now that means quite an item to the wholesaler, the jobber, the distiller or brewer, whoever it may be, serving these goods. And where does it come from? Can any one show me, not only in the liquor business, but in anything else, where a man gets two dollars worth for a dollar? If the consumer is going to consume—and he will so long as it is brewed or distilled he is going to consume either liquor or beer, he must when he orders a case of whiskey, pay for the case in which that whiskey is shipped and the bottles as well. If it be beer he must pay for the case and the bottles, or else from his home, which may be six or eight miles distant from the location at which he gets the goods, he must, at his own expense, or by his own endeavor, carry back and deliver to that place there the empty case or the empty crate, and get credit for the unconsumed part, or else he must pay for it. If he wants credit for his empties he must deliver back the empties. Now whose accommodation is that? Is that yours or mine, or my neighbors accommodation, who may order a case now and again? Certainly not. In the County of Westmoreland alone, where this gentleman tells us there are two breweries, one employing fifteen teams and another twenty-five, it would seem the disposition of those fifteen drivers in the case of one and twenty-five in the case of the other, besides the help that it takes to run the brewery and unload the empties. It would dispense with these people. It would dispense with the cost of maintaining the teams. It would dispense with the purchase of all the corn fed and feed it takes for these horses.

It would dispense with repairs it takes to keep the wagons in running order. It would dispense with all that, but you and I and every other consumer must shoulder that expense, and we shoulder that expense for the benefit of the brewery. There is nothing that I can see in this bill that is dangerous; nothing whatever. I mean the point which the bill attempts to reach. There is nothing that is dangerous in that. The gentleman says that he is not ashamed of his County, that he calls it his county. I say to you gentlemen, if the liquor traffic is handled in the County of Westmoreland in the reckless and haphazard and open way in which the gentleman suggests, it is certainly different in that County than it is in any other County of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and if it be handled in that way, and it takes the united efforts of not only the great interests of that territory, but the legal lights of the bar to determine upon this kind of a bill in order to defeat some purpose which they have in mind, they had better start a primary school in law in Westmoreland County to determine what the present statutes are in relation to the liquor traffic. This bill deserves to have recorded in its passage the vote of every member of this House.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I did not intend to say anything upon this proposed legislation, but there have been so many statements made here that needed contradiction or explanation that I cannot sit still and see this bill go to a vote without saying something. In the first place, in order that any honest legislator should know how to vote properly upon a bill, he should know what the old law is, what the mischief is, and what the proposed remedy is. Now, to go back to the old law, we have in this State two systems of dispensing liquor, the retailer and the wholesaler that is, to the general public. The retailer is supposed to sell only at his licensed hotel. I believe that the intention of the old law in relation to the wholesaler was that he should sell to the retailer. Thus we have the two laws relating to the liquor traffic. Now that is a short statement of the liquor law. What is the evil? Now, on the side of the wholesalers, we have them doing that which I believe the law did not intend them to do—namely, that he is going outside and making his business not a wholesale business but a retail business under a wholesale name. I can cite you one instance of a mining town in my own county of from 2,500 to 3,000 people, and practically every inhabitant of that village engaged in mining interests, and not one saloon and not a hotel in the town. There are only one or two stores, and one of them is the mining company's store to which my friend from Allegheny has taken exception. In that little town, there is a wholesale license place, and not another town within five miles of it. There is not a licensed hotel in that place. Who, then, supplies them? They simply deliver the liquor in wholesale bulk to the people of the mining town, which is the evil in one instance of this wholesaler's law. There is one statement that I wish to contradict and that is, when the gentleman stated that the rules of the Court of Quarter Sessions of this Commonwealth provide that these wholesalers shall not employ people as solicitors. That statement is not true. There is no law that authorizes any judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions to make such a rule. Some of them have made such a rule, and the only use it is in force and effect is that the licensed dealers fear the action of the judges when making application for license the next year. Some of the judges of the courts have put into effect rules governing the closing hour, making hotels close up at a certain hour. The hotels comply with this law in many instances because they fear the power of the Quarter Sessions judges and because they fear that they may have their licences refused the next year if they do not comply with it. So I take issue with the gentleman that we have laws or rules of the court that wholesalers must not employ solicitors. They can take their wagons out and go through the rural districts and mining towns and solicit orders. I have known of a case as Prosecuting Attorney of my county. This incident happened: that a peddler for a wholesale business would take out his orders or his consignments of liquor and load them on the wagon. He would only pretend to take orders. He didn't do it, but he would simply load up his wagon from the wholesale place in the morning and start out through the district, and if you or I, Tom, Dick and Harry wanted a case of beer he would simply write out a slip and we signed it there, and he delivered. That was a violation of the wholesale license law, and this man was arrested, indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced because it was a violation of the law. The only way the wholesaler has a right, under the present law, to sell is when the orders to his place first. What is the remedy going to be? It is simply going to make the wholesaler deal from his own place. It does not prevent him from selling to the retailers. It simply says that he is to make his sales at his own place of business, except to the retail licensed dealers. This violation of the law governing the liquor traffic is a great and serious evil. It has opened the eyes of the people to such an extent that even the Governor of our Commonwealth, in his message to this Assembly recommends a change in the act which I will read to you. You will find it on page fourteen of the Governor's Message, under the heading of Liquor Laws. He says this: "I recommend for your consideration the amendment of the liquor laws in several respects. Because of the widespread abuse of the privilege, and for the well-being of our villages, towns and cities, I believe that an act should be passed forbidding social and other clubs to dispense liquors to their members" Then further on in his message, he says: "And to correct another existing evil—to prevent what amounts, practically, to an indescriminate sale of liquors by the traveling agents of brewers, distilleries and other wholesale dealers directly to consumers, I recommend such further regulation and restriction in the sale of liquors by wholesale as shall forbid the solicitation for this by any traveling agent of such wholesale dealer, from any and all persons except duly licensed retailers." Now gentleman, do you suppose that His Excellency recommended that to this Assembly without consultation with the Attorney General, who is the legal adviser of this Commonwealth. And don't you suppose he knew what he was talking about when he says, virtually, that there is no such law today. It seems to me that such a message ought to have some weight with us coming as we do from the districts which we represent, and from the people whose sentiments we are supposed to vote here. I can cite another instance of another town in our county of about three thousand people, entirely a mining community and not a single retail place in it. The whole town is supplied from two wholesale places from another town over five miles away, and I am informed correctly, these wholesale stores, or wholesale dealers deliver into this mining town, I believe daily, or at least every other day, wagonload after wagonload of liquor. In this mining town, the mining company owns practically every foot of land. The miners are not even allowed a burying-ground. They have to bury in another place. The company does this in order to protect their own interests and will not allow a licensed place there. It seems to me that the arguments used by one of the gentlemen against this bill are made more in respect to his own bill, that is, the company store bill, than against this bill, but perhaps the other members of the House can see that for themselves. The next question raised was with regard to the empty kegs. If I want a keg of beer, under this law, I can go to the wholesale place and get it. I can take it and put it on a wagon, and take it home, or take it home with a trolley car, and this bill simply provides that I must return the keg there. In other words, anything I take away, I must bring back. Perhaps to some this might seem a little unreasonable. From all the information that I have received I regard the liquor traffic as an unmitigated evil, and the time is coming, sooner or later, when restraint will be placed upon it more closely than it is today. I trust this bill may pass.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROCKWELL. I will.

Mr. SPEISER. Isn't it a fact that this bill would then prohibit the delivery of liquor by any wholesaler to a private residence?

Mr. ROCKWELL. It would prohibit the wholesaler from delivering to any private residence, but not to a licensed retailer.

Mr. SPEISER. I am not here to plead for the liquor interests. I have some slight interest, but only as a consumer. I want to say to you, that I come from a district that has quite a number of retail licenses, and in the last eight years, we have cut down the number to about twenty-four. Of course, we are in a thickly populated section. Now, in my own race we have never had any prohibition laws, and my race has come down through all these ages and is both physically and mentally able to cope with the other races of the world. I most seriously protest against a bill of this character. I do not make this plea for the people dealing in liquor, nor do I do it in support of those interests, but I do have a regard for the opinion of those people who want a drink, and drink moderately, as we do more or less. Mr. Speaker, if this bill should pass, you practically put it out of the power of a man to get a case of beer sent to his home.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia yield to the gentleman from Tioga?

Mr. SPEISER. Not at this time, Mr. Speaker. I want to say for the gentleman who is the sponsor for this this bill that it is an ably drawn bill. I will say that I have liquor in my home, and I dare say that many of you here have it, and I get mine from a wholesale dealer. I get it sometimes from Fletcher, or Gimbel, as the case may be. If this bill were to become a law, I would have to hire a horse and wagon and go and get it, and then bring back the case, or I would not get a new order, I suppose. This question could very easily be decided. We have such a rule in our Quarter Sessions Court in Philadelphia. Whether or not our judges have a right to enforce this rule governing the sale of liquor, it is rigidly enforced. I can say to the members of this House, that I do not plead for the liquor interests, but for my own interests, that I may have the right to order directly from the wholesaler and have it delivered to the house, otherwise I might have to carry it under my coat to my house, or hire a horse and wagon. If there were an amendment offered to this bill I would be heartily in favor of it. But, in its present form, it is legislation that needs a careful examination. It means an annihilation of the wholesale business in the State of Pennsylvania. If it could be sent back to the committee, and amended in some particulars, and then brought to the consideration of the House, it might be in such form, that I could support it. I will now allow myself to be interrogated.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I desire to ask the gentleman if he construed this bill as such that it would prevent a man from taking a drink?

Mr. SPEISER. No, don't go to that extent. I feel that I am rather sane in the construction I have put upon it.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I would like to ask the gentleman what amendment he could suggest to this bill in order to make it such that he could support it.

Mr. SPEISER. If the gentleman will use his efforts to have it recommitted to the committee, I will appear before the committee. I cannot state the amendment in a minute.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I am from the little county of Indiana. A wholesale license is prohibited in that county by a special law. We have one brewery, and a limited number of licensed houses. Our county is developing in the coal interests very rapidly, I think the most rapid development of any place in Western Pennsylvania in the last three or four years. We have a changed population now. We have a very different condition from what it has been in the past, and in looking over this bill, I find that we have in our county today under the requirements of our court practically what this bill requires. It is practically the same thing, and is within the power of any judge of this Commonwealth to prescribe his rules. Whether or not they have the power to legislate rules, yet they can prescribe certain rules to control the sale of liquor, setting forth under what conditions it can be sold, and the wholesalers will not dare to violate it because the judge has the arbitrary power to refuse the licenses at the next license court if they have refused to obey them. Now, then, I will say this. It has been attempted by some of the coal operators in our county to prohibit the delivery of beer in their mining towns. They tried the experiment, one of the largest corporations we have in the county, and the result was we had shipped in this cheap adulterated, rot-gut, whiskey in barrels and bottles, and pay a farmer or some one to haul it to the houses, and we contribute a number of the crimes and murders in our county to where these barrels where delivered. Now, if this bill would bring about a better condition of affairs, better the condition of the laboring man in any way, I would gladly support it, but from our actual experience where I live, it would not do so. The result would be in our own State and in the surrounding cities, letters would be sent to everybody there that was not in favor of local option or opposed to it advertising the elegant brands of liquor at about $1.25 a galon that they could deliver to them, and who could interfere with them? Now I say that this shutting off the laboring man from his beverage—who understands the use of liquor better than most Americans—is going to give an opportunity to flood this district with bad liquor, and I will say from my experience in not allowing beer to be shipped in there, that after trying that experiment they changed their rule and allowed the beer to be delivered. Now the Court can regulate those things through the constables, and from the information he gets, he can regulate this question of the amount of liquor that is to be delivered. I will say very frankly that between the question of beer and the question of whiskey being delivered to the miners in our county, they would prefer the beer, and it would be a great deal better for them to ship out from their own wholesalers than to send it to the county from St. Louis and every other city in the United States of America. How would we interfere with it. They would enclose their check and send for it and have it delivered at the house. I voted for the Constitutional Amendment, and last Session voted for prohibition in this House, and will vote for it again, but I will not vote for this bill because our court has control of this situation, and we have a condition of affairs there a great deal better than we would have under this bill.

Mr. CHEESEMAN. Mr. Speaker.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

JOHN R. K. SCOTT, of Philadelphia 8th District, files as his reason for voting negative on House Bill No. 6, File Folio page 155, entitled "An act for the further regulation and restraining of the sale of spiritous, malt and brewed liquor, etc." as follows:

"This bill is meritorious in that it prevents the peddling of liquors from wagons by the various brewers, wholesalers, jobbers and other dealers without having received previous orders for sale of same. There is no doubt that in many of the districts where there are large industrial plants and consequently large numbers of working men that this peddling of liquor is abused and much crime and misery follows. The bill, however, is poorly drawn. It not only prevents the above abuse, but it also prevents the honest, delivery of liquor to the household of a consumer. The enactment of this law would prevent the delivery by one's grocer holding a wholesale liquor license of liquors or beers to the home of the citizens of this Commonwealth. It would prevent the honest working man from having a case of beer delivered by a bottler or wholesaler at his home. This is a discrimination that is not desirable, I further oppose the enactment of this law because the accredited representative of the labor associations upon the floor of the House stated that labor opposed this bill in its present form.

"While having voted against this bill I still reserve the right in the future to vote for legislation that will destroy the pernicious practice that has grown up in this Commonwealth of peddling liquor and beer without previous sale by a licensed liquor dealer, and to support legislation that will prevent the supplying of liquor to illegal resorts and places conducted in violation of the law."

SENATE MESSAGE.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING AFTER WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 11, 1913.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That when the Senate adjourns this week it shall reconvene on Monday evening, February 17th, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it shall reconvene on Monday evening, February 17th, at eight o'clock.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 138, entitled:

Joint Resolution making application to congress under the provisions of Article five of the Constitution of the United States for the calling of a convention to propose an amendment to the Constitution of the Unied States whereby polygamy and polygamous cohabitation shall be prohibited

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Joseph Gray.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BENSON. I will.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Where is the polygamy in the United States that is intended to be reached by the resolution before this House.

Mr. BENSON. In Utah.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I think probably the State of Utah knows whether they want polygamy or not. I don't think it is necessary for Pennsylvania, away over here at the other end of our country, to worry about the practice of polygamy in Utah. If this is to become national, I think that we have men in the United States Senate and in Congress at Washington that would take up this matter, if it became a great national evil. The reason I am not in favor of this resolution is because it is ridiculous and that is all there is to it. If the gentleman will insert or change the resolution to provide for the abolition of successive polygamy, which is the same as instantaneous polygamy, I think that this House would approve such a bill. The evil of successive polygamy is a great one, and it is a vile and a filthy and a disgracing practice that brings the courts into disrepute, and it parades itself in broad headlines in papers by serving the most purient desires of men. If that evil shall be abolished and steps were taken in that direction, this House would not make itself look ridiculous as they would by going on record in favor of this bill. If we are going to work on what takes place in Utah, we are hurting our consciousness and I think we are going to make ourselves the laughing-stock of the country and be hooted at by every one. I am against this because I don't want to be included in such a transaction.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 57, entitled:

An Act to amend the eighth section of an act entitled "An act providing for a uniform method of electing certain party officers and delegates to the State and National conventions and of making nominations for certain public offices providing for the payment of the expenses of the same making certain violations thereof misdemeanors and prescribing penalties for the violation of its provisions" approved the seventeenth day of February Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and six by fixing the compensation of election boards at primary elections

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?,

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the House ought not to pass this bill unless it thoroughly understands it, as it simply doubles the cost of primary elections. They are now paid under the old act, which states that the primary shall be conducted by the regular election officers, who shall receive one-half the compensation for their services which they receive at the regular election. The only change is, instead of one-half, the sum is doubled. That is all there is to it. It will almost double the expense.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Neill.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I think this bill ought to pass, and when I say so, I say it because I have acted in the City of Philadelphia in the Twelfth division of the fifteenth Ward as election judge, and the work on the primary election is double, it is treble over what it is on the general election. I have sat at that booth from a quarter to seven in the morning getting ready to open the polls at seven o'clock, and I have left that place at half past one. By the time I deposited the material and the ballot box in the City Hall, and the next day go down and deposit the other material with the Prothonotary; I have practically worked four days for one day's pay. I think this bill ought to pass. It is not fair to the election officer to take him in a city of the first class and ask him to do this work for a measly four dollars and fifty cents a day which is four days' work.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 39, as follows:

An Act regulating the use of bottles and other utensils for milk and cream and providing a penalty for violation of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move if necessary, that the House go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of introducing an amendment to this bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman must secure unanimous consent.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I want to strike out the word "immediately" in section 1, line 7. If this can be accomplished without going into Committee of the Whole, I will offer the amendment. It will not affect the principal object of the bill. It is striking out but one word.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware asks unanimous consent for the consideration of an amendment which will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 1 by striking out the word "immediately" in line 7.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to this amendment?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I object.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to explain to the gentleman from Philadelphia the object of this amendment.

The SPEAKER. There is nothing before the House, unless the gentleman makes a motion to go into Committee of the Whole.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, then I move that the House go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of presenting an amendment to House Bill No. 39.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

A division was taken, 72 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 49 in the negative.

The CHAIRMAN. The House having gone into Committee of the Whole, the Clerk will read the amendment.

The amendment was again read by the Clerk, as follows:

Amend Section 1 by striking out the word "immediately" in line 7.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I hadn't any idea that the striking out of one word would meet with any opposition. The gentlemen who voted against that motion evidently don't know anything about the conducting of a milk business. As the bill stands, the bottle would have to stand in hot water immediately after the milk was taken out at a temperature of 160. On the other hand, the health authorities insist on all milk never being below 60 degrees. As a matter of fact, the man in the milk busness brings in his empty bottles and he immediately washes them and places them on points or pegs where all the water can drain out; then in the evening when his milk is ready to be bottled, he has the bottles into which to put his milk. Without the word "immediately" you would have to take it out of boiling water and put in enough cold water to accomplish that. It is to make convenient in practice this business for which I have moved the striking out of this one word.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I don't pretend to be a practical milk dealer, but I do know what the act is intended to accomplish. It is to obviate what causes milk to sour and materially what brings death and sickness to people who drink it, from bacteria and germs. What the act is intended to effect is that the bottle shall be sterilized before being used. The question is how long before being used? The answer is, long enough to prevent bacteria from getting in.

The word "immediately" must be construed rationally and reasonably in your interpretation. If you chose to push your log far enough it might be half a second of one millionth of a second. Of course, it does'nt mean that. It don't mean within one millionth of a second, but it means long enough to permit the steam to escape. It should be interpreted rationally and means what it says.

Mr. ALLEN. I quite agree with the gentleman from Delaware that perhaps some of us who voted against going into Committee of the Whole do not understand the milk business, but as a member of this House I do understand that if the word "immediately" be stricken from this bill the real milk of the bill will be milked from the bill. The word "immediately," as I understand it in the connection in which it is used here, and the very purpose of the bill, as has been explained by the gentleman from Philadelphia, is to provide that the cleaning process of the bottles, and the sterilizing with the hot water treatment shall be at such close period of time to the time that the bottle is used that there will be no accummulation of the very thing that process is supposed to kill, and that the bacteria. I think there is no question but that the rational construction and the very intention of the word in the bill would be properly construed by the authority passing upon the bill. If you take the word "immediately" out of the bill bottles could be washed and washed in boiling hot water as is provided and set upon pegs, or set anywhere else where they could drain and stay there for an indefinite period of time before being used, and still the law would be complied with, but the purpose of the law would be far from carried out. The amendment ought not to be injected and ought to fail.

MR. JAMES J. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, then it should read that the bottles should be then again rewashed in cold water, or else bacterial will multiply faster in the warm bottle than it will in the dirty bottle.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, when the word "immediately" is taken out, the bill requires that after a bottle has once been used for any purpose whatever it must be thoroughly washed in boiling water. Now any person that has any practical experience, or has observed how the bottling of milk is done, and how the business is done, knows very well that when the empties come in, rather than leave them, lay around dirty and washing them a few minutes before you want to use them and allow bacteria to accummulate in the bottle, in the operation you have endangered your condition instead of remedying it by washing them immediately. I know that in practice nobody will wash their bottles twice, no matter what legislation this House passes, and in washing them immediately before they are used and letting them drain they will carry bacteria and bacteria gets in the room where the milk is bottled and you will have a worse condition than if you wash them and put them on a peg. In washing the water naturally becomes dirty and the bacteria will stay there. That is what practice will show. I have observed it for the last fifty years. Yes it it over fifty years, and I know this bill with the word "immediately" in there endangers conditions, and I know it from practically experience, and nobody knows it better than the gentleman from Philadelphia, for he is talking about something he knows something about.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do not think that it is generally known that in the larger dairies of the cities of the first class, and I guess in a great many of the cities of the second class, there is machinery devised and invented in which they soak all bottles and wash them thoroughly, and it is done in water so hot that you could not put your hand in. They take them out and drain them and in the big dairies they have a machine that fills and caps the bottles, and you defeat the whole thing if you pass the bill without that amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the members agree to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Delaware.

The Chairman declared the Nays seem to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 84 voting in the affirmative and 60 in the negative.

And the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendment agreed to.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee now rises and reports back to the House.

Mr. ALLEN. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER (Mr. Alter in the Chair).

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, as Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House I desire to report back to the House Bill No. 39, with amendment and ask that they be inserted.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the report of the Committee of the Whole.

It was agreed to.

An Act to repeal section ten of an act passed the fifth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, entitled "An act to vacate Long Lane in the county of Philadelphia in relation to promissory notes and counterfeit endorsements and for other purposes"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the sponsor of the bill to kindly explain the effect of this appeal.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, for the information of the gentleman and especially those members from Philadelphia County, I wish to state that this act repeals Section 10 of the act of 1840. It does not have any reference whatever to Long Lane, Philadelphia. The Act of 1849, as the gentlemen know, was passed before the Constitution of 1873 was adopted, and in those days it permitted omnibus legislation. For instance, they legislated for Long Lane, promissory notes, cemeteries and a few other kindred things. All sections of the act have been repealed excepting Section 10 which applies to promissory notes. When the Act of 1901, the negotiable instrument act, was passed the framers of that bill evidently forgot to repeal by express provision Section 10 of this bill, and the Supreme Court has lately held that because all other sections of the act were repealed by express provision it is a question whether this is repealed by implication, and it is for the purpose of clearing up that doubt in reference to primossory notes, and to make the negotiable instrument act fully operative that this act is proposed. I want to assure the gentleman from Philadelphia that Long Lane in Philadelphia will be just as it is today, a pleasant by-way to travel along.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. John Eliot Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, we are indebted to Thee for the great and good men of history; men whose names have enriched our annals and whose lives have been so fruitful of blessing and good.

Thou hast always been tenderly regardful of the needs of Thy people, and when great crisis have come, then Thou hast raised up leaders to meet these crisis. We thank Thee for the man of whom we are thinking today, so reverent and so sincere and honest; so brave and true. We thank Thee for the qualities with which Thou didst endow him; for his gentleness and sympathy and tenderness; a man of the people whose heart was ever going out toward the suffering ones. We rejoice in his charity and brotherly kindness, having malice towards none and sympathy for all. We thank Thee that so large a proportion of our American citizenship owe their liberty and their manhood and their splendid opportunities of living and of work to him. We pray that our whole nation, North and South, East and West, may be drawn closer together, because this man lived and died for the welfare of the people.

We ask it in Jesus' name, Amen.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the consideration of concurrent resolution No. 18 at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny asks unanimous consent for the consideration of Concurrent Resolution No. 18, out of order. The Chair hears no objection and the resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

PROVIDING FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE THE CHARGES AGAINST THE WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA TRAINING SCHOOL, LOCATED AT MORGANZA, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

Whereas, Recently in the public prints grave charges have appeared alleging wanton abuse of the inmates of the Western Pennsylvania Training School, located at Morganza, Washington Count, Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, The charges, if true, are of such nature as demand a speedy reform in the method of administering such institution and

Whereas, It would be unwise to ignore the charges, inasmuch as they are alleged in great volume and in detail; therefore

Be it Resolved (if the Senate concur) That a commission be appointed to investigate all charges that have recently been made in public prints and elsewhere against the management of the Western Pennsylvania Training School, located at Morganza, Washing County, Pennsylvania. This commission shall consist of three members of the Senate, to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore thereof, and of three members of the House of Representatives, to be appointd by the Speaker thereof. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed expenses actually and necessarily incurred by them or any of them in the performance of the duties imposed hereby upon them. Said commission is authorized to make a thorough examination of the methods of administration and treatment of the inmates used in said instutition, and are authorized to examine such witnesses as may be produced before them ,and to subpoena such other witnesses whose testimony they desire. They shall also have the authority to require the production of such books, papers and other matters as in their judgment will conduce to a thorough investigation of the matter in hand. This commission shall organize immediately after their appointment by the election of a chairman, and shall promptly proceed upon the performance of the duties herein imposed. They shall report in writing to the General Assembly on or before the first day of April of this year, making in such report such recommendations as in their judgment are necessary. The expenses made necessary by this commission shall be appropriated in the general appropriation bill.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of this House, I want to say in introducing this measure that there is no malice or not political animosity. It was done purely from the prints that appeared in my district in a paper called "Justice" I do not even know the Board of Managers, but I had a case in my business as funeral director that came to my attention five months ago and when a certain article appeared in the paper it brought to my mind that there might be something in these charges. The paper goes on to say, if you will allow the reading of it:

"Grandpa" Judge Shafer Shields Brutish Friends at Morganza.
Whines That He has no Jurisdiction Over Slave Pen
Where Children are Brutally Beaten with Clubs and Rubber Hose—Poor Girl will Commit Suicide.
The Legislature Likely to Investigate Morganza.

The hearing of the petition of Mrs. Rose Boris for a writ of habeas corpus for their daughter who has been confined in the Reform School of Morganza since last July came up before Judge Shafer Wednesday, January 29th. The petition is denied on the grounds that the court had no jurisdiction and all that it could investigate was the legality of her confinement and that it had no right to hear evidence as to her treatment after entrance into the institution.

W. F. Penn, superintendent, was represented by attorneys Miller and Robb of the Berger building. Mr. Robb being a director of the Reform School.

In spite of his defeat Attorney McDowell proposed to petition the legislature for the investigation of Morganza on the ground that the inmates are treated most cruelly and often barbarously. He appeared in court armed with many affidavits and fourteen witnesses ready to testify to having received cruel treatment in the institution. One woman who was summoned as a witness at the hearing stated that she overheard little Barbara Boris declare on leaving the court room that if she had to go back into the institution at Morganza she would commit suicide at the first opportunity. The testimony that Mr. McDowell had at his command is of the most sensational character.

Mrs. M. Peasner of Economy having offered herself as a witness for the plaintiff stated to the Representative of "Justice" that he daughter Mary on the 4th of last October had been sent to Moranza after a hearing in the county courts at the institution of Officer Cora Blakeledge of Beaver county, who came into her home then in Leetsdale across the county line and brought her child into the Allegheny county courts. Such is the administration of justice, and the respect which the capitalist courts have for the law. This woman stated that she has been to Morganza to visit her daughter and that in her opinion it is not fit for a dog to live in.

Mrs. William Smith also of Leetsdale has a blind son imprisoned at Morganza sent there about September or October last, and she says that her son has been beaten with a hickory board 29 inches long, four inches wide, filled with holes about one half inch in diameter which coming in contact with the flesh makes it like a piece of raw meat. Mr. McDowell had witnesses who could testify to the fact that boys have received as many as 75 strokes with the hickory board described above and that one boy, as a result of such treatment had to stay in the hospital for seven days and that eleven others had received from 40 to 75 strokes and that their flesh was terribly lacerated by the punishment.

One witness a woman, claims that her boy was confined in Morganza and that in an attempt to escape about five years ago a shooting affray followed on the part of the guards and that her boy has never been heard of since.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 28, 1913.

Dear Sir:

I read in the paper of the mean treatment the inmates of Morganza receive. I am an inmate. The statements in paper are true. I myself have been beaten and choked until I could hardly walk, I served a term of three years and four months. I gained my merits the 21st of last June. I was of age in November. I was a strong and healthy girl when I went to the school and was sick for two years in Morganza. I suffered but was made to work and the officers would tell me there was nothing wrong with me. My sister sent me medicine time after time only to have it thrown in the waste basket when it reached the school. I have seen girls locked in cold stone cells for two and three weeks at a time during which time their clothes were taken from them and they got nothing but bread and water to eat. No wonder the boys and girls run away for they are driven to it. When I complained so much of being sick they said I wanted to be released. Girls are made to do work in the laundry of Morganza that a man should do, such things as running large washers and wringers. If the laundry girls scorch anything while ironing they are beat over the back with a gum hose until some of them would fall under the officers' feet in faint.

Hoping my letter will reach you before the trial.

Respectivefully, Bessie Donaldson, 173 Cotton Alley, City.

Read This affidavit and remain passive if you can:

Marine Barracks, Navy Yards, N. Y. Jan. 28th, 1913.

To whom it May Concern:

I hereby swear that the conditions existing in the Pennsylvania Reform School in Morganza is as stated below:

The boys and girls of that school have been brutally ill-treated by strapping while bent over tables until they have been unable to walk. On the least pretext they have been knocked down and when they tried to expostulate they have been trounced severely.

I, Martin A. McGrory, have been paddled so that I have hardly able to walk, and I have seen other boys beaten the same way, and in a great many cases, worse.

I swear that there has existed a worse condition in that school than has existed in many of our pentitentiaries. Mr. Penn has shown a knowledge of brutality that has not been seen there for some time, paddling the boys on the least pretext, and the paddling has been as follows: A man (full grown) would take a paddle about two feet in length and proceed with all his might to beat you till about thirty or forty strokes had been given, which left you in a weak condition, and I have found that is has injured many a boy in after life.

To this I hereby swear.

Martin A. McCrory.

Here is a letter that speaks for itself:

Navy Yards, New York, Jan. 28th.

William McDowell, Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

My dear Sir:

Enclosed please find a sworn statement, which I hope will be able to get him. If you can get a new trial for her, get it, and I will help pay, for I have been ill-treated and I want to do something for my comrades who have been there. I am not so sure of this letter reaching you before the trial, but I pray that it does, and if you do not win, get a new trial, and I will help pay you, for I have been trying to get somebody interested in that place for years. If you can get a new trial on the event of that affidavit, let me know, and I will try to come. Your letter reached me too late for me to get leave to come to Pittsburgh for the 29th, but if you have to get a new trial please let me know.

With many wishes for success and retribution, I am,

Sincerely yours, Martin McCrory,

Private U. S. Marine Corps.

Now gentlemen of the House, the one thing that brought this to my mind and that caused me to take the means of drawing and presenting this to the House was that three or four years ago a man named Andrew McCoy had a boy placed in Morganza, and the boy was in such dreadful physical condition when he came out that we tried to get him in Mont Alto but they would not take him on account of his record in Moragnza, and we put him in Marshallsea. I was the means of putting him in Marshallsea, where he died. His father said to me: "My boy was not a bad boy but I had seven or eight children and my wife being dead and him staying out late at night I thought possibly they would take care of him, but should I have thought that they would murder my boy, I would not have sent him to it." I buried that boy and that is the one thing that I am quoting that I know to be a fact that that boy was ill treated.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT in the Chair.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I regret very much that I am compelled to take issue with my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, but I must ask you gentlemen in all fairness to yourselves and the institution under charge to vote down this resolution for a commission. Now gentlemen you will observe the resolution calls for a commission to investigate one of the public penal institutions in our State. Now I want to say to you gentlemen that I am not a graduate of that institution, nor am I in any manner connected with it except that some of my unfortunate clients may have the misery of residing there for a temporary period, but I can say that I have been there very many times, and I can say it is as well conducted an institution as any of you will find anywhere. Of course, no person who is confined therein feels that he is justly imprisoned. You gentlemen never saw a man in jail but what thought that the judge was crooked, and the jury was bribed and everybody was against him, and it as the poet said, that "when you feel the halter drawn you get none of the law."

Now, the case that my friend cities was tried openly and fairly in the courts of Allegheny County, and the very able counsel who has himself written up in this paper called "Justice" had all the opportunity of presenting his facts, and because he made a mistake in the law is no reason why this House should give him aid that is entirely uncalled for. If the gentleman has any complaints, if he thinks any murders are being committed, why does he not bring the case to the attention of the Board of Prison Inspectors. The management of that institution is under a board of nine or twelve gentlemen, appointed by the Governor and I think this House. They serve without pay and are gentlemen of standing and reputation in our community, and if any such conduct is going on, I am sure it will be remedied at once if reported to the Board. Of course, nothing of the sort exists and all we have is the mere, unsupported, uncorroborated complaint of some fellow that feels that his client was not treated right. This business of commissions can be worked too far. It can become a nuisance, as well as an act of justice, and it seems to me that this Legislature ought not to interfere, by Commission or otherwise on unfounded complaints of any man who wants to take a rap at any institution. I ask you, with all due respect to my colleague from Allegheny, to vote this resolution down, because the complaint if well founded, will get fair and honorable treatment from the Board of Managers, and there is no need for this House to interfere.

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, being a Methodist, I wish to say amen to what the Representative from Allegheny has just remarked, and the statements that he has just made. It has been my privilege for several years to be a frequent visitor at Morganza. I have come in personal contact not only with the inmates there, but with the Superintendent, the teachers and the directors. I have had some knowledge, and have made some observations of institutions of this kind, and I wish to say to this House that never in my experience in this State or any other State, have I seen institutions conducted on so high a scale morally as this institution, and it seems to me that if we this moment were to proceed to appoint a commission for investigation simply upon the newspaper reports, supply because one or two men have felt that injustice may have been done to an inmate we would be doing wrong. It is a well settled fact that inmates of such institutions, if they are there have been incorrigible, and it is a well settled fact that in such institutions they may often become incorrigible, and because they are compelled to submit to discipline is no evidence that he who compels them to submit should be required to ask the "whys and wherefores" for doing this. For this House to appoint a commission to be at the expense of doing such a thing seems to be child-like and I hope that this House will put itself upon record as against this resolution as some others that are here which I believe should not be adopted.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that inasmuch as the Members of the House know practically nothing about this matter, and have no way of telling now whether or not there is any truth in the charges, I should like to have an opportunity of knowing more about it, and I, therefore, move that the Resolution be referred to the Judiciary General Committee.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

It was not agreed to.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and considerating of House Bill No. 175, as folows:

An Act providing payment for overtime worked by employees in mercantile establishments, and making it unlawful to compel such employees to do extra service by threat of discharge; fixing penalty for violation thereof and designating an official prosecutor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That on and after the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and fourteen it shall be unlawful for any corporation, firm, superintendent or other person owning or conducting any mercantile establishment or business within this Commonwealth to employ or compel by threats of discharge an employee to work overtime or do extra service beyond the hours of the regular work day of such employee without having arranged with such employee for payment to him or her of such sum as may be agreed upon in compensation for such overtime or extra service which compensation shall not be less than the proportional amount of the wages than being paid to the employee for a corresponding fractional service of time

The term "over time" shall mean all extra service rendered outside the period of hours constituting the average day of labor of the employee, such average to be determined by a calculation based upon the number of hours in a fully worked week of six days.

For violation of this act the penalty shall be a fine not to exceed ten dollars to which costs may be added.

It shall be the duty of the district attorney of the county to prosecute all violators of this act when complaints have been made to him and such prosecution shall be without cost to the complainant.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. I am willing to answer any questions that may be asked.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask whether this bill has reference to everybody employed in mercantile stores.

Mr. PIPER. Yes.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. What would you construe as the average day, the number of hours?

Mr. PIPER. The average day in all stores under the present law is set by the employer. The employers make the average day and that is the reason that this bill has arisen.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to call the gentleman's attention to the fact that this bill sets forth that there are fifty-six hours in any one week and the average day would mean the one-sixth of fifty-six. I may be wrong in that, but that is what I gathered from the bill.

Mr. PIPER. I don't believe there is a fifty-six hour clause in this bill. Will the gentleman kindly inform me in what line it is.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I confess I am mistaken. I had in mind another bill.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. I will.

Mr. WALNUT. I would like to inquire as to the meaning of the term that appears on line seventeen, "average day of labor."

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, there is hardly any one employed in any factory or in any store who does not already under the present law have an average day of labor. That average day of labor, or the number of hours, is set by an agreement between the employer and the employee.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman? If the number of hours per week that a working man is supposed to work is put at fifty-five and he works ten hours for the first five days and five hours on Saturday, would not the average be the one-sixth of fifty-five? would not the man who worked for ten hours for the first five days be entitled to overtime on the first five days?

Mr. PIPER. In answer to the gentleman, I would say, that we have no employer in the State to my knowledge who refuses to pay the overtime to the employe when he works overtime, but we have some employers who threaten the employe that if he does not work that overtime he will be discharged, and that is the reason why this bill has been introduced here.

Mr. WALNUT. It was not my thought to raise any objection to the payment of overtime. My interrogation was as to the meaning of the word, "overtime." If a man works ten hours a day the first five days of the week under his general contract, he should not be entitled to be paid for overtime, and I do not believe that the sponsor of this bill intended that he should be. But under the terms of this bill he would be entitled to receive pay for overtime, although he only worked the number of hours per week that he intended to work when he undertook that employment.

Mr. PIPER. Being an employe for a number of years and working in the factory, my wide experience has proven to me that when a certain number of hours per week is set according to law and the employer enforces that law, he wants you to work all those hours when he has need for you. The employer can, if he desires, lay us off for a day or two. We have not the right to ask for pay for the days we are laid off. The employer has no more right, I believe, to ask us to make up a certain number of hours in the week, after he has laid us off for one day, to make up the full working week. I present this bill here today and ask for its passage because labor is asking me to vote for it. They want this bill to pass. They are not trying in any manner, shape of form to antagonize any employer. They merely want the right that all citizens should have. If an employer should ask a man to work overtime, and he is desirous of paying him for that overtime, there is no man who would refuse to work if he is going to be paid for that overtime. But we do want to stop the employers of the State of Pennsylvania from coming along and saying to me, and saying to you, "if you do not work this overtime, we will discharge you," thereby threatening you with discharge if you have no desire to work over the number of hours that is specified in this particular plant. I am going to ask the gentlemen of this House today to vote for the bill. I will say to them that they will be making no mistake and they will have the sympathy and receive the credit from the laboring element of the State of Pennsylvania who are in favor of this bill.

Mr. WALNUT. I think the sponsor or this bill mistakes the point I have raised, or, at least, has overlooked it. I am raising no question as to the provisions of the bill, but merely as to the clarity of the expression used in the bill. He has not yet explained it to me, and I would like to further interrogate him.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. I will.

Mr. WALNUT. Will the gentleman kindly advise me as to the ordinary hours at present required in a working establishment, and how they are arranged.

Mr. PIPER. The employer at all times regulates the day's work He is the man who determines the number of hours that will constitute a day's work.

Mr. WALNUT. Is fifty-five hours considered a week's work?

Mr. PIPER. That is the law of the State of Pennsylvania for women and children.

Mr. WALNUT. If an employer provided for the employment of his men for ten hours a day on the first five days of the week, and eight hours—or rather five hours—on Saturday, making a total of fifty-five hours a week, would your bill enable a man to work for ten hours on Monday and receive payment for overtime for that work? The average day's work under this bill would be nine and one-sixth hours, and what I want to know is would he receive extra pay for working overtime if he should work the ten hours a day.

Mr. PIPER. I believe if you will look over the present law on the statute books of the State of Pennsylvania that you will find that it sets forth the average working day to be of ten hours and no more. But in most places the employer is the person who fixes the length of employment in one day.

Mr. WALNUT. Then it is your opinion that thte average day is fixed by the employer now rather than by law?

Mr. PIPER. Yes, sir.

Mr. WALNUT. I would, therefore, suggest that the consideration of the bill be continued for the present, as in my opinion the terms used in the bill do not clearly express the intent of the sponsor of the bill, and I, therefore, move Mr. Speaker, that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McAleer.

Mr. McALEER. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, on the points of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. Yes, sir.

Mr. McALEER. I would like to ask Mr. Piper if you propose to have the provisions of this bill apply to offices and mercantile establishments such as jobbing houses and stores.

Mr. PIPER. It says mercantile estalishments and nothing else.

Mr. McALEER. That includes jobbing houses?

Mr. PIPER. Yes, sir, mercantile establishments, and in those jobbing houses are included; that is what a jobbing house belongs to.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, take in my own place of business, for example, in my own business and in most business of a similar kind—a jobbing business—the office employes and all people of that character are paid a weekly salary which never changes whether they are there or not. If they are off on account of sickness or for any other good reason, their salary goes on just the same, and in the dull season each one of these employes are given a vacation, and they are paid for all holidays during the year. If other establishments are run as my own is run and most are run that way, and all comply with the provisions of this bill, my employes will suffer annually a monetary loss, because there may be an occasion in the overtime season, in the very busy season, when there is a night or two overtime which is required for them. We feel that if employes are paid when they are off on occasions to which I have referred that they are compensated for the few hours of overtime that it will be necessary to put in from time to time. If I pay them for their overtime and if I deduct from their salaries the time they lose for vacations, holidays, sickness, et cetera, the employes will lose, in that way—if I should comply with the law.

Mr. PIPER. In answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I believe that he has a wrong conception of the bill. The bill does not stop you from having your men work overtime, nor does it say you are compelled to pay for their overtime. If the men desire to work overtime, that is at their discretion, if they desire to do it. The bill is drawn up specifically for the purpose of preventing employers' threatening that if they don't work overtime they will be discharged. It is a question of protecting an employe from being compelled to work overtime without compensation or at the risk of being discharged.

Mr. JAMES J. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. James J. Campbell.

Mr. JAMES J. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I feel that if we had more men employing the rank and file of labor like my friend Mr. McAleer, it would not be necessary to have bills of this kind introduced in this House. There are many places in the City of Philadelphia who work men until eight or nine o'clock four nights in the week, and they give them two weeks vacation in the summertime to recompense them for those long hours that they worked at night. We have had some of the people, such as drivers who would work twelve hours a day and seventeen hours a day. This bill is to prevent such employment as that.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Huntingdon, Mr. Horace B. Dunn.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that this hatchery is located in my County, a number of persons have asked me in regard to the matter. I want to say to the House that I interviewed the Commissioner of Fisheries about this bill and he informs me that the intention of the Fishery Commission is to do away with all these hatcheries in the State an put them all under one large and standard hatchery. The land on which this hatchery is locate is to be sold. I believe this bill is to be folowed by other bills to do away with the other hatcheries later on.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 85, entitled:

An Act to appeal the second section of an act approved the first day of April one thousand seven hundred ninety-seven entitled "An act to regulate the manner of selling loaf bread and to repeal certain existing laws respecting the same"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third readin?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the House for the moment to tell them the purpose of this bill. It is a bill, as the title indicates, to repeal. The only law that stands upon the statute books of Pennsylvania to-day in relation to bread is this act of April 1, 1797, and it is a dead-letter and nas been for years and years, and yet under the provisions of this act some evil-minded person could cause all kinds of trouble in any community or over the whole of the State. The act as it stands upon the books here reads as follows:

"All loaf bread made for sale within this Commonwealth, shall be sold by the pound avoirdupois; and every baker or other person offering the same for sale shall keep at his or her house, or at such other place at which he or she shall at any time offer or expose for sale any bread, sufficient scales and weights, lawfully regulated, for the purpose of weighting the same; and if any baker or other person shall sell or offer for sale any loaf bread, in any other manner, the contract respecting the same shall be void: (h) and the person offending against this act shall, on conviction, forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for every such offense, one-half to the use of the informer, and the other half to the use of this Commonwealth; and it shall be the especial duty of the clerk of the market, in any place where such officer is appointed, to discover and prosecute all persons offending against this act."

We all know how the bread busines is conducted to-day and yet with this law standing upon the books as it does there is no reason why any one, as I indicated, could not cause all kinds of trouble in his community and embarrass, and harass and annoy and impose upon any little corner grocer or any little baker in the bread business; and that is the reason that this law should be passed and the statute wiped from the statute books.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 82, on page 5 of to-day's calendar, Bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House bill No. 82, as follows:

An Act authorizing and regulating the employment on public highways of male prisoners in county jails and prisons and fixing penalties for violation of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That every male person who has served an imprisonment of thirty days and still has a balance of his sentence to serve in the jail or prison of any county may be employed by the county commissioners of such county but not for more than eight hours in any one day and not more than six days in any one week in the construction improving repairing or maintenance of any public highway in such county

Section 2 The employment of such prisoners on the highways shall be under such regulations as the county commissioners may prescribe but the services of any such prisoner may not be let out or leased or sold to any person firm or corporation Such number of guards may be employed as the commissioners may deem necessary at a compensation not to exceed two dollars and fifty cents per day each

Section 3 If such employment shall render it impracticable to feed such prisoners in the jail or prison it shall be the duty of the person or persons directed by law to feed prisoners in the prison or jail to provide such prisoners while at work with such meals as may be necessary An extra compensation therefor may be paid by the county commissioners not to exceed ten cents per day for each prisoner so employed

Section 4 If any person guarding any prisoner so employed shall perform his duties so negligently as to permit any prisoner to escape or shall willfully permit or aid any prisoner to escape he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the jail of the proper county for a period not exceeding one year If any person not being on guard shall aid any prisoner so employed to escape he or she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished as provided in this section

Section 5 If any prisoner so employed shall escape or attempt to escape he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the proper county jail for a period of one year Such prisoner so convicted shall not be released on probation or parole such sentence shall take effect upon the expiration of the term of the original sentence

Section 6 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BIGGER. Mr. Speaker, I believe every provision of the proposed bill is provided for in the act of 1907, approved the 25th of May, the title of which is

"Authorizing the employment of male prisoners of the jails, and workhouses of this Commonwealth upon the public highways of the several counties ,and regulating the same; and providing for the establishment of Prison Boards, the purchase of material and tools, and employment of deputies, at the expense of the proper county, and a penalty for the escape of prisoners while employed outside of said jails, workhouses."

We have the same bill we have here. It provides for an eight hour day on public work and gives the prison boards of the several counties the authority to make provisions for the employment of convicts on private work as well as on public work on county roads. To show you how well it works in Allegheny County I quote from the opinion of Justice Carnahan in the case of Iron City Trades Council against A. H. Leslie, Superintendent of the Alegheny County Workhouse, decided in 1909

"To what extent the institution has been self sustaining does not appear, but the evidence shows that for at least seven years past the labor of convicted inmates has been employed beyond the grounds of the institute by contract between the officers and persons not in any way connected with the workhouse. This labor has been a source of revenue to the institution and to the County of Allegheny. There is no evidence, however, that at the time of the passage and approval of the Act of the General Assembly of the 18th day of June, 1883, any labor of convicts or inmates of this institution was or had been let by contract, and we find that no such labor had been so let by or for said institution at said date.

7. During every month of the year 1907, and more or less for seven years past, workhouse prisoners were employed as laborers outside of the prison grounds. By arrangement and contract with the prison officers, prisoners labored on adjoining or neighboring farms, helped to build or repair houses in the town of Hoboken, or elsewhere, worked on township roads, hauled materials cleaned carts, and in fact did whatever they were able to do in line of employment sought or suggested. Sometime their wok was that of common laborers such as excavating for cellars, trenches, etc., sometimes it was that of a skilled laborer, such as a carpenter, plumber, painter, stone mason, plasterer, etc. For all of these employments a price was contracted for and paid by the employers to the prison officers, and the revenues so derived were used for the benefit of the institution and for the County of Allegheny. When hired out, all prisoners were in the charge of an officer or keeper of the institution. It was the practice to send them out in squads or gangs of not more than twelve men each, in charge of an officer. The price of the officer was three dollars per day. If the gang included a foreman for a particular kind of work his price was four dollars per day; ordinary laborers were charged for at the rate of seventy-five cents per day; carpenter work, under the direction of a foreman, at the rate of one dollar per day. How these prices compared with those for similar work by skilled workmen and laborers in the common pursuit of their trades, occupations and employments, does not appear in evidence.

The same conditions prevail out in Allegheny County relative to its workhouses, and I believe the act proposed by Representative Kuhns is practically a reiteration of the Act of 1907. The proposed act does not repeal the Act of 1907, in which it gives the prison boards of the workhouses of the counties of the state the authority to employ convicts as they see fit.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I am glad and I want you to understand that I was aware of the fact, when I introduced this little bill, that we have on the statutes of 1907 a law, as the gentleman from Allegheny tells you; and I am glad that it works in the County of Allegheny just the way he tells you, and I don't want to spoil the good work in the County of Allegheny by this little bill, not whatever. But we must not forget that there are sixty-six other counties besides Allegheny, and this little bill was spoiled the other day when "county" was changed to "public;" and on that ground, gentlemen of the House, let the other sixty-six counties have a law whereby they can work their prisoners just the same way as the County of Allegheny is doing today successfully with the act of 1907; and on this ground and to save time, I move that this little bill be recommitted to the Committee on Counties and Townships, and have it plainly fixed "counties" in place of "public," and have the title and the first section changed.

I therefore move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Counties and Townships.

Mr. DONNELLY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BIGGER. Mr. Speaker, the act of 1907, does not apply specifically to Allegheny County. It says:

"That for the better employment of the prisoners and improvement of highways of this Commonwealth, from and after the passage of this act, it shall and may be lawful to require every able bodied male prisoner, now or hereafter confined under sentence within any jail or workhouse now or hereafter to be established in this Commonwealth, to do and perform eight hours of manual labor each day of such imprisonment, except on Sunday or legal holidays. Provided, That this act shall not include any prisoner awaiting trial, or over ten per centum of the prisoners confined in any workhouse, unless authorized by the managers or officers in control thereof."

The Act under which the officials of the Allegheny County workhouse proceeded is the special act of 1865, but this act of 1907 is a general law applying to all the workhouses and prisons in the State excepting the penal institutions.

On the motion to recommit recurring,

The motion was agreed to.
